U. S. SECTOR NEAR VERDUN

CLAIMS BAKER IS DECEIVED BY ADVISERS

Hitchcock Is Given a Reply by Williams and Reed.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Baker again was accused in the senate today of unintentionally misleading the people in regard to the progress made in preparations for American participation in the war.

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, Democrat, characterized Mr. Baker's assurance of the possibility of transporting 1,000,000 men to France this year as "absolutely preposterous" and an "exaggeration of the wildest sort."

The Democratic leader challenged the administration to show where it is going to get the 5,000,000 tons of shipping necessary to supply an army of 1,000,000 men in France. The failure of the administration shipbuilding program he pronounced "nothing short of shocking," and the transportation system of the country after eleven months of war he described as a "gigantic wreck."

Denies Effort to Handicap.

Mr. Hitchcock likened the president to a "king surrounded by his court" from whom the truth is carefully withheld.

The Democratic leader, who usually is in accord with the administration, disclaimed partisanship in pointing out the shortcomings of the management of the war. He said he would not hold the president personally responsible for the departmental inefficiency revealed nor would he thrust upon him the gigantic task of coördinating the multifarious war making agencies.

To assist the president, he said, the senate military affairs committee propose the creation of a war cabinet and director of munitions.

Williams' Reply Bitter.

Senator Williams of Mississippi, replying in defense of the administration, imputed disloyal motives to Senator Hitchcock. He recalled that the Nebraska senator a couple of years ago advocated an embargo on the export of munitions.

"That was the German game then," Senator Williams said. "The German game now is muckraking the administration."

Senator Williams asserted that if the war cabinet and munitions director bills had been forced on the president over his veto the executive would ignore them, whereupon Senator Gallinger inquired whether that would not make the president liable to impeachment.

Senator Reed of Missouri also took up the cudgels in behalf of the administration, but he took Senator Williams to task for questioning the loyalty of Senator Hitchcock and other critics of the conduct of the war.

Baker Refuses a Reply.

Secretary Baker declined tonight to comment upon Senator Hitchcock's challenge of his reliability. Secretary of the Navy Daniels said that Mr. Baker "was right when he said we would have 500,000 men in France early in 1918," but he would make no predictions regarding the transportation of 1,000,000 men, which he said is entirely dependent upon availability of tonnage.

"RESTLESS" DAYS IN GERMANY

Innocent Bystander—"I think they're beginning to go to pieces over there!"

KAISER PALACE HIT BY BOMB IN BERLIN RIOT

Troops and Police Fight; Food Conference Called.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The Daily Express correspondent in Geneva wires that the Journal de Geneve learns from Berlin that strikers threw a bomb against the imperial palace in Berlin. No further details are known. Military guards and the police dispersed the strikers, making twenty-five arrests. A number of trees in the parks were uprooted and sawed into pieces.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The Amsterdam correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company says the sudden return of Dr. von Kuehlmann and Count Czernin to Berlin is considered in German political circles as the forerunner of the rupture of the negotiations at Brest-Litovsk. The Bulgarian premier, Vaseil Radoslavoff, and the Turkish grand vizier, Talaat Pasha, also are expected at Berlin. A semi-official Berlin dispatch says that the discussions in the high political and military conference there concerned food questions and Germany's relations with its eastern enemies, especially the desired conclusion of peace with Ukraine.

(By the Associated Press.)

From the meagre accounts of the economic situation in Germany reaching neutral countries—and they are meagre to a degree—the general strike that prevailed throughout the empire last week has virtually ended.

Apparently the hard hand of the military authorities had much to do with the breaking up of the movement on the part of the workers, whose full energies are required by the government at the present moment to aid in the prosecution of the war, for even their leaders are reported to have advised the men to return to their work.

Feared Death Threat.

The proclamation of martial law in Berlin and throughout Brandenburg by the military commander evidently had its full effect, for, with the threat of summary court martial and execution staring them in the face, the strikers carried out no disorders in Berlin on Saturday like those earlier in the week.

Industrial quietude now seems to pervade the entire country except at Jena, capital of the duchy of Saxe-Weimer, where new trouble has arisen. It is not improbable that the strike here has been engendered by sympathetic feelings on the part of the numerous students in this educational center.

Food Shortage Worries.

Under the surface the political waters in Germany and Austria-Hungary still are disturbed. This is indicated by the announcement that the German and Austro-Hungarian foreign ministers and Gen. von Ludendorff, chief of the German war lords, next to Von Hindenburg, have met in close conference in an endeavor to bring about an amelioration of the tense economic and political questions affecting Germany and the dual monarchy. Also they doubtless laid plans to combat the peace views and desires of large parts of the populations in the two countries.

DITTMANN TO PRISON.

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—[Via London.]—Wilhelm Dittmann, the Radical Socialist deputy who was tried by an extraordinary court martial on the charge of inciting to high treason, resistance to public authority, and transgression of the prohibition against participating in the direction of the general strike, was sentenced to five years' confinement in a fortress today. Dittmann also was sentenced to two months' imprisonment for resisting public authority. Mitigating circumstances and the absence of dishonorable intentions were admitted.

Soldiers Spur On Strike.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 4. — Several corps of German soldiers home on leave are said to have been among those fomenting the general strikes

Pershing Line in Region of Toul Fortress

(By the Associated Press.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Feb. 5.—The sector occupied by the American troops is northwest of Toul. It is inadvisable to mention the number of men in line, the length of the sector, and other details.

The location of the sector was kept secret until it became certain that the enemy had discovered it.

Toul, capital of the department of Meurthe-et-Moselle, is fourteen miles west of Nancy and is a fortress of the first class.

The present battle line is about sixteen miles north of Toul, where it extends eastward from St. Mihiel toward the German border. Recently there have been raids by French troops in the region of Flirey and Seichepray.

These towns are about twelve and fifteen miles to the east of the Meuse river and about twenty-five miles southeast of Verdun.

When the American trench was raided last November it was said in the German official statement that the Americans were stationed along the Marne-Rhine canal northeast of Luneville. Toul is about twenty-eight miles west-northwest of Luneville.

CANADA ORDERS 3 DAY SHUTDOWN TO SAVE ITS COAL

12 State Fuel Chiefs Urge Keeping Up of Heatless Days.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 4.—An order in council was adopted by the cabinet tonight, upon recommendation of C. A. Magrath, Dominion fuel controller, suspending the operation of manufacturing plants Feb. 9, 10, and 11, as a conservation measure.

The order includes all munitions plants. It does not apply to western Canada or to the maritime provinces.

The order follows closely along the lines of the American five day closing order, and grants virtually the same exemptions. It also is provided that during the months of February and March all golf, yacht, canoe, hunt, and country clubs must be closed except on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Heatless Days for Theaters.

For the present, heatless Mondays are ordered only for theaters and other places of amusement. They must remain closed every Monday from Feb. 18 to March 25.

It is understood it was the intention to pass the order last week, but that it was held up because of doubt as to further action in the United States and the possibility of the discontinuance of conservation regulations there. Mr. Magrath is in Washington coöperating with the American authorities in meeting the present emergency.

"KEEP UP FUELLESS DAYS."

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—A critical coal situation throughout the east was pictured to Fuel Administrator Garfield today by a dozen state fuel administrators called to Washington for a conference on general fuel conditions.

So serious is the shortage in some states that a number of administrators urged that there be no suspension of the Monday closing order until conditions are bettered. In these states, it was declared, the people are only a day ahead with their coal supply.

The administrator for New York City said apartment houses and tenements were exhausting their supplies and coal was not available to fill the demand. New Hampshire, with a three days' supply, had the most favorable report to make of all the states represented. Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and Michigan all reported they were dependent on day to day shipments.

Confers with McAdoo Today.

Suspension of the Monday closings will be discussed tomorrow at a conference between Dr. Garfield and Director General McAdoo. Some predictions were made that the closings would be abolished, but the opposite view was held by many.

Because of another cold wave over the east, accompanied by high wind, which drifted snow badly, the railroads failed today to establish the coal hauling record for which officials had hoped.

COUNCIL PASSES LAWS TO CLEAN OUT GUNMEN

CHICAGO'S FORCES MOVE ON CRIME

CITY COUNCIL ACTION.

Amended an ordinance to make minimum penalty for carrying concealed weapons $200 instead of $25.

Ordered pawnbrokers to report thieves who tender stolen property, under penalty of revocation of license, and prohibited owners of stolen property from paying pawnbrokers for its return.

Schools, fire, police, and civil service committee recommended ordinance providing charge shall be made for policemen assigned for special detail for periods of three days or more.

POLICE ACTIVITY.

Acting Chief Alcock, with backing of state's attorney, called on Chicago Bar association to act to purge the bar of crooked lawyers who protect criminals and direct work of crooked bondsmen.

Two more persons convicted of vagrancy. This is six in a week—three times as many as convicted in whole of 1917.

Police said they were still working on clews to Illinois Central holdup and murder.

Three hundred and twenty criminals and undesirables were rounded up in twenty-four hours.

PAROLE PROBLEM.

C. M. Reed, state parole agent, defended state law, and John W. Houston, chief of adult probation department, showed records which indicated that of 2,605 probation cases in the Criminal and Municipal courts 1,731 were not investigated prior to probation orders.

Will Colvin, state superintendent of pardons and paroles, to appear before the council subcommittee on crime today. A. Emery Lyon of Central Howard association and Maj. M. A. Meslein, in charge of Hope hall, also are to appear.

State's Attorney Hoyne and Acting Chief Alcock rapped parole law and insisted its repeal would result in great decrease in crime.

Plans for massmeeting to crystallize public sentiment behind law enforcing agencies were perfected by churches of Chicago.

BY THE MAYOR.

Mayor Thompson, asked for his opinion on New York Sullivan law, which makes it a felony to carry a revolver, said:

"I don't know much about that law. Anyway, the crime situation is up to the police. The city council also is doing something on crime."

Closes Bar, Orders All to Aid the Police.

While the police yesterday were tightening their net about the roving gangs of holdup men which have committed a record setting number of crimes in the last few weeks, the Chicago city council thrust aside all precedents to assist in the fight being waged against lawlessness.

Other official agencies also were busy. The police continued the general roundup of suspected criminals. The courts held to their promises and prisoners held on charges of vagrancy fared badly. The state's attorney and the acting chief of police led an attack on the parole law as the evil responsible for the reign of lawlessness. Legitimate lawyers were called on to act against the shyster—the crony and backer of thieves.

Deaf Druggist Shot.

Despite the bitter cold—ordinarily an incentive to robbery—only five holdups were reported, the police say. The most serious of these came last night.

Charles Minov, a druggist at Flournoy and Paulina streets, was shot through the breast and dangerously wounded by a holdup man when, because of deafness, he failed to hear the robber's command to hold up his hands. Sam Singer of 625 South Marshfield avenue, a patron, fainted when he was told to throw up his hands. The robber fled without taking anything. Minov was taken to the county hospital, where it was said he may not recover.

Council Gets Busy.

By unanimous action the city council passed an order calling upon the mayor to revoke the license of the saloon at 3800 Cottage Grove avenue because it was a rendezvous of thieves. According to old council members, this is the first time the body has ever attempted to advise a city executive concerning a revocation.

The council did not stop there. In quick time it passed an ordinance without reference to a committee, to make the maximum fine of $200 for gun toters the minimum as well. The state law prevents the assessment of a more severe penalty.

Gun Toters Are Freed.

The aldermen also called upon the chief probation officer, the city prosecutor, and the police to explain why out of a total of 893 men arrested for carrying concealed weapons, 132 were placed on probation, 31 cases were nonsuited, 43 were not prosecuted, and 315 discharged. Out of the total, according to the order, prepared by Ald. Steffen, 282 were sent to the house of correction and 90 were fined.

An ordinance was enacted providing for the revocation of licenses of saloons and pool halls which are used for hangouts of criminals and undesirables. Owners are compelled to report the presence of such characters to the police.

Reports on "Guntoting."

Another ordinance provides that stolen property placed in pawn shops shall be delivered to the owner without costs.

The aldermen also passed an order directing that the charge of carrying concealed weapons shall not be changed. Weekly reports on all guntoting cases and their history shall be made by the chief of police. He was also asked to report to the council a detailed statement of all vagrancy cases during the last year.

In order to keep more policemen on post the council committee on schools, fire, police, and civil service recommended for passage an ordinance which provides that persons requesting police for special detail for a longer period than three days shall pay for the special service.

Crime Facts Prompt Action.

All of the crime curbing action was taken at the request of the committee on schools, fire, police, and civil service, headed by Ald. Franz, who is also a member of the special council crime subcommittee of which Ald. Byrne is chairman. Facts brought out before the subcommittee at a meeting of the subcommittee last Friday prompted the introduction and passage of the council resolution to revoke the Cottage Grove saloon license.

Three police officers, who had testified in vagrancy cases on trial in Municipal Judge Fry's court, stated that they had arrested many known thieves and vagrants in the place, that it had formerly been owned by a pickpocket, and that at present it was owned and operated by Edward Brophy, the

$25,000 SUIT AGAINST PASTOR FOLLOWS SERMON

Students of suburban history will recall the famous Berwyn "spite" fence when they read herewith that Attorney J. Means Smith yesterday filed the precipe of a damage suit for $25,000 against the Rev. W. Clyde Smith, acting pastor of the First Presbyterian church of that suburb. Neither parties to the suit could be reached last night.

But Arthur J. Dunham, neighbor of Attorney Smith and an elder of the church, said he believed the suit was a reply to statements which the Rev. Mr. Smith had made in church last Sunday. He told the congregation, Mr. Dunham said, that Attorney Smith had caused trouble in the church by his attitude and his disagreements with other pastors and officials.

"Attorney Smith drove our last pastor from the church," said Mr. Dunham. "He was formally dropped as a member of the church in November of 1917, and now he has started this trouble with the man who is acting as temporary pastor."

WARMER TODAY; SOUTH ZEPHYRS BY TOMORROW

With the prospect of a rising temperature Chicago today emerges from a twenty-four hour stretch, the coldest on record for February. During the twenty-four hours the mercury was not above zero. The forecast for today is for fair weather with a rising temperature during the day and night; Wednesday, partly cloudy and much warmer, winds becoming fresh south to southwest.

The demoralization of train service, due to "frozen engines," was severe.

Boy's Ax Keeps Lyons School Fires Burning

Dallas Gear is a hero in his district near Lyons. When school district No. 105, near Lyons, was forced to close because of lack of coal, Dallas, 10 years old, took his sled and went into his father's woods, cut sufficient wood to keep the stove going, then hauled it to the schoolhouse. The boy's father, George Gear, is president of the school board in that district.

Watchman Saves Bridge from Two Dynamiters

Hammond, Ind., Feb. 4.—John Martin, a watchman guarding the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern bridge at Cavanaugh, near Hammond, saved the structure last night when he fired upon two men carrying dynamite. He caused the men to drop the explosives and run. Blood stains were found in the snow.

CHILDREN SAVED AS FIRE DESTROYS GERMAN SCHOOL

More than 100 children were sent into the freezing weather yesterday when fire destroyed the German parochial school in Desplaines. A defective flue is supposed to have caused the fire. The children marched out in orderly fashion, although there was great danger. Neighbors went to their rescue and took them into their houses, meanwhile sending to nearby stores for extra sweaters and wraps to protect them.

Firemen were unable to make headway against the flames because of frozen water plugs. It was necessary to thaw out the plugs before a stream of water could be projected. A number of firemen were carried from the scene suffering from cold.

Arrangements have been made to take care of the children in the South Desplaines school until their own is rebuilt.

Mrs. Francis J. Carolan Loses Gems Worth $30,000

New York, Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Police are looking for a young woman who is suspected of knowing something of the theft of $30,000 from Mrs. Francis J. Carolan, daughter of the late George M. Pullman and sister of Mrs. Frank O. Lowden. The young woman is said to have made inquiries for Mrs. Carolan at the St. Regis on the day the jewels disappeared.

THE WAR

Intense aerial activity occurs on western and Italian fronts. Teutons raid Venice and other Italian cities. Allied and German flyers bomb foe's positions and meet in many battles on western front.

Report from Geneva says bomb was hurled at kaiser's palace by strikers. Peace and food council held in Berlin. Deputy Dittmann sent to prison.

London reports successful trench raid; admits men lost to raiding foes; claims Germans repulsed with loss near Havrincourt.

United States takes control of crude oil industry and will license all big dealers.

COMMUTERS FIND AN UPHILL JOB, EVEN ON LEVEL

Suburban travel on the Chicago and Northwestern road last night was interesting, if not comfortable. Because of the fuel holiday all suburban trains for the north shore were canceled between 5:45 and 7:01 o'clock; therefore considerable patronage developed for the 7:01. The would-be commuters, on reaching the Northwestern depot, found no train ready for them. They waited in patience until 7:35 p. m., when an incoming train, having discharged its passengers, was commandeered into substituting for the missing 7:01 outgoing train.

The passengers piled aboard and then sat in the cold cars for an hour and ten minutes, waiting for a locomotive. Inquiry brought forth the statement that the engines were all frozen up in the roundhouse and that the particular engine which had brough the train in at 7:35 was out of coal, out of water, and out of commission.

At 8:45 a locomotive was finally found and was attached to the outgoing trains, and it started north. It was exactly one hour and fifteen minutes in reaching Hubbard Woods, arriving there at 10 o'clock. Reports from stations farther north are somewhat indefinite.

father of a police character. They said they had made these statements under oath.

Acting Chief of Police Alcock was asked to recommend the revocation of the license upon the sworn testimony of his men.

The acting chief was summoned before the council committee yesterday morning and asked what action had been taken. He said he believed he had the matter on his desk. The committee recommended that a council resolution be introduced and passed.

During the afternoon Edward Brophy the younger, also known as Eddie Brodie, was convicted of vagrancy by a jury in Judge Fry's court and sentenced to three months in the house of correction.

Another Crime Reducing Move.

Another crime reducing move was started when the acting chief of police, with the support of State's Attorney Hoyne and Chief Justice Kersten of the Criminal court, demanded that the Chicago bar purge itself of crooke lawyers through disbarment.

Efforts will be made to get the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association to take the initiative in this work to stamp out the chief aid of the criminals and the crooked bondsman.

"I think that Chief Alcock is right when he says that certain lawyers loaf about 'gun joints' to pick up business among the worst sort of criminals," the state's attorney said, "and that this sort of attorney is the right hand man of the crooked bondsmen."

Judge Kersten said such a move would have the approval and active assistance of the men on the bench in the Criminal court. The judge last week asked the bar association to furnish him with a list of high class lawyers upon whom he could call who defendants in the Criminal court had to have counsel appointed to defend them.

PROGRESS IN I. C. MURDER.

Although Acting Chief Alcock and Chief of Detectives Mooney last night refused to make any definite statement, it was said in othe. police quarters that the police have established the identity of all of the men engaged in the Illinois Central station holdup, in which Dennis Tierney, a collector, was murdered and $1,800 was taken.

More statements were taken during the day from men and women under arrest and the impression was that the police were near the solution of a half dozen recent big robbery cases, including several bank burglaries.

Woman Important Witness.

Considered most important of the women under arrest is Alice Jacobs, 1617 West Jackson boulevard. She is said to have been the woman who accompanied the four men believed to have been the Illinois Central robbers in the blue automobile from 2141 West Madison street to the house of Mrs. Tillie Sullivan, 4140 West Monroe street. It was at Mrs. Sullivan's home, the police say, that Raymond and Moran and their gang made their headquarters.

Identification Reported.

James Pelikan, the chauffeur who was forced to drive the four robbers who killed Dennis Tierney at the Randolph street station Friday night, was reported last night to have looked at the body of George Raymond and identified it as that of one of the men in the Illinois Central crime. The police late last night, however, said nobody yesterday had identified Raymond as one of the Tierney murderers.

Among the other men and women who are being held in connection with the Illinois Central gang and kindred bands are Elizabeth Davis, 2141 West Madison street; Elisabeth La Geer, 3531 West Madison street; Vera Wilder, 2141 West Madison street; Harry Higgins, 153 South Western avenue; Walter Clark, 324 South Washtenaw avenue; and James Morton, Eda, Nev.

The activities of Mrs. Sullivan in her association with the criminals who are said to have gathered at her home were under close scrutiny.

Signed Suspects' Bonds.

The police learned that she had signed four bonds in recent criminal cases. Among the men she stood surety for is William Sharkey, charged with burglary. He disappeared, but showed up later when his bond was declared forfeited. He was placed on probation last March. Oswald Fischer, indicted for operating a confidence game, was another who used the woman as surety. The cases against him were nolle prossed.

Three men who signed bonds for George Moran, arrested Saturday in the criminal roundup, were called before Judge McGoorty to show why a bond forfeiture entered in this case should not be enforced. They scheduled property worth $58,000, and Moran was released on Oct. 5, 1917. The forfeiture was entered December, 1917.

Chief of Detectives Mooney obtained a continuance of the inquest into the death of George Raymond. The continuance was granted in order to give the police time to arrest the third member of the gang which engaged in a revolver fight with the police which resulted in the death of Raymond and the wounding of Dr. James H. Hancock and three policemen. Dr. Hancock is still in a critical condition. The wounded policemen are rapidly recovering. The acting chief said it had been definitely established that one of the two bullets which struck the physician had been fired from a policeman's revolver and the other from Raymond's weapon.

The police broke all recent records in their roundup of undesirables and police characters during the twenty-four hours ended yesterday morning. Three hundred and twenty men were taken to stations.

Alcock Reports Arrests.

In his January report on crime made yesterday to the city council, Chief Alcock stated that the department during the month had arrested and prosecuted no less than 132 habitual criminals. In the list of the defendants named in the report were some of the most widely known criminals in the middle west.

A number of criminals fared badly in the courts during the day. Otto Malm, who has a record of robberies and burglaries, was hit in two courts. Judge John K. Prindiville fined him $100 and costs in the Chicago avenue court on a charge of vagrancy. Judge Swanson assessed a fine of $100 against him in the Boys' court. Malm also has a vagrancy case pending against him in Judge Swanson's court.

Judge Fry gave William H. Kerfoot a thirty day sentence on a vagrancy charge. Judge Swanson sentenced three boys to the house of correction on charges of larceny. They were Joseph Skawska, John Marlewski, and Theodore Waljanowski. He also gave John Mango ninety days in the house of correction for larceny and held Michael Perry and Melvin Harris to the grand jury in $1,500 bonds each on charges of robbery.

PAROLED MAN IN EVERY CRIME, IS BELIEF OF HOYNE

Laxness of the Probation Officials Blamed for Holdups.

Commenting on the crime situation in Chicago State's Attorney Hoyne yesterday made another attack on the parole laws and system of Illinois. The prosecutor mentioned the shooting of the desparado, George Raymond, in a pitched battle with the police Saturday, the arrest of his "pal," George Moran, and the recent arrests of other criminals with prison records, as glaring results of the "parole evil."

"It is almost impossible to pick out any serious crime that is not committed by men who have been in the penitentiary," Mr. Hoyne said. "The arrest of Moran and the death of Raymond just reveal another case where, according to parole statistics, the paroled men 'made good.' They always 'make good' until they are actually convicted of another crime. Even if they have committed a hundred crimes while on parole, we must convict them before they seem to have violated their paroles.

Report Shows Laxness.

"Here is a report made by my assistants, Walker and McKay, recently, on the case of one Joseph Pierson. It illustrates the case exactly:

"'Memorandum of Joseph Pierson, jointly indicted with others for the burglary of a wagonload of sugar from the Chicago Beverage company, 3423 West Thirteenth street, Oct. 31, 1917.

"'Mr. Devine of the probation office was in court during this trial. We asked the probation officer not to force us to trial with this defendant, but to take out a warrant for his arrest for violation of parole, which the probation officer refused to do. It seems that the rule of the probation office is that unless the man is convicted they will not ask for a warrant for his arrest for violation.

Known as Criminal.

"'The evidence shows that the defendant pleaded guilty before Judge Swanson in the Boys' court and that the probation officer was present when he pleaded guilty.

"'In explanation of Devine's refusal to take out a warrant for violation of his probation he made this significant answer, "Well, he is pleading not guilty, and he has a right to change his plea."

"'This case is a most notorious violation of the spirit of the parole law.'

Where Do They Go?

"How many paroled prisoners are there right now in Chicago and Cook county?" continued Mr. Hoyne. "How many parole agents are there? How do they look after the paroled prisoners; how do they keep track of them; how do the paroled men report; where do agents get their information regarding the actions of the paroled men? Is it not true that they tell the men to report every so often and then are satisfied if the paroled men say, 'We're good boys, we've got jobs, we've done nothing wrong'?

"It seems to me that however the pardon board or parole agents may work, it is not possible for them to keep proper track of the paroled prisoners and to follow up what they do. Certainly if the whole Chicago police force can't keep track of the criminals the parole people can't do it.

"This paroling of criminals has become a menace—an evil. Out of 187 who have been paroled only seven have been returned to prison. Where are the others? How many are in Chicago, and what are they doing?"

GLOOMY PICTURE OF THE ALLIES IN WARRING EUROPE

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Dr. Alonzo Taylor, speaking tonight for the federal administration and the allies, said most of Europe was beaten to its knees and predicted the American nation would be on war rations before summer.

Dr. Taylor's address was delivered at the home of Banker E. T. Stotesbury.

Dr. Taylor, who was with Col. House in Paris, pictured the German strikes as mere camouflage created for the occasion, the British and the French beaten to a standstill, the allies' morale in worse shape than the morale of Germany, and America, reckless, wasteful, uninformed, and still unready for the stupendous shocks which she must bear before the conflict is ended.

Dr. Taylor said the strikes in Germany were not serious.

"Six months ago—and you never heard of it on this side of the water—there were disturbances on the English docks ten times more perilous to the allied cause than the recent strikes in Berlin," the doctor continued. "Germany will not collapse; Germany is as cool now and as methodical, if not quite as assured, as she ever was."

Speaking of the need of food abroad, Dr. Taylor said:

"Our waste of sugar to this date is disgraceful and flagrant. And our waste in other things is as great. The only remedy is a consistent and general rationing system that will have to come for all classes alike."

George Kaiser Had No Part in I. C. Robbery

George Kaiser, whose name has been mentioned in connection with the investigation of the robbery of the Illinois Central station at Randolph street with the statement that he formerly was in the employ of the railroad, was said yesterday by the police to have had no connection with the affair. The police declare he never was employed by the Illinois Central railroad and is in no way concerned in the investigation.

CALLS DEATH ACCIDENTAL.

That the death of Richard Johnson of 850 Fletcher street was accidental and exonerating Dominic Amanato of all blame was the verdict of a jury yesterday.

More Police, Prison Cells for Gun Toters, Is Alcock's Plea

BY JOHN H. ALCOCK,
[Acting Chief of Police.]

If I had the power I could stop Chicago's crime epidemic in a few hours. My program would be:

Make gun-toting a penitentiary offense.
Repeal the parole law.
Hang murderers.
Give stick-up men, automobile bandits, burglars and pickpockets the limit the law will allow.
Increase police pay and thus efficiency.
Put from 2,000 to 5,000 more patrolmen on the force.
Investigate shyster lawyers and bondsmen.

The parole law is the seat of the trouble. Here is its main objection:

No law should be made to fit the criminal. The parole law does. The man who commits crime should be punished.

The police are not hard hearted. We may be, in the sense that we do not want desperate criminals to walk the streets. But still there are exceptions to all rules.

Some Deserve Parole.

We will imagine that you are a business man, for instance. I have a shop next door. We quarrel. You shoot and kill me. It is your first offense. You are not a criminal. You go to the penitentiary. After a reasonable period you are paroled. The probabilities are that you will not be a menace to society. You killed a man, but in hot blood. Except for that you are a good citizen.

But hardened criminals must be restrained. The legislature must do its duty. Until the parole law is abolished, or until sweeping reforms are made, the parole board ought to cooperate to the fullest extent.

Few Crooks Make Good.

Let them stop paroling criminals from now on. We then can gradually round up the men who have been given their freedom. But with crooks continually going free our task is endless.

Backers of the parole law say that 80 per cent of paroled prisoners make good. They don't. Five parole agents watch 450 men in the Chicago district. They can't keep track of every man. It's a physical impossibility. We catch 20 per cent of them for some form or crime, but how many get away? That's the question. I'll venture to say that not 50 per cent of paroled prisoners make good citizens.

Take the case of this man Moran, whom we caught after the west side battle the other day. Moran was wanted at the time for forfeiting more than $20,000 in bonds. He jumped $15,000 bail permitted in the Criminal court and $5,000 allowed by Judge Landis in the federal court.

Desperado Out on Bond.

Raymond, the crook who was killed, was out on $35,000 bond furnished before Judge Newcomer. Think of it! A man dangerous enough to require $35,000 bail walking the streets and as free as the air we breathe.

That brings me to shyster lawyers and crooked bondsmen. I demand that the Bar association make a rigid investigation into the doings and records of shyster lawyers. These men frequent gun joints, associate with crooks and their friends, and drum up trade. When a bandit gets in trouble he calls for a crooked lawyer, who gets him his freedom.

The welfare of Chicago and the very lives of our citizens, wives, and children are endangered by such practices. They are entitled to demand the disbarment of crooked attorneys. And if we haven't a state law controlling shyster lawyers and crooked bondsmen let's get busy and force one through the legislature.

Cut Bondsmen's Graft.

It should be impossible for any bondsman to obtain money for going on bond. Here is the way things work out:

The shyster lawyer consorts with the crook. The bandit murders a man or robs him and goes to the attorney for help. The lawyer dickers with the thief and finds out how much money he has. If the crook is able to pay the lawyer and put up the price for bail bonds, the attorney hunts up a bondsman. And he pays the bondsman with the crook's money. So, you see, the crooked lawyer is at the bottom of the whole mess. Dig them out like rats in a hole.

Let this fact sink home:

The parole law, the lack of a gun toting law, crooked lawyers, and crooked bondsmen are responsible for the Illinois Central robbery and the gun fight the next day. They are responsible for the crime epidemic which we now are undergoing.

Police on Every Corner.

I want a policeman on every corner. I want them to be so thick on the streets that crooks won't dare move without, being caught. That is the situation in New York. We must have it here.

We need from 2,000 to 5,000 more men on the force. If I had them I would put them all on the street. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

The force now is handicapped both by lack of men and by poor pay. The men must have more money. A patrolman cannot do his best when he is worrying about bread in the cupboard.

LACK OF INQUIRY ON PROBATIONS LAID TO COURTS

Figures Show Many Freed to Continue Crimes.

A total of 1,734 first offenders charged with crimes were released on probation without investigation by judges in the Criminal and Municipal courts last year. Two hundred and ninety-four of this number were placed on probation by Criminal court judges and 1,440 by judges of the Municipal court.

This is the story as told by the records in the office of Judge John W. Houston, head of the Cook county probation department. In his annual reports and published interviews, Judge Houston has always argued that no defendant should be permitted to go on probation until his home surroundings, his business activities, and his general character record is inquired into.

Fewer Make Good.

The records of the probation office indicate that while 88 per cent of the first offenders, placed on probation after investigation, make good, only 73 per cent of the uninvestigated cases have satisfactory probation records. First offenders are placed on probation in the discretion of the judges. During the period of probation—from six months to one year—the judge may call in the defendant and sentence him without further prosecution.

In 1917 429 persons were placed on probation in the Criminal court. Of this number 135 were investigated before action. In the Municipal court the total number of probationers was 2,176, outside the Court of Domestic Relations. Only 736 of these cases were investigated.

Chief Justice George Kersten of the Criminal court yesterday, in discussing the law, which he believes does not operate successfully, said that the general belief that many prisoners in the Pontiac reformatory and Joliet penitentiary were first offenders is without foundation.

Parole vs. Probation.

"Parole and probation is confounded by the layman and often by the police," the judge said. "Probationers are released after conviction by the judge. They are often called paroled men, but in reality they are first offenders released on probation.

"The youth gets his first chance in the Juvenile court. Then, if he persists in wrongdoing, he is indicted, and he gets another chance as a first offender by being placed on probation. If he still continues to commit crimes he is convicted and sentenced. But by that time he's not a tyro in crime and he should not be paroled by the state until careful inquiry is made."

Defends the Law.

"The majority of those who are condemning the new parole law have not even read it. As a result, they don't know what they are talking about."

C. M. Reed, parole officer, made this statement yesterday.

"Even Acting Chief of Police Alcock admitted he had not read the law after denouncing it at the meeting last Friday of the special council subcommittee on crime," continued Mr. Reed.

Mr. Reed said the parole law had been declared the best in the United States at a recent meeting of the American Prison association.

JUSTICE

Being an Example of the Way They Do It on the Border.

ACCOMPANIED by the photograph of two men hanging limply by the neck from a beam in a small shed, the following letter came yesterday to State's Attorney Hoyne:

"Kindly take a good squint at the inclosed photo. This is the way they handle auto thieves in the border towns of Texas. There's no legal monkeying with these d—— pests.

"Your prisoner, Dear (Earl Dear, who shot Rudolph Wolf recently) would have danced on empty air a half hour after his capture. There would have been no (two well known lawyers being named) popping up to defend him, either. If they did, they, too, would join the airy dance.

"It's to be hoped that there will be no legal quibbling over the auto murderer who killed the chauffeur recently. Give him swift and stern justice.

"It wouldn't do any harm to give this letter to the newspapermen to publish. It might put a little horse sense into some of the judges who will persist in handling auto thieves tenderly.

"Very truly yours,
"A CITIZEN WHO ADMIRES YOUR RECORD."

"Them's my sentiments, exactly," said Mr. Hoyne.

600 CHURCHES TO AID RALLY AGAINST CRIME

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Ministers in Chicago decided yesterday to enter definitely into the fight to rid Chicago of its condition of crime, which was described as lamentable.

A committee of twelve will meet today noon. It will be composed of the good citizenship committee of the Chicago Church federation council, representing 600 churches and nine denominations, to prepare a call for a downtown massmeeting to decide on a policy which will give promise of results in ridding the city of the criminal classes and check the crime wave.

Some of the suggestions which the committee will discuss were outlined by the Rev. W. B. Millard, executive secretary of the church federation council. He said:

"One of the questions which ought to be determined is the effect of the parole system. The system, in some directions, is declared to be a menace, and, in other directions, it is said to be helpful to law and order. If criminals are being too freely paroled, we want to help to put a stop to it."

At the Methodist ministers' meeting Bishop Thomas Nicholson criticized certain Methodist ministers and laymen for being too timid in getting into the fight for reforms.

William Goldstein Freed; Story of Murder Upheld

William Goldstein, held by the Cottage Grove avenue police in connection with the death of Henry Hempley, night clerk of the Ford hotel, 2953 South State street, who was shot by robbers, was released last night after his story of the shooting had been substantiated by another guest of the hotel. The police are trying to trace the revolver left behind by the robbers.

MAYOR VETOES COUNCIL REQUEST FOR HALL SURVEY

Upholds Labor but Assails Work of Efficiency Bureau.

Mayor Thompson yesterday vetoed an order passed a week ago by the city council requesting the Chicago bureau of public efficiency and the Chicago Federation of Labor to make an investigation of city hall departments.

The mayor's action was a surprise. An attempt was made to repass the order over the mayor's veto, but it failed by three votes. The vote was 44 yeas to 20 nays. Forty-seven votes are required to pass a matter over a veto.

In his veto message the mayor said he had no objection to the labor federation. He said this organization was fairly representative of the "greater portion of our people who carry the real burden of the city's activity and make for its progress."

Opposes Efficiency Board.

It was against the bureau that the mayor found fault. He said it was "a small, privately organized, and closely controlled association consisting of a few men of excessive wealth whose apparent purpose is to dominate politics for their own ends". He pointed out that "Julius Rosenwald, a multi-millionaire, is chairman of the board of trustees."

"Following the passage of the 1917 appropriation bill," a part of the mayor's veto message read, "I asked Mr. Rosenwald, James Simpson, D. F. Kelly, John W. O'Leary, Walter H. Wilson, Frank H. Armstrong, La Verne W. Noyes, Edward B. Butler, R. Floyd Clinch, A. A. Strom, Albert D. Lasker, Walter L. Fisher, and Bernard W. Snow to call at my office and go over the city's expenditures and revenue. Those who responded said they could not devote the time the investigation would require.

"I understand the bureau is exceedingly anxious for an opportunity to demonstrate that the present state of taxation is too high, or, at least, high enough. Before agreeing to have the bureau come into the city hall I would like to have exact public information furnished as to the valuation of all the property, real and personal, held by the gentlemen comprising the board of trustees of the bureau; also receipted tax bills for the taxes they paid last year."

Suggests Accountants' Inquiry.

The mayor wound up his letter with a statement that if any investigation was needed it could be done by any recognized firm of accountants.

As soon as the veto message was read Ald. Capitain moved that the original order be repassed.

"I regret," said Ald. Capitain, "that the administration has taken this attitude toward the bureau. There is no evidence that the bureau has played politics. Its reports have been unbiased."

Ald. Michaelson made an attack against Mr. Rosenwald.

"Rosenwald was indicted for failure to pay his just share of taxes," said Ald. Michaelson. "The bureau is organized wealth against taxpayers. It has many tax dodgers on it."

Ald. Schwartz made a vigorous defense for the bureau and Mr. Rosenwald.

Roll Call on Motion.

Following is the roll call on the motion to pass the matter over the mayor's veto.

Yeas—Schwartz, Iliff, Richert, Doyle, Nance, A. A. McCormick, Kimball, Fetzer, Cross, Woodhull, Johnson, McNichols, Klaus, Krumdick, Novak, Kerner, Ahern, Maypole, Smith, Rodriguez, Kunz, Healy, Touhy, Walker, R. H. McCormick, Bauler, Steffen, Haderlein, Roeder, Link, Capitain, Pretzel, Lipps, Watson, Kennedy, Littler, Hrubec, Pegram, Fisher, Hazen, Toman, Kostner, T. J. Lynch, and Clark—44.

Nays—Coughlin, Kenna, Norris, Anderson, Hickey, McDonough, Cullerton, Walkowiak, Adamkiewicz, Bowler, Powers, Franz, Ellison, Adamowski, Byrne, O'Toole, W. J. Lynch, Long, Rea, and Michaelson—20.

Of the twenty aldermen who voted with the mayor, only four were Republicans.

The bureau has made but one investigation in the city hall. This was in the water bureau. It recommended meterization of the entire water system. This recommendation has been approved by the council finance committee.

EDITOR OF SLAVIE KILLED BY TRAIN AS SON LOOKS ON

Ladislav Jan Tupy, publisher and editor of the Slavie, the oldest Bohemian newspaper in America, was killed by a Chicago and Northwestern train at High Lake on Saturday.

There was a wreck of two freight trains several blocks from Mr. Tupy's home at High Lake, and he had gone with his son, Darwin, 9 years old, and another boy to look at the clearing of the debris. When they started to return home the boys noticed a freight train coming from the east and called out a warning. Mr. Tupy ran to the opposite side, but directly in front of a passenger train approaching from the west.

Mr. Tupy was 45 years old. He was born in Vodnany, Bohemia, coming to Chicago twenty-four years ago. He applied himself to newspaper work, and several years ago became publisher and editor of the Slavie, now in its fifty-seventh year.

Mr. Tupy has always labored for the Americanization of Bohemians in this country.

CITY FAVORS $100 MINIMUM FOR POLICEMEN

Council Also O. K.s Rate for Clerks and Firemen.

Chicago's city council favors a $100 a month minimum wage for police, firemen, and clerks. If a special session of the legislature is called and the city gets authority to raise additional funds, these increases will be forthcoming.

The council went on record yesterday as favoring this program. Several aldermen, most of them candidates for reelection, introduced resolutions and orders making general increases in pay for city employes, but Ald. Richert, chairman of the finance committee, asked that these be set aside as it was no time to "bunk the employes."

City Hasn't the Money.

"I favor $100 a month as a minimum wage for members of the police and fire departments," said Ald. Richert. "These employes should have it. But why pass resolutions and orders when you know the city hasn't the money to pay, unless you want to lay off more men than you already have dismissed."

Ald. Richert's argument prevailed and his suggestion was adopted making it the sense of the council that the increases would be given if money could be found. This carried with it a motion by Ald. Rodriguez that all employes who receive less than $1,500 a year be given a 15 per cent increase, and those who get from $1,500 to $1,800 a 10 per cent increase.

"Why not overload the budget about $3,500,000 and let the city pay living wages?" asked Ald. Kennedy.

"It was less than a year ago," retorted Ald. Watson, "that you advocated having a budget within the revenue. Have you changed your mind?"

Only $23,400,000 to Spend.

"We have but $23,400,000 to spend," pointed out Ald. A. A. McCormick. "How are you going to stretch this to $28,000,000?"

Ald. Schwartz and Byrne got into a heated tilt over the salary question. The former apologized for some of his remarks to the latter.

About every alderman who is a candidate for reelection made a speech. Most of the talks were about union labor. These stopped when it was pointed out that the city has always paid union wage scales and intends to continue this.

GERMANS HAVE NEAR 2,850,000 ON WEST FRONT

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, Feb. 4.—The Germans to date have concentrated between 180 and 190 divisions (2,700,000 to 2,850,000 men) on the western front in preparation for their expected spring offensive.

Since the allied drive last April the maximum of the German concentration on the western front consisted of only 155 divisions, until the Russian armistice permitted the increase to the present strength.

One hundred and fifteen divisions already are on the lines, while the remaining sixty-five to seventy-five are held in reserve, presumably for the purpose of rushing into a surprise offensive or checking the allies, should the Germans leave to them the initiative of the spring offensive.

ENEMY ALIENS KNOCK KAISER AS THEY REGISTER

William Kaiser of 531 North Wells street was one of the first to register as an enemy alien in the Chicago avenue police district yesterday.

"Any relation to the party we hear so much about?" asked Sergt. John Rieck, in charge.

"Not so you could notice it," said Kaiser. "But it will be some connection if I ever get a chance to bust him on the nose."

It was an expression of feeling heard from many of those among the German born noncitizens of Chicago who were first to appear in the registration of enemy aliens, the number of which is estimated at 25,000.

Registration Is Light.

Owing to the severity of the weather the registration was light, though the opening of the registration rooms in the various police stations found numerous declarants eager to have done with the formalities imposed upon them.

Postmaster Carlile found his full corps of office attachés ready to begin the work of registering aliens at 6 o'clock in the morning. The postmaster will take the declarations of all those who regularly receive their mail through the general-delivery and those in the rural delivery sections.

By 11 o'clock there had been ninety registrations in the Chicago avenue station. The mood of the declarants was cheerful and mostly pro-American.

Finger Prints Taken.

Keen interest was taken in the preparation of the declaration papers. One of the features which aroused curiosity was the finger print method. Each declarant was required to press his thumb and fingers upon a square of glass that had been thinly inked and then to register this inked impression on a card to be filed for further identification purposes.

Those stations which filed reports last night gave the number of registrations as follows:

Central	23	Englewood	81
South Clark	36	East Side	22
Brighton Park	14	Kensington	20
Thirty-fifth-st	32	Summerdale	180
Fiftieth-st.	101	Town Hall	290
Hyde Park	37	Grand Crossing	41
Morgan Park	1

Evanston led the north shore towns in the number of alien enemies registered, reporting eighteen. The other towns which registered aliens were Glencoe, 12; Winnetka, 8; Kenilworth, 4.

In Cicero thirty who had sought to register were turned away for lack of blanks. Seventy were registered. The registration in the western suburbs follows: Forest Park, 13; River Forest, 9; Oak Park, 20; Berwyn, 3; La Grange, 12; Riverside, 4; Lyons, 2; Melrose Park, 8; Maywood, 11.

COAL SITUATION IMPROVING, BUT IS STILL ACUTE

Railroads Do Well Despite the Stress; Deliveries Ready This A. M.

Raymond Durham, county fuel administrator, gave hope last night that despite the acute fuel situation there was some indication of improvement. The administrator issued the following formal statement:

"False statements gained circulation today in regard to the fuel situation in Chicago. While there is a shortage in certain districts and while the intense cold has caused increasing suffering and we do not belittle the hardship and suffering, the administration is working as rapidly as possible to overcome the shortage in the localities where it exists. However, the situation on the whole is decidedly improved.

"The railroads show 825 cars of coal placed in the dealers' yards yesterday ready for unloading this morning. Total receipts of cars amounted to 2,441, all of which shows a big increase in placings over any previous day in weeks.

Commonwealth Edison Helps.

"In addition to this the Commonwealth Edison company has placed at the disposal of the people on the northwest side 100 carloads of coal which can be hauled out by the dealers as rapidly as the teams will call for it. The company also will place at the disposal of the administration 3,000 tons or 60 carloads of coal for distribution in bag lots on the southwest side at Twenty-second and Fisk streets, deliveries to be limited to one bag of 100 pounds to each person. They will also make similar distribution of coal in bag lots at their yard at Twenty-fifth and Quarrie streets.

"The railroads and mine operators assure us that, barring weather conditions, coal should continue to arrive in Chicago in increasing quantities, and with a little let up in the weather conditions the distressing emergency cases should be entirely relieved.

"We are urging Washington strongly to take immediate action to correct the conditions caused by the shutting off and diversion of coal normally shipped to Chicago."

Warning to Overchargers.

Reports that some dealers were overcharging customers, in spite of the fact that prices have been fixed by the fuel administration, reached the offices of the administrators yesterday.

"If there is any overcharging I would like nothing better than to get witnesses to back up such a charge," said Mr. Durham. "We will see to it that any one furnishing such evidence is protected, and we will make an example of any one guilty of overcharging."

Help for the north shore suburbs and for some of the others that are in need is promised this morning.

The Chicago and Northwestern railway has notified me that carloads of coal will be delivered tomorrow morning as follows," said Mr. Durham: "Winnetka, two cars; Wilmette, five; Evanston, nine; Norwood Park, one; Austin, four; Maywood, four."

Work to Relieve Suffering.

With their bins nearly empty consumers, dealers, railroad men, and the fuel administration devoted heatless Monday to strenuous efforts to get enough coal to prevent suffering in homes. The day was generally observed — with more attention than either of the preceding fuelless Mondays.

Ward workers and charitable organizations brought relief in numerous urgent cases, but the best they could do was to divide up the small available supply in the hope that they would be able to help suffering families through the spell of intense cold.

Railroad men reported that conditions yesterday and Sunday were almost as bad as they were during the recent blizzard and that their efforts to bring quick relief were seriously handicapped.

Fred W. Upham of the Consumers company said last night: "The coal situation is in the hands of the government. The government has appointed fuel administrators in every state and in all the principal cities. I do not think it is a good idea for private citizens to talk."

School Board Gets Twenty Carloads.

The coal supply of the board of education dwindled more yesterday. Hope was expressed that the situation was improving, however, as the board was able to buy twenty carloads, or half a day's supply. It is more coal than the board has been able to get in any day for nearly a month.

Three schools were closed. The car ordered for the Clay school in Hegewisch has reached Cook county, after many delays. When it can be switched to Hegewisch the Clay school will resume activities. The Keeler avenue school and the Nineteenth street school were closed because no anthracite was available.

The Oak Park and River Forest township High school in Oak Park was closed yesterday afternoon for an indefinite period because of lack of coal.

STOP FIELD CARLOAD.

Waukegan, Ill., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—An order was today issued by Fuel Administrator Erskine directing the Northwestern railroad to hold a car of coal consigned to Stanley Field. The administrator was informed that this was the third carload Mr. Field had received within two weeks.

Two weeks ago a car of fifteen tons arrived at Lake Bluff consigned to Mr. Field. The administrator at first ordered delivery until he found the shipment was not out of proportion to the amount needed to heat the Field residence.

Then Mr. Erskine, it is said, learned that a second car of thirty-four tons of anthracite had arrived. Again he gave orders to hold the car.

A compromise was made and Mr. Field was given one-half, the rest being held in reserve for local emergency needs. The third carload came today.

Insull Raps Those Who Obey Letter but Not Spirit of Fuel Order.

INDUSTRIAL concerns which have shut down on heatless Mondays and then have run extra time on other days to make up were censured by Samuel Insull yesterday at a meeting of the Cook county auxiliary committee of the State Council of Defense.

"We have had a taste during the last few weeks of what 'following orders' means, in connection with the work of the fuel administration. I have known cases in this city and in this state—I am glad to say very few in number—who, while obeying the letter of these orders, have tried by one means or another to evade the spirit of them.

"We of the State Council of Defense think that men who do that sort of thing are not loyally supporting the United States government. We resent the action of any organization that tries to evade the spirit of the order with relation to fuel by changing its methods of operation and employing its people in factories, or stores, and securing fuel at a time when the people they employ have to go to cold homes in the city of Chicago.

"We believe that those who are entitled to first consideration in every way are the householders, and not those who are running their plants for profit in industrial operations.

"It is a pretty difficult thing for democratic countries to learn that in times of war the time for argument —and this applies to all classes of people, whatever the nationality of their ancestry—was before congress declared that a state of war with Germany existed. The time for obeying orders was from the time a state of war was declared to exist until it is concluded."

Mr. Erskine ordered it held pending further orders.

Relief Reaches Elgin.

Elgin, Ill., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Seventeen cars of coal arrived here late this afternoon. It was impossible to deliver the coal tonight, but it will go far tomorrow toward relieving the critical situation here.

Schools Close in Joliet.

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Schools were closed today at Joliet for another week and numerous business houses that were exempt from the heatless Monday order had to close because of lack of coal. The fuel situation in Joliet was declared to be critical as only 1,800 tons of coal were within reach and many thousands were needed.

COAL ORDER AND COLD CUT SUPPLY OF VEGETABLES

Cold weather and the Garfield fuel order which gives coal trains preference have combined to curtail Chicago's supply of vegetables and fresh fruit, according to statements made at the offices of the food administration.

Normal daily receipts in Chicago average about 300 cars, but yesterday only fifty-four were reported ready for unloading.

Hundreds of cars loaded with foodstuffs consigned to the Chicago market are standing on sidings awaiting motive power to move them to this center.

Potatoes, celery, and cabbage predominated in shipments received today. Practically no fresh fruits were reported as arriving and it was predicted that if there is not a large increase in shipments, increases in prices of both vegetables and fruits may be expected.

Hope for Clew to Hotel Thefts in Women's Arrest

Grace Monast of 117 East Twentieth street, and Sadie Wilson of 2216 Prairie avenue, women said by the police to be known to them, were arrested in a room in the Palmer house last evening. With them was a man who had registered as James Wilson of Racine. The police report the discovery of several articles thought to have been stolen from rooms of loop hotels. All were locked up pending investigation.

ELEANOR REAM WINS DIVORCE AND $210,000

Desertion the Charge Against Norman B. Ream's Son.

Putnam, Conn., Feb. 4.—A divorce was given Eleanor Davidson Ream, wife of Louis M. Ream, today, together with $210,000 alimony, and the right to resume her maiden name. The action was brought on the ground of desertion. Mrs. Ream alleged that five days after marriage in 1911 her husband was induced to desert her by his father, the late Norman B. Ream, former multimillionaire resident of Chicago. The action was uncontested.

Mrs. Ream at the time of her marriage was a show girl in "The Slim Princess," her stage name being Eleanor Pendleton.

Some time later young Ream was persuaded to leave his wife, his father's attorneys arranged a settlement with her and paid her $38,000, she consenting to bring action to dissolve the marriage. The suit was filed in Saratoga, N. Y., and four months later a judgment was entered declaring the marriage void.

Whole Case Reopened.

Three years later Mrs. Ream had filed a motion before Justice Borst of New York to have the judgment set aside. The whole case was reopened and after a lengthy hearing the court held the plaintiff was still the legal wife of young Ream. The case was appealed, but the ruling of Justice Borst was sustained.

In the course of his opinion, Judge Borst detailed the pivotal facts in the case and laid bare the true character of the whole proceeding.

"After becoming acquainted," he said, "the defendant (Ream) paid the plaintiff (Miss Davidson) attention, and from his letters and conduct was evidently very much enamored of her, writing her numerous letters, and even lapsing into poetry, which, from its composition, was evidently original with him.

Sample of Verse.

A specimen of this poetry follows:

To Eleanor from L. R.

Go, happy rose, and, interwove
With other flowers, bind my love.
Tell her she must not be Longer flowing, longer free,
That so oft has fetter'd me.
Say, if she's fretful, I have bands
Of pearl and gold to bind her hands.
Tell her, if she struggles still,
I have myrtle rods at will
For to tame, though not to kill.
Take thou my blessing thus and go,
And tell her this—but do not so!
Lest a handsome anger fly
Like a lightning from the sky
And burn thee up as well as I.

Courted with Fervor.

Continuing the court said:

"They met frequently, and finally there was a proposal of marriage, which each asserts was made by the other. In view, however, of his letters to her and his poetry written for her enjoyment, it is apparent that the defendant did his share in bringing about the marriage which was afterwards entered into by them. In fact, the proof is clear that he courted the plaintiff with extraordinary fervor."

The judge then described the marriage and the incidents of the five days following.

"They went to Princeton, where they stopped at the Princeton inn. While at Princeton they were at the college grounds, and the defendant pointed out to the plaintiff the room he had occupied when at the college, and jocosely said that "Our boy should occupy the same rooms for his apartment when he went to college."

That Costly Honeymoon.

The filing of the divorce suit followed and a new basis of settlement arrived at—$210,000.

With the former settlement of $38,000 together with attorneys' fees and costs, the marriage and five day honeymoon of young Ream have cost him and his family a quarter of a million dollars or more.

SEEKS $750,000 FROM CITY.

Notice was served on the city council yesterday that the Empire Voting Machine company intends to take further legal steps to collect on its contract to supply the city with voting machines. The contract was for upward of $1,000,000 worth of the machines. A total of $250,000 has been given the company.

WOMEN WORKERS IN WARDS TELL OF FUEL WOES

Mothers Made Ill Hauling Coal on Sleds; Many Suffer.

Suffering among families that were unable to get fuel was reported from many parts of Chicago yesterday by women who have volunteered to help those in need of coal. In some localities no coal was to be obtained even by those able to pay for it, but most of the hardship was reported among the poor, or by those who did not know what to do to get fuel.

One family broke up its furniture and burned it to keep from freezing. A number of ward workers found coal men who were not willing to help, but in the majority of cases dealers were out of fuel and could do nothing. The state fuel administrator reported at night, however, that the situation had improved.

Reports by Wards.

Official reports from community workers in the various wards given out by the Cook county fuel administration yesterday were as follows:

1. Mrs. Herman Landauer, Chicago Woman's club—The situation is not as acute as it has been during the last week. There were no charity cases reported. The dealers have done everything in their power to supply the demands.

2. Mrs. Eva M. Wells, 3207 South Park avenue—There are twenty-five calls from last week that have not yet been filled. Conditions are getting worse, due to mismanagement in distribution. From one dealer two carloads were commandeered for the gas company.

3. Abraham Lincoln center, Oakwood boulevard and Langley avenue—Over 250 calls have been taken care of in the last two weeks. One charity case was reported. There is no real suffering in the ward.

4 and 5. Fellowship house, 831 West Thirty-third place—We were able to supply 50 requests for coal today. Dealers are coöperating.

Dealers Coöperating.

6. Hyde Park center, 5435 Lake Park avenue—The dealers are doing all in their power to supply the heavy demands. Twenty-five calls were filled today, in small quantities.

7. Mrs. Marshall Miller, 6439 Kimbark avenue—Conditions are slightly improved and all requests have been filled. The dealers are all patriotic, with one exception on Wentworth avenue.

8, north end. Mrs. John W. Merrill, 9026 Houston avenue—Conditions are worse. No cases of real suffering in the ward have been reported but the supply is now exhausted.

8, south end. Mrs. Marion Stevenson, 13308 Carondelet avenue—All calls have been taken care of so far, but the supply is now at an end. The Hegewisch Coal and Teaming company has supplied coal in all instances, whether the consumer was able to pay or not.

10. Bohemian Settlement house, 1831 South Racine—The situation is bad. Only one company had any coal today and it was exhausted before noon. Over 250 calls have been made, of which number not over half have been filled.

Much Suffering.

11.—Gads Hill Center, 1919 West Twentieth street — Mrs. Mellinger—There is no hard coal on hand and little soft, which is being sold in small quantities. Some suffering has been reported, but this will be taken care of in a day or so.

13.—Miss Caroline M. Towles, 1910 South Sawyer avenue.—I have had hundreds of calls, which have all been taken care of to a limited extent. Not more than half a ton of coal is sold at a time and the schoolboys have helped in making deliveries. There is much suffering.

13.—Mrs. C. H. Beckett, 3532 Congress street.—We have had more than 450 calls for coal and not more than one-fourth have been filled. There has been some real suffering, some not having had coal for five or six days.

14.—Miss Silvia Lawson, 3330 Fulton street.—The situation in this ward has been growing worse, although about 300 calls have been taken care of. There is no coal in the yards to speak of. There is much suffering.

Suggests Commandeering.

15.—Miss Harriet Vittum, Northwestern University settlement.—We have received more than 1,500 calls, many of which have not been filled. There is much suffering. It seems to me that some coal could be commandeered from big industries to relieve the situation.

16.—Polish Woman's alliance, 1309 North Ashland avenue.—There has been a stream of people calling all day and the telephone has been ringing constantly. The suffering is great. The people have money, but are unable to find coal.

17.—Chicago Commons, 955 West Grand avenue.—Much suffering has been reported. Of 200 calls we have received, not more than two-thirds have been filled. We have received more than fifty charity calls. Dealers desirous of coöperating, but unable to obtain coal.

18.—Mrs. Inez Rogers Deach, 216 Honore street.—There is real suffering. One mother with five children was forced to close her flat and seek warmth at the house of a neighbor. One woman split up chairs to burn. Conditions are desperate.

19.—Hull House, 800 South Halsted street.—We have been receiving calls all day. Although we have met all demands, we have been able to do so only in small quantities. Charity cases are surprisingly few. Conditions are getting worse and today we could hardly get any coal.

Dealers Up Against It.

20—Henry Booth house, 701 West Fourteenth street—We distributed all the coal in our possession, 1,700 pounds, today. We have received calls continuously but are not able to fill them. The dealers wish to coöperate, but where there is no coal it is impossible.

22—Eli Bates settlement, 621 West Elm street—We have received more than 100 calls today. We have been able to take care of all of them, but only to a limited extent. The suffering is great.

23 and 24—Christopher House settlement, 2507 Greenview avenue—Out of more than 200 requests a large percentage has been cared for. The attitude of the dealers has been commendable. There is real suffering.

25—North end, Mrs. Samuel Horner, 1331 Sherwin avenue—Although the people may have experienced a little discomfort, there is no real suffering.

Gas Ovens Used.

26—Mrs. C. N. Rowley, 4018 North Paulina street: Average of thirty-five urgent calls in two weeks. Seven families forced to use gas ovens to keep from freezing. One widow with four children without fuel for two days, but was relieved in one hour after case was reported. Much suffering in ward. Splendid coöperation by dealers.

27—Mrs. Edgar J. Stewart, 3519 Addison street—Acute suffering among poor, who cannot buy coal even in small quantities. One family with six children, three of them ill, without fuel for two days, and all plumbing frozen. Relieved at once with small supply. About forty calls for aid a day. One carload of coal emptied in fifty minutes by people buying by the sackful. Four apartment buildings without coal. Dealers help where they can, but cannot get coal.

28—Mrs. Harry Hoff, 2712 Fullerton avenue—Living room filled all day with coal seekers. About forty-five personal calls a day, besides constant phone calls. Situation almost past belief.

Many Ill and No Heat.

29—University of Chicago settlement, 4630 Gross avenue—Received 100 calls today and daily average is seventy-five. Situation desperate. Many families with illness and no heat.

30—Miss Margaret Taylor, 5424 South Morgan street—Received twenty-five calls today and 200 in two weeks. Much suffering from heatless homes. Dealers doing their best. Much sickness.

31-32—Neighborhood house, 6710 South May street—About fifty calls today and daily average forty-five. Situation bad; many homes without heat and coal, especially anthracite, cannot be had at any price. Families have helped each other by lending coal.

Women Haul Coal on Sleds.

33—Miss Manda Selliken, 2305 Monticello avenue—More than fifty calls received a day. One hundred calls for hard coal and cannot fill them. Many women of refinement seen hauling coal on sleds. Twenty-five cases of real suffering.

34—Mrs. Charles Greenwood, 1342 South Sawyer avenue—Had 200 calls for aid today and could only partly relieve them. Suffering very great. Women seen hauling coal and falling exhausted. Dealers are mostly out of coal.

35—Mrs. Ezra J. Jones, 4342 West Division street—About twenty calls a day for help. Situation very bad. Women made ill hauling sleds of coal through cold, fighting to keep their children warm. Many new born babies suffering from cold. Much sickness. Twenty families without coal.

Six men held in connection with freight car robberies and the killing of Detectives Bernard Dolan and Patrick Maloney of the Harbor Belt Line railroad at Franklin Park were arraigned yesterday before Justice Frank McKee of Oak Park. The case was continued till Saturday.

MOTHER KILLED PICKING COAL ON R. R. TRACK

Picking coal from the tracks of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Anna Korczekowski, 43 years old, 953 West Chicago avenue, was struck and killed by a switch engine.

Mrs. Korczekowski went with a sack to the tracks at Halsted street and was bent over picking up the coal when the switch engine struck her. She was killed instantly.

The family, the police learned, has been in destitute circumstances and without money to purchase fuel. The husband has been out of employment three weeks. When he was informed of his wife's death he was hysterical. There are three children, the oldest 10 years old.

Both legs of Eddie Adramski, 12 years old, 4409 Haddon street, were cut off yesterday when a Belt railway switch engine bumped a car underneath which he was picking up coal. He will recover.

COAL BIN CENSUS BY TROOPS IN NORTH SUBURBS

North shore towns have adopted drastic measures to meet the fuel crisis. In Evanston and Wilmette Fuel Administrator Brower has started a coal bin census and has enlisted the aid of the reserve militia. Under command of Capt. J. W. Macy and Capt. Edward Pratt, Company E of the First Illinois and Company I of the Eleventh worked all day yesterday, visiting more than 200 homes. They were assisted by the Ridgeville Rifle club.

In many instances where emergency orders had been placed for coal they found a surplus of from two to three tons. In others they found only a few buckets remaining. The police helped by using the patrol as a delivery wagon. Private automobiles were proffered by Mrs. James A. Patten, Charles T. Wheeler, Chancellor LaJeaks, and Ald. H. E. Chandler and used in delivering fuel by the bag.

LABOR TO SEEK OUT HIDDEN COAL

The committee appointed by the Chicago Federation of Labor to investigate the fuel situation began its work yesterday by taking steps to discover whether there is an equal distribution of coal, in proportion to size, between Chicago and Milwaukee.

It is the understanding of the committee that a great deal of coal is lying in ships in Milwaukee and that much of it could be spared. If there is any way of getting some of it the committee is going after it. Also, if there is any coal hidden in Chicago which would be at the service of the public, it will be hunted out.

You will be warm and well at Grove Park Inn, Asheville, N. C. Finest Resort Hotel in the World. No Invalids. No children under 10 years.—Advertisement.

AVIATOR WEDS MISS GOODRICH ON SHORT NOTICE

Ordered South, He Has Just Enough Time to Marry.

Miss Rosamond Goodrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Goodrich of 920 Lincoln parkway, was married after dinner last evening at her home to Kenneth Carpenter. It was a surprise wedding, although the engagement had been announced.

Mr. Carpenter has been at the ground school of aviation at Champaign and had been unable to get a leave. Last evening he was ordered to the flying field at Dallas, Tex., and the wedding was hastily arranged. The Rev. W. O. Waters of Grace Episcopal church performed the ceremony.

Sister Not Present.

So sudden was the wedding that Mrs. Charles G. Cushing, wife of Capt. Cushing and sister of the bride, was unable to get up from Rockford in time for the ceremony. James R. McKay, grandfather of the bride, and Mrs. McKay Le Roy, are in Palm Beach. Sidney Gardner was best man.

Mrs. Carpenter has been extremely active in war work. She took a course in nursing at St. Luke's hospital. She not only is qualified as a nurse but is an expert cook. Many of the soldiers at Camp Grant have received helmets which she has knitted.

On Way to Dallas.

The bride is 23 years old. Mr. Carpenter is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Carpenter of Evanston. Members of the family and a few friends attended the ceremony. Shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter left for Dallas.

STRIKE TIES UP ST. LOUIS CARS; RIOTS INCREASE

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 4.—This, the second day of the St. Louis street car strike, was marked by increasing violence, many riot calls, almost complete paralysis of traction transportation, and several efforts to bring about a settlement. No cars were operated tonight.

Mayor Kiel, acting on advice of the city counselor, who assured him that he had authority to intervene, sent formal summonses to the United Railways company and to the officials of the local union of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employés to send representatives to his office at 5 o'clock this evening.

The plan of the mayor was frustrated by the refusal of the United Railway officials to participate. Instead President McCulloch sent a letter to the mayor saying that the directors of the company would meet Tuesday and decide on a course of action.

He could say in advance, however, according to the letter, that the directors would be willing to submit to the state public service commission whether they could or should increase the wages of motormen and conductors.

ICE SHORTAGE? YES, REALLY IT IS PREDICTED

While Chicago is suffering for lack of coal in below zero weather the prospect is suggested that there will be a shortage of artificial ice next summer.

Acting on a warning received from the United States food administration, heavy users of ammonia are conserving the supply to the utmost, and makers of artificial ice are among the largest users.

When asked last night what the effect will be of cutting off the supply of ammonia, Fred W. Upham, president of the Consumers company, said:

"During next summer we do not expect to do more than care for our family trade with artificial ice. The regular commercial demand will be filled with the natural product. It is probable that we will have to depend upon natural ice during the remainder of the war."

MILK PRICE MAY BE REVOKED BY STATE FOOD HEAD

Unfairness to Producer Put Up to Wheeler for Action.

There is still a possibility that the milk producer will receive more for his product than the prices set in the sliding scale recommended to the food administration by the milk commission. The finding of the commission is not necessarily final, Food Administrator Wheeler stated last night.

As there is no disposition to question at this time the fairness of the profit margin given to the distributors, any change would mean higher priced milk in Chicago.

Mr. Wheeler holds that the principle adopted by the commission in setting prices is accurate, but there is still some question as to whether the period from 1908 to 1914, from which cost figures were taken, is a period which can, in fairness to the farmers, be applied. Should he decide it is unfair, Mr. Wheeler will ask the commission to reconsider.

Believes Principle Sound.

"The food administration has received the majority and minority reports from the milk commission and will analyze them in the light of information presented by producers and distributors regarding the accuracy of the base chosen for the commission's calculation," said Mr. Wheeler.

"The food administration is only desirous of checking the basing point to make sure that all proper elements have been considered. It should be borne in mind that the recommendations of the commission are based upon a new principle, advanced for the first time. Without anticipating the accuracy of the base, the food administration believes the principle can be made the basis of almost automatic calculation of cost plus a reasonable profit in all milk producing areas in the country."

The "base" refers to the eight year period from 1908 to 1914, referred to by W. J. Kittle in his minority report as that "intolerable period when the producers were under the domination of the distributors."

Shortage Less Serious.

The milk shortage, due in part to poor transportation facilities, but chiefly to the boycott begun by the farmers, showed signs of becoming less serious this morning, when numerous shipments of milk from distant points were received in the city.

Distributors are confident that they can continue to supply their customers, although with reduced quantities.

While State's Attorney Hoyne intimated that he might call on the governor to order out the state militia and seize farms of the striking farmers, Food Administrator Wheeler declared that the food administration would take no action to force the producers to sell their product in the Chicago market.

"It is their milk. If they do not wish to sell here, that is up to them," said Mr. Wheeler.

Will Rush Shipments.

He said, however, that the food administration will aid the distributors in supplying Chicago with milk. This will be done by instructing railroads to here.

rush all milk shipments consigned

Deliveries throughout the Fox river valley were appreciably smaller. Aurora, Elgin, Joliet, and Lake county all reported that fewer farmers were coming to the bottling plants, although there was no evidence of picketir

Five hundred Porter county farmers refuse to ship to Chicago at any price. It was reported from Valparaiso, Ind. Farmers in Rock county, near Beloit, Wis., are refusing to deliver to local creameries, for fear their milk might be used to break the Chicago boycott.

Dr. John Dill Robertson got into the fray by assisting the distributors to get milk from outside the Chicago zone.

HITCHCOCK SAYS LACK OF CO-OPERATION HAS CRIPPLED U. S. WORK FOR WAR

CLAIMS ERRORS OFFSET EFFORT IN PREPARATION

Must Have Supreme Control to Gain Full Value.

lenge. He is making no promises of the amount of tonnage that will be turned out this year, though ship experts have informed the senate committee that 3,000,000 tons will be the maximum.

The discussion is to be renewed tomorrow. Upon conclusion of Secretary Baker's cross-examination by the military committee on Wednesday, administration leaders hope to end the controversy. Secretary Baker's examination had been planned for tomorrow, but Chairman Chamberlain asked him to postpone it.

APPEAL OF HITCHCOCK.

Senator Hitchcock used the condition of American shipping and the status of affairs in the shipping board as demonstrating one of the most crying needs for coördination of war work.

"The shipping board," he said, "has been running as an independent branch of the government. For months it was more than a dismal failure; it was a farce and almost a crime.

"Even since it got into more vigorous operation it has been enormously handicapped and embarrassed because there has been little or no coördination of its energies and operations with the energies and operations of other branches. It has needed materials; it has needed labor; and every effort should have been made to get the materials and get the labor supply in priority over every other activity of government. Enormous delays have occurred because of their failure to receive materials as well as because labor has been diverted in other directions. I have been told that 1,000 carloads of ship plates, made for the shipping board, loaded upon cars at the place of manufacture, were lost in the congestion of freight for a month.

Suffer to Aid Munitions.

"Production of war materials for Europe has been rushed to completion in factories by labor which should have been employed in building ships and would have been, if we had a war cabinet to survey the whole field and balance production and transportation. Now we have the products filling every warehouse, sidetrack, and dock without the ships to carry them.

"The present condition of our shipbuilding is nothing less than shocking. The present supply of shipping is worse than alarming. I am afraid to go too deeply into figures, for one might be charged with giving information of value to the enemy were one to tell the truth about the present supply of shipping.

"All who are informed as to the present supply of our shipping were thunderstruck at the statements of Secretary Baker before the military affairs committee. His sanguine predictions as to our ability to ship men to Europe and to supply them when there are exaggerations of the wildest sort."

Thinks Baker Was Misled.

"I am curious to know," asked Senator Penrose, "whether any explanation has occurred to the senator as to how the secretary of war was so widely apart from the facts in this connection. Had he not been informed or did his sanguine disposition and hopeful nature lead him to predict a result which the facts did not justify?"

"I am not really able to explain," Senator Hitchcock replied, "and I would not like to attempt to explain the motives which led the secretary of war to make such a statement. I consider it reckless; I think it a terrible thing to mislead the people when the facts are ascertainable.

"My own opinion is that the secretary of war has not been in touch with the shipping board; that there has been nothing to coördinate the shipping board with the other functions of government and there has not been knowledge in high places of what actual facts were. That is my idea. I do not think the secretary of war purposely misled the country.

Five Tons Per Soldier.

"Let any senator take a pencil and paper and figure the matter out for himself. Under the most favorable circumstances it takes five tons of shipping to supply one man in France. I mean by that that the ships must sail regularly, cross rapidly, and be loaded and unloaded promptly.

"These figures take no account of the transports necessary to take men across the ocean. They contemplate only the supplying of men over there. It makes no allowances for sinkings, no allowances for delays, no delays for bad loading, all of which have already occurred and are still occurring. It makes no allowances for hospital ships that will be needed.

"Now, figure up what total tonnage of shipping in constant and effective operation would be necessary to supply a million men in France, supposing we could get them over there. We find that for supply alone it will require 5,000,000 tons of shipping in constant use. Where is that coming from, and when is it coming? We all know the total tonnage of shipping now available in the United States is nothing like that amount.

Mistakes Cut Tonnage.

"I wish I could hope that we would have 5,000,000 tons of shipping for cargo supply a year from now. I hope it, but it is not a brilliant prospect even of having it a year from now.

"These figures—five tons of shipping per man—contemplate only the supplying of the men, and I have been informed that under the management of the quartermaster department our ships have been running at an efficiency of from only 30 to 60 per cent, due to delays, due to bad loading, due to mistakes and blunders."

"Does the senator mind giving his authority for the statement, that the efficiency has been only 30 per cent?" asked Senator Williams.

"That is the estimate," Senator Hitchcock replied, "and I have made it 30 to 60 per cent because it is an estimate. It has been made by men in whose judgment I have a good deal of confidence, not by one man, but by a number of different men. I have endeavored to verify it. I cannot vouch for it absolutely. I hope it is 100 per cent, but if it is 100 per cent it will still take 5,000,000 tons of shipping to supply our soldiers over there.

Says We Face Disaster.

"I know what the shipping was on the 30th of November. I know what part of it was passenger and tankers, and I have subtracted them, and what part of it was not and cannot be in trans-Atlantic waters, and I have subtracted that. The result is so pitifully small that I agree with some others who believe that we are facing a disaster when the truth finally becomes known to the war department.

"It will not do to have a few hundred thousand men or five hundred thousand men or a million men over there and not be able to supply them. We would be face to face with one of the greatest disasters of the world if such a thing occurred.

"It would be folly to get into such a disaster, and it is a miserable thing for us to live in a fool's paradise and to think that we can do the impossible.

Goal Still Far Ahead.

"We all know that the total tonnage of shipping available now to the United States is nothing like enough to supply a million men. We all fear that it will not approximate that amount a year from now, even if we build three million tons this year and there are no sinkings and no losses.

"I cannot believe that the secretary intended it as a gigantic bluff to Germany. I cannot believe that he intended to deceive the American people. I think he simply revealed the fact that he did not know, that he was out of touch."

MANY DELAYS IN TRAINING.

Summing up the work of the senate committee of military affairs in its investigation of several phases of war department work, Senator Hitchcock said:

"We found in the present system such an obsolete and cumbersome organization as to make efficiency well nigh impossible. We found provisions for checks, cautions, delays, debates, and disagreements, but little or no provision for prompt decision and energetic action. We found the war machinery much better equipped with brakes than with motive power. We found divided responsibility and doubtful authority in many places.

"These conditions are particularly serious in the bureaus of the war department charged with the duty of supplying and equipping the army. Confusion of authority, red tape, circumlocution, and incapacity have their natural fault. Nine months after we entered the war and three months after our men were gathered in cantonments, we found in the dead of winter tens of thousands of men without overcoats, tens of thousands lacking woolen breeches, tens of thousands without woolen blouses, and other serious shortages. We found most of the machine gun companies unable to drill two months after they were formed because they had no machine guns.

Men Drill with Sticks.

"We found hundreds of thousands of men drilling with wooden sticks for weeks and months because of mistakes and delays in ordering rifles last spring. We found men sent to France without opportunity for rifle or machine gun practice. We found a distressing amount of sickness in most camps and an unnecessary mortality, due to lack of clothing and to overcrowding. The overcrowding we found due to a failure to provide an adequate number of tents. We found camp hospitals without drainage, plumbing, or heat, and sick men without nurses.

"We found that we must depend on overworked and overstrained France for machine guns for ground use until nearly the end of this year, and that not over one-tenth of the new Browning machine guns, on which we are relying, can be delivered before August.

"We found that the first heavy artillery of American make cannot be received till July, and not much before 1919 can we expect to use in France American heavy artillery in any great quantity. What we get before this fall we must buy from England.

Delays on Powder Plants.

"We found that we are only now, nine months after entering the war, just beginning work on two great powder plants, to cost $60,000,000, although it was evident last summer that we must have a million pounds a day more powder than America can now manufacture. We cannot get powder from these plants before next August.

"We found that, though the medical department asked for hospital ships last July, they have not been ordered, though sick and wounded men are now beginning to come home, and it will take three months to equip the ships.

Points to Some Blunders.

"Some of the reported blunders almost surpass belief. I am told that the number of shoes ordered for the army so far amounts to 21,000,000 pairs, and, as we know, thousands of these are too small. I am told that one order of iron bolts completely stunned the commercial world. It specified 325 different sizes and provided exactly the same number for each size, namely, 176,688. All told, they amounted to 100 carloads.

"Nobody ever supposed it possible to devise so many different sizes, and why no discrimination was made between usual and unusual sizes is past finding out. Some of the sizes would be exhausted soon, while the others would last a hundred years.

"I am told that some genius in one of the war department bureaus succeeded in shipping to France a carload of sawdust, which is plentiful enough and cheap enough there, while nearly 2,000,000 tons of important freight has been waiting a chance to go over for months.

One Blunder Is Checked.

"I am told that three different orders were made out for bags for gas masks —one was for one million, another for two million, while a third was for five million. Fortunately, one of the civilian committeemen outside of the department discovered the conflicting orders and the enormous aggregate, secured a revision, and stopped the blunder.

"If at the time we entered the war we had created the position of director of munitions, and if the president had placed in it a high class business man of big vision and broad experience, it would have been different.

"He would have ascertained at once how many men he had to provide for and what each would require, and when they gathered in the September camps the supplies would have been ready for them.

ADMITS SOME ADVANCE.

"The president and the secretary of war have evidently realized the defect of the existing system and have attempted to change it without legislation, but without success.

"First they organized the advisory commission of the Council of National Defense, with its many and various committees of civilians. Still failing to get successful results, they next organized the general munitions board, and after that board had been in operation some time they reorganized again and created the war industries board.

"Still finding inefficiency and a failure to get results, they then took Gen. Crozier out of the ordnance department, Gen. Sharpe from the quartermaster's department, and with several other officers placed them in a war council. Then a director of purchases was selected to preside over the five purchasing bureaus of the war department.

Praise for Stettinius.

"And now, since the introduction of the bill establishing a director of munitions, another step has been taken. By administrative order the office of surveyor of purchases is created with much rather vague authority and somewhat undefined duties. He has no power in law, because legislation is necessary to take power from officers in the various bureaus and give it to him. All he can do as a matter of law is to give advice.

"In this position has been placed one of the ablest of business men, Mr. Edward .Stettinius, but he is there without legal power and occupying much the same anomalous position that all the other advisory boards and councils have occupied.

"All of these experimental efforts are made when experience shows that the simple, direct, and effective method is to change the law; to take the power of purchase out of the hands of military men and put it in the hands of a business man who will act on business methods in making purchases and in planning ahead for purchases.

Reply by Williams to Hitchcock Charges; Denies There Is Any Need for a War Cabinet

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi gave a bitter reply to the charges of Senator Hitchcock in regard to the war department and the failure of unity in action. Mr. Williams said:

"Jeremiah and his lamentations are not in it with the senator from Nebraska. He begins away back beyond and tells us that we have no ships and he tells us that we have not this nor the other thing that we need and that every one of us knows we need. He has drawn an indictment against the executive department of the federal government which is strong, and during the course of his remarks he said that he might be accused of giving information useful to the enemy if he disclosed all that he knew. He has disclosed about all he did know and he gave information useful to the enemy.

"The human memory is a treacherous and a foolish thing. It leads a man whither it will, and mine leads me right now back to a day in this senate when men were standing here wanting to stop the shipment of munitions and food to Great Britain and to the allies. They proposed measures almost as foolish as this council now suggested. Of course, if we had stopped the munitions and food from going to Great Britain, Great Britain would have merely said, 'Very well, find your own ships; you have none. We will take ours off the north Atlantic trade. If you cannot send us munitions and cannot send us food there is nothing else that we want from you.'

"German Game Being Played."

"My memory goes back almost irresistibly to that day. What was the German game then? The German game now is muckraking this administration. If the senator from Nebraska is right in what he has said, we are whipped already; we are out of this war game right now, because he has drawn and attempted to prove an indictment against the executive authority of the United States government that shows not only inefficiency but it proves stupidity. He comes here with a measure to invest the president with more power in order to prove that the president can become efficient with more power when he has been inefficient, in his opinion, with less power.

"These war council propositions have been tried from time to time everywhere—if the senator can follow it he can find that of all the asses that ever existed was the typical council of asses that came near ruining Lincoln and Grant in the civil war. He can go below Mason and Dixon's line and he can find that the confederate congress came near ruining Robert E. Lee and Jefferson Davis while they were carrying on war.

"If there is anything that any man ought to know who has any sense at all it is that congress or a committee cannot carry on a war and cannot furnish the brains to anybody else to carry it on.

"Here is the stupid bill, a stupid thing demanding three distinguished men of demonstrated ability to be appointed by the president of the United States, to carry on the war, a so-called war cabinet. Distinguished by whom? By ability demonstrated before whom? The president has got to distinguish them and their ability has got to be demonstrated before the president, and here is the president already not only armed with the duty but charged with the responsibility of distinguishing men and of recognizing demonstrated ability.

"If the president is a fool how are you going to give him brains by an act of congress? If the president of the United States is not a fool what is the need of your legislation?

"I will tell you the trouble with the senator from Nebraska and the trouble with the senator from Oregon. (Mr. Chamberlain). You have been engaged as chairman and member of an investigating committee for four or five weeks and the business of an investigating committee is to look at specks. Everything that is called to your attention is a speck and a speck on the sun. After you got through with the investigation you came out and you drew a circle chalked on the blackboard and you filled it plumb full of specks and you wrote on it 'This is the sun!' It is no more the sun than my soul is my foot.

Praise for U. S. Effort.

"The American people have faced this situation with magnificent efficiency; and I am tired of hearing them muckraked. No people at any time in the whole history of the world turned around from a complete peace establishment, devoted to peace and pacifism as a passion, and within nine months converted themselves so nearly into a war machine. My boys are there and your boys are there, my sons-in-law are there and yours are there. I deny the right of any man to draw this indictment against the American people or against the American people's executive control.

"The senator from Oregon tells me and the senator from Nebraska tells me that the trouble with the president and the secretary of war is that they do not know and they cannot find out; that it is impossible for them to know. Well, will you, in God's name, then, tell me how it is possible for the senator from Nebraska and the senator from Oregon to know; how you are going to find out? You are not their superiors in native ability, or brains, or information.

"The Sun of Specks."

"What is the use of standing here and muckraking this administration? It is charged that we have ordered too many shoes. It is also said that we sent some munitions abroad and had to bring them back. Did we? I do not know whether we did or not. The senator from Nebraska declined to give his authority for the statement, and I doubt it. I mean I doubt the truth of his informant; not his truth, of course. But suppose we did? Here is your circle on the blackboard, with specks all around in it. Under it is written, signed by the senator from Nebraska, 'This is the sun.'

"It all reminds me of a fellow who once went to see a statue, and he said, 'It is a magnificent statue; the head is divine, the breast superb, the legs of it athletic, the arms of an athlete, but there is a little defect on the right heel,' and he went out and wrote 346 pages on the defect in the right heel of the statue.

Usurping of Powers.

"It is idle to talk about passing a bill for a war cabinet in order to strengthen the arms of the president, to hold up his hands. I imagine the president is the best judge of whether he wants that sort of strengthening or not. You know that is not the intention of it as well as I do. You know it is an usurpation by the legislative or executive authority; and if you are lawyers, you know that it is absolutely unconstitutional.

"Do you know what I would do if I were the president and you dared pass that war cabinet bill on me? I would veto it first and then if you passed it by two-thirds majority, I would refuse to obey it upon the ground that the constitution invested certain duties and liabilities on me, and that I could not forsake them."

"Does not the senator think that, if the president did what the senator suggests, he would nearly make himself liable to impeachment?" asked Senator Gallinger.

"Not unless two-thirds of a vote impeached me and in violation of the constitution; no," said Senator Williams.

"Why the Agitation?"

"What do senators hope to attain by this agitation?" he continued. "They do not expect the bill to pass. You know the president is going to veto it if it should pass. I can understand why I, as a Democrat in ordinary peace times, might want to put a Republican president in a hole, and I can understand how a Republican in ordinary peace times might want to put a Democratic president in a hole, but I do not understand why any Democrat wants to put a Democratic president in a hole during this war.

"You know this bill is not going on the statute books. Then why are you agitating it? Just to show where you stand? Well, you might send a private telegram to the kaiser, telling him if you wanted to. What is the intent? Do you just want to see if you can get a popular sentiment behind the thing and have the president veto it so as to make him temporarily unpopular? I dare say you would not confess that that was your motive, and yet if that be not your motive, what is your motive."

SURPRISE AT OPPOSITION.

"Now let me consider the other bill reported by the committee, known as the war cabinet bill. This bill has been received with a strange degree of antagonism, yet it is based on experience in Great Britain and France and on the same weakness in our present system of administration that developed in France and Great Britain.

"We are told that it is an interference with the powers of the president. If so the creation of office of secretary of labor in recent years was an interference with the powers of the president, or if so the creation of the department of commerce some time ago was an interference with the powers of the president.

"As a matter of fact, this bill is no different from any other bill which creates an office whose occupant is to be named by the president and confirmed by the senate. The three men appointed to the war cabinet by the president would be his personal selections; they would be subject to his instructions; they would perform powers vested in him; they would be subject to removal by him for cause or without cause.

"A consideration of this fact demonstrates that it is not intended and could not be intended by creation of a war cabinet to embarrass the president nor to curtail his powers. As a matter of fact, the creation of a war cabinet is intended to aid in carrying on the war."

PROBLEMS OF TRANSPORT.

Of the transportation situation, Senator Hitchcock said:

"It is not too much to say that the great transportation system of the United States has broken down. It is a gigantic wreck today; even travel has become difficult. Freight shipments are demoralized to such an extent as the country has never known anything of. Anticipating troubles of this sort, congress authorized the control of shipments, and the granting of priority of shipments became one of the functions of government.

"How was it exercised? It was so exercised that on some of the most important roads priority orders for shipments were given to 80 per cent of the freight, and instead of having facilitated important shipments, priority orders became the cause of the utmost confusion.

"Every department of government apparently from the smallest quartermaster's clerk up to the highest official was permitted to blue tag government shipments and give them priority regardless of whether there was any hurry for their transportation or not.

No Power to Decide.

"There was no one to coördinate, no one to differentiate, no one to select, and the great mass of government shipments was permitted to clog the channels of transportation. Anchors for ships not yet built were rushed to their places of destination months before they could possibly be used. Hundreds of carloads of piles for construction work were rushed across the country and allowed to remain upon the cars for weeks, because the time had not yet come to use them.

"There was no supreme power, apparently, to limit the enormous and dangerous control of priority shipments, and the whole transportation system of the United States was thrown into confusion.

"Take the matter of contracts for production. Obviously, in contracting for production of supplies for Europe, some sort of regard should have been had for the capacity of our ships to take them, yet various bureaus have rushed production in factories to an enormous extent, until there are now piled up on the docks of a few great harbors nearly 2,000,000 tons or more of freight awaiting shipment and every day adds to the mass and makes the confusion more confounded. Here again there has been no power to coördinate between production and transportation across the Atlantic. Now we must begin to curtail production.

Failure of Fuel Control.

"Take the matter of the fuel administration. Congress authorized the control of the fuel of the country, and an attempt has been made to control prices, supply, and distribution, but it has apparently been made without any successful effort to coördinate the work with other functions of the government. Today we have a fuel famine in the country, not because we lack productive mines but because they have not been permitted to operate.

"Lack of knowledge, lack of transportation, and lack of harmony between the fuel administration and other functions of the government are the causes of the breakdown. If there had been some authority which could have brought the fuel administration into close contact with the mining and labor interests of the country and with the war industries of the country, as well as into conference with the priority of shipments board and other branches of government, much of the present breakdown could have been prevented.

Need Not Blame Wilson.

"The president in the daily press is quoted as objecting to any change in law on the ground that he alone has the responsibility for the conduct of this war; that is to assume that he has exclusive responsibility. The mere statement presents an absurdity. It would be a monstrous wrong to hold him responsible for the 2,000,000 tons of freight piled upon the docks in New York.

"It would be a monstrous wrong to hold him responsible for the breakdown of railroad transportation. It would be a monstrous wrong to hold him responsible for the two millions tons of freight piled upon the docks in New York.

"It would be monstrous wrong to hold him responsible for the breakdown of railroad transportation. It would be a monstrous wrong to hold him responsible for the muddle and jumble of priority shipments. It would be a monstrous wrong to hold him responsible for the shortcomings of the ordnance and quartermaster's departments.

No Blame for Illness.

"It would be a monstrous wrong to hold him responsible for the sufferings of the unnecessarily sick in the cantonments of the country. It would be a monstrous wrong to hold him responsible for the delay in construction of the powder plants nine months after it should have been started.

"It would be a monstrous wrong to hold him responsible for these and other shortcomings because nothing but the genius of perfection and the power of omniscience could enable one man to look after these vast interests. He cannot at one time design and conduct our difficult and delicate foreign policy, perform the duties of commander in chief of the army and the navy, act as his own prime minister, design all the legislation for congress to pass, dictate all the industrial, financial, and political activities of the country, and look after the expenditure of $250,000,000 a week. It is out of the question and out of reason.

Attitude of President.

"The president has announced his opposition to both of these bills. He does not want the committee to report the cabinet bill, and, if press reports be true, he objects even to a discussion of this legislation in the senate. This attitude on the part of the president is unfortunate but not altogether unnatural.

"In the first place, the president belongs to the school of political philosophers who adhere to the belief that all important legislation should originate with and be proposed by the executive to the legislative body. I cannot subscribe to this scheme of government, although it has some obvious advantages in that it provides leadership, order, and program.

"Since he became president, Mr. Wilson has enforced his views upon congress in a large degree, and generally with good results. In the main, I have been one of those who have followed his leadership, and supported his policies, and I expect to do so in the future.

"Now and then, however, an exception must be made. This is one of these cases. The question at issue is nonpartisan, hence no possible party issue is involved. No party leadership need be considered.

"I agree with the chairman of the committee, Senator Chamberlain, that the president does not know the true situation. He cannot give two months to an investigation, as we have done. Like a king surrounded by a court, he hears practically only one side. The people who complain do not reach the president nor even members of his cabinet."

APPEAL MADE BY REED.

Senator Reed objected to the proposed bills. He praised the patriotism of Senators Chamberlain and Hitchcock, admitting that grave mistakes had been made, although he thought these senators should be "a little more generous in giving credit for that which has been accomplished."

He charged that congress was largely responsible for the present condition, quoting from the records to show that the senate, as late as July, 1918, cut $3,500,000 out of the appropriation for war munitions.

Senator Reed was opposed to the war cabinet bill, because he charged that it was absolutely unconstitutional, usurping the power of the president as commander in chief of the army and navy, and because he was convinced that no three men could be appointed who could coördinate things any more than the president and his cabinet advisers are able to coördinate.

Not a Complete Failure.

"It has been said upon this floor that the military machine has broken down," he said. "If the statement had been that the military machine had failed in some respects, but that in the main it had been successful, it would have been a more correct statement. You cannot say that a machine that put 1,500,000 men into the field in eight months has been a failure. You cannot say that a machine that has carried some hundreds of thousands of men across the seas without the loss of a single life has been a total failure. You cannot say that a machine that is going to produce and is now furnishing a fleet of airplanes that will obscure the sun above the great cities of Germany is a failure.

"You cannot, in justice, claim that a machine has ceased to function that has been able and is now able to lay the keels for ships that will produce more tonnage in a year than has been produced by the other nations of the earth in any one year.

"And yet so long as those criticisms are made for the purpose of helping then the man who calls attention to them in that spirit is engaged in a more patriotic work than the man who seeks to cover them from sight and to hide them beneath a camouflage of adjectives."

NEW DELAYS ON CONTRACTS FOR ARMY SUPPLIES

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Contracts under negotiation for millions of dollars' worth of army munitions have been held up by some hitch in the administration of the ordnance department, which has been in a bewildering state of reorganization since Gen. William Crozier was relieved of his duties as chief of that department.

A week ago work on contracts in sections of the procurement division of the ordnance department was stopped. All papers relating to pending contracts were taken from the offices where negotiations were in progress. Since then business men, some of whom gave up five or ten times their army salaries to come to Washington as reserve officers, have twiddled their thumbs. Girl clerks and stenographers have busied themselves with their knitting.

The only explanation chiefs of the ordnance department would vouchsafe was that the department was in process of reorganization.

Dozen Sections Tied Up.

There are more than a dozen sections of the procurement division, all of which are plunged into confusion by the reorganization. These sections are:

The section of projectiles, which supplies everything shot in cannon from 75 millimeter to 14 inch shells; the explosives section, supplying high explosives and shrapnel; the motor equipment section, which supplies armored motors and tanks; the sections on fuses, cartridge cases, equipment, raw materials, packing container cases, small arms, carriage, and miscellaneous, together with the trench warfare section, which supplies hand and rifle grenades.

The trench warfare section has been engaged in construction of a plant at Edgewood, Md., for manufacture of gas bombs. Up to this time the United States has relied wholly on the English and French for gas bombs. A new gas has been evolved for the United States army which is said to be far more deadly than any German poisonous gas. These bombs cannot be made until the plant is completed.

Change Not Yet Complete.

When Secretary Baker announced his reorganization of the ordnance department by dividing it into four sections—procurement, production, inspection, and supply—it was assumed the reorganization already had been effected.

This was more than three weeks ago. Yet ordnance officers negotiating contracts saw no change in the procedure, and they continued to work as usual—that is, until all their work was halted. The head of each ordnance division has signed contracts negotiated by his division. The same men have done the same work, and the only evidence of the reorganization they saw was that the titles of some of the sections were changed.

Many of the officers have felt the old system to be unwieldy. They hope the suspension of activities may be followed by a period of greater activity.

"But," as one officer said, "this is too much like Dr. Garfield's industry shutdown order. It seems to me to be a radical cure to stop work for a week to reorganize."

Theory of Purchase System.

Theoretically the ordnance purchase system now works like this: The procurement division, with its dozen or more sections, of which Lieut. Col. Samuel McRoberts is the head, lets all contracts. When there is a shortage in supply Col. Palmer Pierce, the director of purchases, decides as to priority between various supply bureaus of the army.

When the army, navy, and shipping board are all competitors for products of which there is a shortage Col. Pierce refers the question to the war industries board. When all this route is traveled the contract is let if in the meantime the war college division of the general staff has not started an entirely new purchase program.

Puzzle on Stettinius.

Into this complicated buying system a new element has been injected by the appointment of Edward S. Stettinius to some new position, the duties of which have not been outlined.

Now that Mr. Stettinius is here nobody knows what he is to do. He is officially known as "surveyor general of supplies in the office of the director of purchases."

Col. Palmer Pierce is director of purchases, but this is more or less of a misnomer, for he makes no purchases. Lieut. Col. Samuel McRoberts is chief of the procurement division of the ordnance department, who is supposed to be the purchasing head for all ordnance material.

Nobody knows just what the relationship is between Col. McRoberts, Mr. Stettinius, and Col. Pierce or where the duties of one ends and the other begins.

Two Austrian Generals Made Field Marshals

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 4.—Emperor Charles, it is announced officially in Vienna, has appointed Gens. von Boehm-Ermolli and Boroevic to be field marshals.

Gen. von Boehm-Ermolli has been commander of the Second Austrian army operating in Galicia. It was the army under his command that captured Lemberg from the Russians on June 22, 1915.

Gen. Boroevic was appointed the Austrian commander in chief on the Italian front only two weeks ago. He formerly commanded the Austrian forces on the Isonzo front.

CUT IMPORTS

Reduction on Nonessentials Due to Give Ships for Troop Transport.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4.—A 50 per cent reduction in the volume of imports is one of the measures under consideration by the administration to make available ships for transporting troops to France.

Overseas transportation is recognized as the real problem facing the government in its effort to put on the firing line a big fighting force and keep it in supplies. Estimates of the amount of tonnage necessary to keep an army supplied vary all the way from four to seven tons in continuous service for each man engaged. The United States now has in all services about 4,000,000 tons of shipping, of which probably one-fourth is engaged in bringing in materials heretofore regarded as essential to the national industrial life.

If a cut in imports is made the government will select for elimination a list of articles which it regards as not essential in the prosecution of the war.

Officials have not disclosed to what extent the allies are ready to assist with a loan of tonnage, but many American soldiers will go abroad in allied vessels.

Officials estimate America's shipping output during 1918 at from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 tons, much of which they expect to become available in the summer.

CONGRESS GETS FINANCE BILL TO SPEED WAR

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—Virtually providing for control of private financing during the war, the administration war finance corporation bill was introduced today in the senate and house. Financing of war industries hampered by present conditions is the principal object.

The bill would create the federal war finance corporation, with $500,000,000 capital and power to issue $4,000,000,000 in short term notes to afford "financial assistance, either directly or indirectly, to persons, firms, corporations, and associations whose operations are necessary or contributory to the prosecution of the war."

Operations of the corporation would be limited to six months after peace is declared and most of its operations would be in conjunction with federal reserve boards, although the bill provides financial advances directly "in exceptional cases" to persons or corporations.

Secretary McAdoo has advised leaders that the bill is necessary because many war and related industries are seriously impeded by inability to secure new capital, due largely to the large drains made upon national resources by the government's war loans.

Packers and Union Men Fail to Pick Arbitrator

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—After two days of conference in Washington with Secretary of Labor Wilson, representatives of the Chicago packers and the labor unions have failed to reach an agreement on an arbitrator to settle wage and working conditions questions. Another conference will be held tomorrow morning. Unless an agreement can be reached then, Secretary Wilson will name an arbitrator. The packers will have five days and the employes four days to submit their cases. The arbitration award will be made Feb. 8.

ETHELYN CLARK'S HUGS AND KISSES FREE MRS. IJAMS

Witness Tells of Party Aided by Vaudeville Performer.

Miss Ethelyn Clark, the beautiful, reposed on Edgar Dudley Ijams' lap, hugged him, kissed him, and whispered sweet nothings into his ears, a witness in Mrs. Florence Ijams' divorce suit said. And yesterday Judge Henry Guerin signed a decree of divorce freeing Mrs. Ijams from her husband.

Just a little over two years ago Miss Clark was mentioned as the indirect cause of Mrs. Irma Kilgallen Howard's suicide. At that time Miss Clark was tripping the vaudeville boards with Joe Howard.

"I was informed by friends that my husband and Miss Clark were putting on an affair," testified Mrs. Ijams at the hearing.

Testimony Wakens Bailiffs.

Then a friend, Walter C. Tenwick, 1213 Sunnyside avenue, a traveling salesman, testified.

"On that night I went into Mr. Ijams' apartment," said the witness. "The booking agent had a cold and had called a doctor. The doctor arrived, shook out a few pills, and suggested an adjournment to the Green Mill."

"Did you go to the Green Mill?" asked Attorney M. J. Nash.

"No—we moved part of the Green Mill to the apartment. Then friends began dropping in. Another woman came, a vaudeville team arrived, and finally Miss Clark appeared. Pretty soon things were going rich."

"What do you mean?" said Attorney Nash.

Hugs and Kisses.

"Well, Miss Clark sat on Ijams' lap, hugged him, kissed him, and whispered softly to him. Along about 4 a. m. the party broke up—that is most of it. When I returned in the morning Miss Clark was still lingering."

The decree provides that Ijams shall pay his former wife $25 a week alimony.

HOUSE AMENDS BILL TO FORCE RAIL EXTENSION

Washington, D.C., Feb. 4.—The house interstate commerce committee approved sections of the administration railroad bill providing for a standard return to the roads by the government and creating a $500,000,000 revolving fund for operation and extension, today. The committee expects to finish consideration of the measure by Wednesday, at the latest and to immediately report it to the house.

An amendment inserted today by the committee provides that the president shall cause to be made on Jan. 1 of each year a report giving details of the operations under the $500,000,000 fund. The president may require the carriers to build terminals as well as additions, betterments of road extensions necessary for war purposes or the public interest.

Another amendment approved provides that the railroad companies shall handle their own receipts and disbursements and make an accounting to the government administration.

ALL FUEL OILS PLACED UNDER CONTROL OF U. S.

Big Dealers Must Obtain Government Permits Before Feb. 12.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—Government control of industry was extended to oil in a proclamation by President Wilson tonight putting under license the manufacture and distribution of all fuel oils. No mention is made of other oils or oil products, including gasoline and kerosene, but they, too, probably will be put under control soon.

Authority under the proclamation is to be vested in Mark L. Requa of California, recently named as chief of the fuel administration's oil division. Licenses must be obtained on or before Feb. 11 by all manufacturers and distributors whose gross sales of fuel, including gas oil, amount to more than 100,000 barrels a year.

A series of regulations drawn by the fuel administration establishes in the east a list of preferential consumers who must be supplied in the order they are given, regardless of contracts outstanding.

List of Preferred Users.

Railroads and bunker fuel.

Export deliveries or shipments for the army or navy.

Export shipments for the navies and other war purposes of the allies.

Hospitals where oil is now being used for fuel.

Public utilities and domestic consumers now using fuel oil, including gas oil.

Shipyards engaged in government work.

Navy yards.

Arsenals.

Plants engaged in the manufacture, production, and storage of food products.

Army and navy cantonments where oil now is being used for fuel.

Industrial consumers engaged in the manufacture of munitions and other articles under government orders.

Oil Users Exempt Mondays.

In issuing the preferential list the fuel administration at the same time exempted all users of oil from the operation of the Monday closing order.

After reviewing the food control act, under which the proclamation is issued, the president's order sets forth:

"Whereas, It is not possible to move promptly our abundant supplies of fuel oil by reason of the traffic congestion on our railroads and the transfer to trans-Atlantic service of a large number of tank steamers ordinarily engaged in coastwise trade, and it therefore seems desirable that a plan of control be made effective in case the distributing companies are unable to transport as required fuel oil to all consumers now being served, . . .

Permits Before Feb. 12.

"Now, therefore, . . . I hereby find and determine and by this proclamation do announce that it is essential in order to carry into effect the purposes of said act, to license the importation, manufacture, storage and distribution of fuel oil to the extent hereinafter specified.

"All persons, firms, and associations engaged in the business of both manufacturing and distributing fuel oil, including gas oil, whose gross sales . . . amount to more than 100,000 barrels per annum, are hereby required to secure on or before Feb. 11, 1918, a license, which license shall be issued under such rules and regulations governing the conduct of the business as may be prescribed. . . ."

Fuel Board Explains.

An explanatory statement issued tonight by the fuel administration said:

"These rules and regulations are promulgated by the president for the purpose of assuring an adequate supply and equitable distribution of fuel oil for purposes vitally essential to the national security and defense and to the successful prosecution of the war.

"The licensee engaged in the distribution of fuel oil in that part of the United States east of the Rocky mountains shall not, without the consent of the fuel administration, make any deliveries of fuel oil to any contomer of any one of the classes mentioned until he shall have delivered to customers of every class designated higher on the list with whom he may have a contract all fuel oil for which deliveries shall then be due upon contract."

War Machinery Speeded Up by Oil of Criticism; Big Improvement in Preparations Are Seen

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Great improvements are visible in the machinery of war preparation in Washington. All of them have been made since the fire of criticism on the slowness and inefficiency of the administration began. Men who look on everything that happens in Washington as moves in party politics declare all the changes made were planned long before the critics raised their voices.

From the standpoint of the patriotic critic, whose only aim is to help speed the winning of the war, the important fact is that the improvements have been made. If only to demonstrate his constructive purpose, he may be excused if he points out that each of the great steps in advance has been taken since THE TRIBUNE printed its first critical article on Nov. 14.

Conspicuous among these recent improvements are the almost complete reorganization of the war department, the courageous attempt to grapple with the extremely serious and threatening labor situation by the department of labor, and the appointment of real shipping men to act as a board, with full authority, in the handling of priority in the use of merchant ships, not only of the United States but of all the allies.

36,000,000 Pairs of Shoes.

In all these directions there heretofore has been something worse than confusion. The war department, for instance, has already placed orders for 20,000,000 pairs of shoes for the army. It has been anxious to put through orders for 16,000,000 pairs more. That would make a total of 36,000,000, or eighteen pairs of shoes for each soldier in an army of 2,000,000 men. How far such vast orders are necessary, at this time, what effect they would have on the domestic situation, does not appear.

So far as the labor situation is concerned, there have been more than 3,000 strikes in the United States since war was declared. There have been a dozen different and separate labor bureaus and commissions in Washington, each working without connection with the others. Affairs had been allowed to drift into what all informed men know to be a critical situation.

As for shipping, there has been almost constant conflict for the use of such ships as were available and for which bunker coal could be supplied.

Goethals Getting Results.

First of the recent reforms in the public interest, if not, indeed, in actual importance, is the almost complete reorganization of the war department.

Maj. Gen. Goethals, as acting quartermaster general, is fast bringing the great matter of supplies for the armies over seas and in cantonments into something like business order. When he took hold he found the affairs of the quartermaster's bureau in almost complete chaos.

The appointment of E. R. Stettinius as surveyor general of supplies puts into the war department the one man in the United States who is probably best qualified by training and experience to buy all the enormous quantity of supplies needed by our forces. As a member of J. P. Morgan & Co. Mr. Stettinius was in charge for more than two years of all the purchases of the allies in the United States. At present his position, at least his powers and authority, are not well defined. One ventures the hope that before long it will be found wise to utilize more fully the proved ability and unparalleled experience of the man.

Rosenwald Committee Goes.

The advisory commission of the National Council of Defense, composed of volunteer business men, has served its purpose and is now practically out of business. As a part of it vanishes the committee on supplies, over which Julius Rosenwald of Chicago has presided. Mr. Rosenwald's chief assistant has been made a member of the regular staff of the war department.

Other trained and able business men have been added to the organization of the war department and the buying of all supplies has been concentrated in a single bureau.

The war industries board, heretofore without definite powers, is in process of reorganization. The report is that it will have authority to control and coordinate all war purchases.

Even the great general staff of the army has been reorganized. Maj. Gen. P. C. March, young, energetic, and presumably suggested by Gen. Pershing for the position, becomes acting chief of staff. It is understood that the greatly deflected staff will be increased by the addition of many young and able officers.

If for any reason Secretary Baker should leave, even for a time, his place at the head of the war department there are certainly men now in the department who are fully qualified to fill his place.

After ten months of delay, marked by repeated and almost innumerable efforts to agree on a central and comprehensive labor program, President Wilson has finally placed in the hands of the labor department, headed by Secretary Wilson, full power to formulate a national labor policy and to establish a board, representing both labor and capital, as well as the public, to administer it. It is the hope of the administration and of all loyal citizens of the United States that the hope will be justified.

Supreme Board Still Needed.

These are three of the great changes and advances which have been made in Washington since the critical period began. They all stop short of the prime necessity. There is yet no authority, short of the president, who lacking the necessarily and properly prejudiced view of the department head, has the power to decide between the rival claims of the great war departments and commissions and boards.

And it must always be kept in mind that there is not enough coal, or steel, or transportation, or ships—to make the list short—to fill all their demands. The need for a superior war council, a grand priority board—call it what you please—is still just as great, just as essential, as ever.

The greatest problems now pressing for immediate solution in Washington are those of labor, ships, fuel, and food. It is impossible to put them in the order of their importance. They are inextricably bound up together. To successfully solve them calls again for the creation of a grand priority board.

NEW PRIORITIES FIXED TO CLEAR WAR WORK PATH

Industrial Board Puts Supplies in Four Classes.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—Far-reaching priority regulations were put into effect tonight by the war industries board to expedite the production of war supplies.

They apply to all individuals, firms, associations and corporations engaged in the production of copper, iron and steel and in the manufacture of their products; chemicals, cotton duck and woolen cloth and all such other raw materials and manufactured products as may be deemed necessary later.

Priority in the production of coal and coke, or food and feeds, is not administered by the priorities committee of the war industries board, but comes under the fuel or food administrations. The committee, however, will consider applications for priority assistance to procure tools, equipment, or supplies for the production of these commodities.

Fix Four Classes.

Hereafter all work is divided into four general classes instead of three, as heretofore. Class AA, which must take precedence in all plants over everything else, will comprise only emergency war work of a special or urgent nature.

Class A comprises all other war work, such as arms, ammunition, destroyers, submarines, airplanes, locomotives, etc., and the materials or commodities required in their production.

The third class, designated B, will include work not primarily designed for the prosecution of the war, but being of public interest and essential to the national welfare. The final class, C, for which no certificates will be issued, will comprise all other work.

What Classification Means.

"The classification of an order," the committee states, "simply means that it shall be given such precedence over orders of a lower classification as may be necessary (and only such as may be necessary) to insure delivery on the date specified in the order. It does not mean that work should cease on orders of a lower classification or that the order should be completed and delivery made in advance of orders taking a lower classification if this is not necessary to effect delivery within the date specified.

"The one to whom a priority certificate is directed should make his own production plans so as to get the maximum of efficiency out of his operations, making all deliveries at the times contracted for, if possible, and where this is not possible giving precedence to the orders taking the highest classification."

No Blanket Orders.

Blanket certificates of priority will not be issued in any case. Certificates will apply only to specific orders for materials, commodities or work.

Application for priority should be made by the person placing the order in the name of the department for which the order is placed, but provision is made for government contractors to make application direct if their need is urgent.

The regulations are subscribed to by the secretaries of war and navy, the chairman of the shipping board, the president of the Emergency Fleet corporation, and the chairman of the Council of National Defense.

DANIELS DENIES CLEMENCY URGED IN NAVAL TRIAL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—Lieut. Commander Ernest Friedrick, who, while in command of the gunboat Nashville, fired by mistake late last summer upon an Italian submarine in the Mediterranean, was ordered reduced thirty numbers by the naval court which tried him, it was learned today. The sentence was approved by Secretary Daniels, despite the fact that the Italian government officially interceded in behalf of the officer and the naval court made a unanimous recommendation for clemency.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—Belgium was granted another credit of $3,500,000 by the treasury today, making her total loans from the United States $89,900,000.

BOLO "WILLING TO DIE, BUT NOT AS A TRAITOR"

Alleged Spy Spars Nimbly with Accusers at Court Martial Opening.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—"I am no traitor. I have asked to be judged, and I am willing to die; but not as a traitor."

Thus spoke Bolo Pasha, who was brought to trial by court martial today on a charge of treason in having been a chief factor in German propaganda in France.

Bolo's quick wit and repartee were features of the sitting, as he tried to extricate himself from the conclusions of the report of Capt. Bouchardon of the Paris military court, who took the preliminary testimony, and asked for explanations by Col. Voyer, the president of the court martial.

Fumbles His Monocle.

Otherwise than for the nervous fumbling of his monocle, Bolo was impassive during the reading of Capt. Bouchardon's report of the investigation, dealing with Bolo's activities in Switzerland and affairs alleged to have been carried out in the United States.

The report dealt extensively with his activities in the United States in connection with Adolph Pavenstedt, who formerly was connected with a New York banking house, but now is in a Georgia internment camp.

The defense outlined by Bolo's counsel was that Bolo's activities had been wholly in the interests of the entente powers.

Caillaux Must Appear.

When former Premier Caillaux was called as a witness for the defense, Bolo said he would waive Caillaux's testimony, but Darius Pochere, a co-defendant, objected to this, declaring that Caillaux's testimony must be heard, if not in the present case than on behalf of himself.

During the reading of Capt. Bouchardon's report, Bolo appeared somewhat bored, but when called upon by the president of the court martial to explain discrepancies in his previous testimony the prisoner soon became voluble. He spoke with a patronizing air to the prosecuting attorney and the president of the court and admitted many discrepancies and altogether was considered to have had the better of the repartee.

Explanation of Money.

Bolo claimed that the money he received from Abbas Hilmi, former khedive of Egypt, through Filippo Cavallinie, an Italian who is alleged to have taken $400,000 to Bolo Pasha's hotel in Paris in April, 1916, was in repayment of a loan made to the khedive in 1914. Bolo asserted that he obtained the abdication of Abbas Hilmi and declared that he used all his influence to have the former khedive exert his energies in the interest of the entente.

Bolo's explanation of his activities in Switzerland had not been completed when court was adjourned for the day.

The Foster Annual Sale will continue until February 23rd

We feel that the women of Chicago and suburbs are entitled to the price reductions of the Foster sale for an extended sale period owing to the disturbed industrial conditions which have naturally interfered with mercantile business and also because of the handicap to shopping due to the inclement weather which prevailed during the early days of the sale.

"War Styles" in Foster Shoes for Women and Children

The specifications which will in all probability be adopted by The Council of National Defense will presumably permit of an extremely modish boot made with due regard to the conservation of needed war materials.

Several lines of Foster Boots in imported black French kid and black Russia calf are especially desirable purchases at this time. Partly because of the Foster style features which meet all requirements of the new "war styles" and also because these lines of $8.50, $9 and $10 Boots are being sold during the sale at $6.75

All "Foster" Shoes, both for women and children, are substantially reduced for the sale.

A 25c United States Thrift Stamp or 25 cents in cash will be given with each pair of Foster Shoes bought for cash and carried home.
The Foster Plan was originated because we feel that the customer is entitled to the financial saving effected in carrying out the policy of the administration to conserve man power.

IN THE LINE AND BEHIND IT.

The position of the American forces in France has changed from one of receiving intensive instruction in a quiet sector of the front to that of holding a part of the line in Lorraine. The period of preparation thus definitely changes its aspect. Responsibilities which were in prospect are now in fact. Abilities which were potential must now be realized.

The interallied council in Paris, at the same time that official announcement is made of the entry of American forces as fighting forces and no longer forces in training, makes announcement of its decision that there is nothing worthy of consideration in any proposals which Germany has made for peace and that the war must continue with sufficient vigor and success to change the temper of the German people.

The disturbances which had a moment's promise of a revulsion of the German proletariat against the German military autocracy are subsiding under the disciplined power of the German organization and there is no promise attractive to any clear head that a breakdown of German strength and determination is impending.

The United States, with increased and increasing responsibilities, is at last actually in the war, and the war reveals no possibility of yielding to anything but decisive military success. If this be the case, then the sooner the United States gets its full power back of its soldiers the sooner peace will be obtained.

American casualties are ceasing to be casual. They are beginning to be a part of the computed price of military operations, and although as yet conspicuous even for the United States only because they represent the first payment we have to make, the certainty is that they will grow in seriousness and significance.

We have talked of our soldiers dying for their country. They are now dying for it. The respite which this nation has had from actual experience has expired. With whatever deficiencies may be revealed, avoidable or unavoidable deficiencies, American forces must from now on meet the full responsibility.

To a large extent they can do no better than the nation behind them will permit them to do. Their success is organized in Washington. An army is only an expression of the determination of a people and the wisdom of a government.

If our government will give the American soldiers a war organization which represents unity of national activity they certainly will win.

We are in actual contact now with a war which must be won. Winning of it requires the concentration of efforts behind the arm, the centralization of direction and decision, the corelating of activities by the coördination of agencies in charge of these activities.

Does any one assert that the war preparation of the United States to date reveals the necessary correlation of activities?

Has any scheme of reorganization to obtain corelation of activities better than the scheme which would give the country a superior war council been proposed?

We have suffered from the avoidable waste of material, labor, and time. A corrective method is offered in the superior war council. We cannot waste strength in material, labor, or time any longer. The correction must be applied soon. The forces which are taking over the line cannot fight with a disorganized nation squandering its efforts behind them.

THE MILK SITUATION.

The milk situation indicates what an enormous leverage the farmers can exercise to impose their prices on the public. It is hardly too much to say that the farmers in this district have it in their power to jeopardize the sustenance of babies.

This constitutes a formidable threat. By means of a "passive" strike the farmers are reported to have cut down the Chicago milk supply by half. In justification they claim they do not have to sell their milk if they don't want to, or, to put the matter plainly, if the price does not suit them.

The merits of their demands have been considered by a milk commission appointed by the state food administration. The farmers refuse to abide by the decision of that commission—and the commission cannot enforce its rulings.

Agricultural classes have bitterly resented the suggestion that they were lacking in patriotism. Yet if any other industry engaged in the production of prime necessities should in like manner disregard a government ruling it would probably be labeled forthwith as an ally of Germany.

By the terms of the food control laws the farmers are specifically exempted from the provisions against hoarding, profiteering, and the like. They have asked legislation, and it is promised by the administration, to protect them from exploitation in the matter of farm implements and other agricultural supplies. No one will deny that the farmers are entitled to protection and even to favored treatment. But the public is likewise entitled to protection, and if it is not given voluntarily some more effective means of insuring it will have to be devised.

THE CHOICE—DEFENDED OR DEFENSELESS.

Nearly every time a soldier, officer or enlisted man, has an opportunity to express himself on the question of the defense of the United States, he declares for universal military training. Lieut. Col. John V. Clinnin of the One Hundred and Eighth trains, an officer with experience in the Illinois National guard and with experience in the training required to fit the guardsman and the civilian for military service, said in an address in Houston that experience leaves a wise nation with only universal service to adopt for its defense.

The nation either will not be guarded or it must be guarded by the adoption of a permanent military policy which will require universal military training for young men. The United States may choose whether it wishes to be defended or defenseless. If it wishes to trust to good fortune, luck, peaceful intent on the part of other nations, or to any event which will be beyond its power to control, it may continue as it has been doing. The point to be thoroughly understood is that having made such a choice, it will be defenseless. If it chooses to be defended it will adopt universal military training. The illusion of the million armed springers can persist only in a madhouse.

SAVE FOOD OR LACK IT.

The case of food is being put squarely up to the people in the voluntary restriction scheme. In every fashion that publicity can command the people are being told that they must put restrictions on themselves now or suffer a lack of essential foods later.

If a daily reminder hereabouts is needed it will be found in the upper left hand corner of the first page of THE TRIBUNE. It is a simple program, capable of much accomplishment. By restrictions which will not modify the daily life greatly, which will not impose anything like deprivation or hardship, which will require merely abstention from specified food stuffs and the substitution therefor of other wholesome, palatable, and nutritious foods, a state of siege can be avoided.

If by lack of conformity a lack of food results, the United States will be in a state of siege. The people now can eat themselves into a condition which the German navy would be glad to impose on them if it could. The people, by lack of restraint, by refusal to submit to direction and suggestion, can establish a blockade of themselves.

CITIZENS AND CRIMINALS.

Whenever there is enough publicity given to the daily expression of crime in the city, the city thinks it has an extraordinary phenomenon on view. It imagines that a condition has been created by laxness somewhere, by a defect in police organization, by circumstances which are superficially created and easily avoided.

Crimes against life and property in a city—not crimes of anger—are a fair index of the real thought a city is giving to its security. They are not superficial. They are not caused by temporary laxness or by easily remedied defects in municipal organization.

Such crimes represent the estimate of the city's real common sense by the criminal element which operates on the line of the least risk and the greatest profit.

Wherever a city has a continuing struggle with thieves and murderers the experience represents a careful estimate of its character. Whenever a city really desires to rid itself of such experiences it will begin by correcting its own carelessness and heedlessness of thought and action. Citizens cannot elect bad or indifferent government and look for a well preserved state of order.

SIXTEEN SHIPS IN EIGHTEEN MONTHS.

In order to appreciate the factors that make for extravagance, confusion and delay in our war preparations it is sometimes of value to consider specific instances, which, if not important in relation to our activity as a whole, are in a sense typical and illustrative.

One of these instances may be found in the testimony relating to the emergency fleet corporation. It relates to a $7,840,000 contract for the construction of sixteen wooden vessels which was awarded to the Sloan Shipyards corporation.

Here is some of the evidence:

Senator Jones:—"Do the records of your corporation [the fleet corporation] in closing these deals show anything about the business in which these men were engaged, and their responsibility, etc.?"

Admiral Bowles:—"They do not. It seems that this was a very early contract and the files are very fragmentary. . . . . The contract was dated May 18, 1917. In the latter part of August we got reports that were very disquieting in regard to this company, and so we insisted on an audit of their books."

This audit disclosed a bad state of affairs and the fleet corporation compelled a reorganization. Mr. Sloan, the president, was forced out and his salary reduced from $25,000 to $10,000. He is still receiving that salary, according to Admiral Bowles, though he has nothing to do but "to keep quiet and help us keep things in order." The admiral explained that the fleet corporation was without authority in the matter and was driving the best bargain it could.

The Sloan company proposed to build the ships on the Pacific coast. Senator Jones asked regarding the equipment of the yards.

"We found," replied Admiral Bowles, "that it looked as if it would be better to shut up those works altogether, but we did not feel justified in doing that. That is, I thought that I ought to be careful to do no unnecessary injury to the persons concerned provided we could get our ships finished expeditiously."

Senator Nelson:—"Well, when are you likely to get those ships?"

Admiral Bowles:—"I think they ought to be delivered surely in eight or nine months from now."

[It should be said that Admiral Bowles had not been appointed to the emergency fleet corporation when the contract was originally made back in May of last year.]

If it takes eighteen months to build sixteen vessels, when the Germans not infrequently sink that number in a single week, it is obvious we are not making much headway against the submarine menace. The Sloan contract is, of course, exceptional, but as to what degree it is exceptional it is impossible to judge.

Editorial of the Day

THAT ALL IMPORTANT WORD, IF.

[From the Washington Post.]

"We have available to be shipped to France, if the transportation facilities are available to us, and the prospect is not unpromising, 1,500,000, who in 1918 can be shipped to France." These are the words with which the secretary of war seeks to reassure the people of the United States. He said also: "I am revealing no secret when I say that ships is the crux of our problem."

An ominous, overshadowing "if" looms ahead of the United States in carrying on the war.

If ships are available the United States can send 1,500,000 to France during 1918. If ships are available food can be provided for the allied nations, which will enable them to continue the war. If ships are available, munitions can be sent to England and France to enable them to keep their armies in the field.

In the face of this all important qualification the secretary of war officially predicts a resumption of submarine activity, directed particularly against vessels trying to cross the Atlantic from the United States.

WE suspect that Mr. Arthur Shattuck is rather tired of reading, in reviews of his recitals, that some months ago he contributed his private income to war charities. When a man is patriotically moved to do something of the kind it is proper to record the fact, but it is not good taste to lug it into every reference to him afterward; conceivably it might grate on his sensibilities. The intent is kindly enough, and the "damnable iteration" is perhaps a bit of newspaper routine. Thus it seems impossible to mention the lady who was Miss Barker without adding "the $30,000,000 heiress," or Gen. Kaledines without adding "the hetman of the Don Cossacks," or the Petrie person without adding "composer of 'Asleep in the Deep.'"

THE GLORIOUS CLIMATE OF OKLAHOMA.

[An adjuster reports from Poteau.]

"Fire was caused by faulty insulation on electric drop-cord. Assured had a long drop line running from his kitchen to the sleeping porch, and this was hanging over foot of iron bed. Contact with same created short circuit and burned wire into, setting fire to bed. It being extremely cold assured had his wife, coat, overcoat, bath robes, and other articles, in addition to all his bed clothing on this bed, and it was all practically destroyed. Assured and wife were awakened by the fire scorching their feet."

IN his informing and stimulating collection of essays, "On Contemporary Literature," recently published, Mr. Stuart P. Sherman squanders an entire chapter on Theodore Dreiser. It seems to us that he might have covered the ground and saved most of his space by quoting a single sentence from Anatole France, who, referring to Zola, wrote: "He has no taste, and I have come to believe that want of taste is that mysterious sin of which the Scripture speaks, the greatest of sins, the only one which will not be forgiven."

M. FRANCE devoted another paragraph to Zola which disposed, to our content at least, of the entire naturalistic school:

"There is in all of us, in the small as well as in the great, in the humble as well as in the lofty, an instinct of beauty, a desire for all that adorns and beautifies, and this, spread throughout the world, makes the charm of life. M. Zola does not know it. There is in man an infinite need for loving which makes him divine. M. Zola does not know it. Desire and modesty are sometimes charmingly blended in human souls. M. Zola does not know it. There are on earth magnificent forms and noble thoughts. M. Zola does not know it. Even many weaknesses, many errors, and many faults have a touching beauty of their own. Grief is sacred. The sanctity of tears is at the base of all religions. Misery should suffice to make a man august in the sight of men. M. Zola does not know it. He does not know that the graces are seemly, that philosophic irony is indulgent and gentle, and that human beings inspire only two feelings in well-regulated minds: admiration or pity. M. Zola is entitled to the deepest pity."

WE have strikes in this country, and no doubt the Germans, three thousand miles away, are excited by the prospect of a revolution in the United States. No doubt they view the "carnival of crime" in Chicago as a protest against the tyranny of Woodrow Wilson. They may even believe that "the leaven of Willhelm's reply to the American note is at work among the American people."

THE Trib devoted a stickful to the agitation of a south side householder who found a live butterfly in his cellar. It so happened that on that same morning we discovered one in OUR cellar; it had fluttered in from the outside when we opened a casement. Very likely it is the habit of butterflies to fall into cellars in February.

ARMY SURGEONS GIVE WARNING.

WHEN the school inspectors report that a large percentage of the school children, far more than half, have physical defects, some of us dismiss the matter by saying "a lot of doctors looking for business." When an insurance company made a series of sickness surveys, we again disregarded the warning. Now the examining surgeons for the army are giving a warning that we must listen to.

The object of the entrance examination is twofold: First, to secure healthy soldiers capable of withstanding privations and fatigue; second, to protect the government from unworthy pensioners. When a man enters the army the government assumes responsibility for his health, not only during his service but, to a certain extent, for the remainder of his life.

Between 1914 and 1917 the recruiting surgeons rejected 77 per cent of 205,281 applicants for the army. Just about 75 per cent of the applicants were physically below par. Since we went into the war the standards have been lowered. At that, about 24 per cent of the drafted men were rejected on account of disease or defects.

Consumption or some other form of tuberculosis is responsible for about 5 per cent, or one-fifth of all the rejections. The campaign for fresh air and against consumption is justified by these figures.

Some important causes for rejection are: Defective eyesight, 3 per cent; heart disease, deformities of hands or feet, hernia, and underweight, each over 2 per cent and under 3; flat feet, defective hearing, and discharging ears, each over 1 per cent.

After the draft surgeons had passed the men they were reëxamined in the camps. The provost marshal reports that, among less than half a million recruits, these reëxamining surgeons found 30,000 who were recommended for rejection. Of these, more than one-fourth were dismissed from the army because of poor sight. Bad teeth caused 8.5 per cent of the rejections. Other important defects and diseases found in this group of men who had passed the draft examiners were: Hernia, 7.47 per cent; ear troubles, 5.94 per cent; heart disease, 5.87 per cent; tuberculosis, 5.37 per cent; mentally deficient, 4.53 per cent; venereal disease, 4.27 per cent; physically undeveloped, 4.06 per cent; and a lot of disorders numerically less important.

About 25 per cent were rejected by draft surgeons, and then the reëxamining surgeons rejected an additional 6 per cent, making a total of 31 per cent, or nearly one-third.

The men who get in will become men. They will be better protected against typhoid fever, venereal disease, and many forms of contagion. They will be changed from slouching, sloppy fellows into fine, straight-backed, upstanding men. A part of those who are rejected will learn from their physical examinations, change their habits, and escape sickness, disability, and premature death.

The question is, What will the general run of people do about it? If the men between 21 and 31 are bad, the women of the same age are worse. If these picked men made this showing, how about the rank and file of all ages and conditions? Can the state survive if bad conditions are permitted to continue?

ADVICE TO A MOTHER.

Worried Mother writes: "What can I do for my 2 year old twin boy, who has been rather delicate since birth, being troubled with bronchitis? He seemed to be thriving fairly well until early last summer. I had been feeding him with fresh milk, some vegetables, cereals, and stewed fruits, etc. Since October he has been poorly. He was troubled with rickets and has gone to a mere frame. I have been advised by my physician to keep him on a diet of skim milk and light nourishment, but I suppose I have not been particular enough, as he has not started to pick up.

"Would you advise me whether to give him fresh milk and fresh raw eggs beaten? I have been giving him phosphate in tablet form. At times they seemed to make him sick. I would then stop giving for a few days."

REPLY.

Your child is undernourished, and probably rickety. Skim milk is not what he needs. Give him some cod liver oil three times a day. Feed him from the table. Be sure that he gets some finely chopped spinach, carrots, and other vegetables, some finely chopped meat, bread, meat gravy, butter, and cereals. Suggested diet for a child two years old:

7:30 a. m.—Two or three tablespoonfuls of a well cooked cereal, with cream. Egg, soft boiled, coddled, or poached. Glass of milk. Piece of toast or cracker.

10 a. m.—Crackers and milk.

2 p. m.—Cupful of broth or beef juice. Some chopped meat and gravy. Mashed baked potato. Green vegetable. Apple sauce or stewed prunes.

6 p. m.—Cereal and milk. Crackers or toast.

CURE FOR HOOKWORM.

G. F. writes: "Will you kindly state the nature and symptoms of the hookworm and the remedy?"

REPLY.

Hookworm is a small intestinal parasite. It draws its food supply from the blood, causing anemia. The parasite enters the body through breaks in the skin, such as dew itch, travels to the intestines, and there locates and develops into a full grown worm. Diagnosis is made by finding eggs and occasionally parasites in the bowel movements. Persons infected with hookworm are pale, anemic, lazy, and indifferent. They are short winded and without endurance. Three courses of chenopodium will cure hookworm. Have your physician diagnose your case and give you oil of chenopodium if you need it.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S action in hurrying every available soldier and gun that can be spared from the Russian front, from Roumania, and from the Balkans, even from Italy, to the western front in France and in Flanders for a grand and overwhelming effort to break through the French lines to Paris and through the British and Belgian lines to Calais serves to call attention to the mystery which prevails among the general public as to the number of bridges across the Rhine. Probably it is known to the commanders in chief of the French and English armies through the observations of their aviators, but the public has been left entirely in the dark about the matter.

Until a year or so before the outbreak of the war the Rhine was the least bridged river of its size, length, and importance in existence. The Germans preferred to leave it in this relatively unbridged state because they regarded the stream as a defense on the west. Possibly, too, they had a sort of inner consciousness that ethnologically they had no right to be on the western side of the Rhine.

Prior to 1870 the Rhine from the Swiss frontier to its mouth was not crossed by a single permanent bridge except at Cologne and Mainz. Intercommunication between the right and left banks was maintained by boat bridges. Afterwards a few railroad bridges, built of iron and steel, and as easily destroyed as boat bridges, were established at Kehl and at Mannheim, but down to 1914 there was no railroad bridge or railroad communication over the river between Mainz and Cologne. In fact, the concentration of troops against Belgium at the outset of the present war was based almost entirely on the bridge at Cologne.

It is known that at the commencement of the hostilities the Germans had already devised plans and even commenced building operations for a large number of bridges at various points, notably at Geisenheim, at Coblenz, where it is alleged there are now two bridges; at Speyer, at Breisach, at Düsseldorf, where there are said to be two bridges; at Linz, at Worms, and at Wesel.

Indeed, it is claimed that there are today some eighteen bridges spanning the Rhine, without which, it may be added, it would be impossible for the kaiser to move troops with sufficient rapidity from the eastern to the western front, and vice versa. Most of these bridges have been built, as I have just pointed out, since the beginning of the war, and their destruction, either by spies working on terra firma or by sufficiently heavy bombs from aeroplanes, would seriously interfere with the movement of Germany's troops.

In this connection one cannot forbear from recalling that there is no river in the old world that for 1,600 years has played a more important rôle in the history of European warfare. As written by Lord Byron in "Childe Harold":

A thousand battles have assailed thy banks.

The Cæsars checked the triumph of the Teuton hordes in the centuries immediately prior and subsequent to the commencement of the Christian era, and from Charlemagne to Napoleon, and from Napoleon I. to the downfall of his nephew, Napoleon III., in 1870, the Rhine has always been the scene of war, of bloodshed, and of conflict. Germany has ever regarded the Rhine as her western bulwark. Her people emphasize this in all their national hymns and songs. And when their invasion of France and their march upon Paris was halted at the battle of the Marne, and afterwards at Verdun, there was relief and exultation among the nations of the entente because of the fact that the faces of the kaiser's troops, instead of being any longer turned to the setting of the sun, were turned back towards the Rhine.

It seems but the other day that I was writing in these letters about clever Lady Dysart, as the first of her sex to be elected to the office of church warden—namely, of the parish church of Croxton in Cambridgeshire. And now comes the news of her sudden death at St. Neots, her country place in Huntingdonshire, where she had made her home since her separation from her husband, and the account of her burial in the churchyard at Croxton.

The earl, ninth of his line, was not present at the funeral. This, however, was not due to any ill will. For, although they found life in common impracticable, owing to his eccentricity, yet they were very good friends when apart. The absence of Lord Dysart from the obsequies was attributable to the fact that he is very ill himself, and inasmuch as he is a sexagenarian and has always been in frail health, the succession to his honors and estates becomes of interest.

The earl had two sisters; the younger of them, Lady Agatha Tollemache, is now the wife of Lord Westbury, head of the house of Bethell, which has several representatives in this country, among them U. U. Bethell, president of the New York Telephone company, whose Bethell ancestors came to America about a couple of hundred years ago.

Lord Dysart's eldest sister, the late Lady Agnes Tollemache, was married to Charles Lindsay Scott of Bosworth Park, Leicestershire. She died in 1912, leaving an only daughter of the name of Wenefryde, who married in 1913 Edward Owain Greaves. It is Mrs. Greaves who is the next heir to her uncle's earldom of Dysart and barony of Huntingtower, as well as the entailed estates.

Mrs. Greaves, by the by, has just sold the Bosworth Park estate, which was the home of her father and mother. It comprises the famous field of the Battle of Bosworth, fought in 1485, between Henry VII. and King Richard III., Henry being crowned and Richard slain on the field of Bosworth. The well from which King Richard quenched his thirst during the combat is still in existence. So, too, is the old parish church and baptismal font, dating from the thirteenth century, while in the grammar school adjoining the church the famous Dr. Samuel Johnson received his education.

The future Lady Dysart will not need Bosworth Park. For she will inherit from her uncle a number of country places, including historic Ham house, on the Thames, between Richmond and Teddington, the principal iron gates of its park having never been opened since Charles I. drove through them for the last time and himself closed them with his own hand, declaring that in so doing he was "shutting out his enemies." It must be explained that his host on that occasion was the first Lord Dysart, who, as Will Murray, had been his whipping boy in his youth, deputed as such to receive the castigations merited by Charles. Will Murray remained ever afterwards his most faithful, devoted, and trusted retainer, and Ham house is full of relics of the ill-fated king.

MISSOURI INSURANCE COMPANY.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—Will you please give me some information as to the International Life Insurance company of St. Louis? Does the fact that it has the superintendent of insurance of the state of Missouri sign as having the policy registered and the reserve as being deposited make the policy any better?

Is it a stock company or mutual company and about how much insurance has it in force? H. B. O.

The International Life is a stock company writing nonparticipating insurance only. Its insurance in force Jan. 1, 1917, was $51,000,000. Missouri life insurance companies are required to deposit with the state approved securities equal to their reserves, which possibly adds to the protection of policy holders.

MANAGE SEVERAL EXCHANGES.

Sandwich, Ill., Jan. 15.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—Can you tell me anything regarding the reliability of Sherman & Ellis, who are doing liability insurance? W. B. W.

Sherman & Ellis of Chicago are managers of the Illinois Indemnity exchange, and of similar exchanges in other states. Their exchanges are now being examined by insurance departments of several states, and no doubt detailed reports will shortly be published.

FOR AUTO INSURANCE.

Galesburg, Ill., Jan. 28.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—Please give me name and address of two or three reliable automobile insurance companies. E. J. P.

Out of the scores of reliable automobile insurance companies this department can hardly undertake to name two or three. Consult a reputable insurance agent at Galesburg. TRIBUNE INSURANCE EDITOR.

COMPANY IN GOOD STANDING.

Cicero, Ill., Jan. 24.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—Please inform me if the Great Western Accident Insurance Company of Des Moines is a reliable company in which to insure. C. R.

The company you inquired about is in good standing. Its assets are $345,000, according to its last report.

CHOOSING A POLICY.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—Will you kindly let me know as to the reliability of the Wisconsin Life Insurance company? Also which is a better policy, a nonparticipating twenty year or a twenty year endowment policy participating? J. S.

The Wisconsin Life is an old line, legal reserve company, operating in compliance with state laws. The old line plan is sound. The choice between participating and nonparticipating insurance should not be mixed with the choice of policies. Ideally, the participating plan is best, because the policyholder contributes exactly what his insurance costs. Practically, there are arguments in favor of the guaranteed costs of the nonparticipating plan. It is simply a question of what the buyer prefers, like the choice between a brown and a blue suit. The choice of a policy depends on what the insured needs. If he has dependents he probably needs whole life insurance. If he is buying for his old age an endowment policy may be destrable.

JOINT LIFE POLICY.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—What is a joint ownership policy for man and wife, and what advantage, if any, is there in having this form of policy over two separate policies? J. A. M.

Possibly you mean a joint life policy, rather than a joint ownership policy. A joint life policy is a single policy covering two lives, but payable only once. When the first death occurs the policy is paid to the survivor and the insurance ceases. Obviously it can be sold cheaper than two policies, each of which must be paid. In one company the rate for a single life is $26.85 per $1,000, while the joint life rate is only $36.35 at the age of 35.

ASKS AS TO BENEFICIARY.

Cicero, Ill., Jan. 26.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—A married man joining an insurance society designates his mother as beneficiary and leaves nothing to his wife. In case of death, who claims the insurance, wife or mother? Also, is there any difference in case the wife has children? MRS. D. T. W.

The beneficiary named by the insured is entitled to the insurance, unless the designation of the beneficiary is contrary to the rules of the insurance society.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

As but limited space can be given letters in this department, writers must confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Unless they give us their full names and addresses their letters will not be considered. No manuscript will be returned unless the writer sends postage for that purpose.

COME ON, LET'S "HUDDLE."

Dubuque, Ia., Feb. 3.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—All sorts of ways and means for conserving fuel have been suggested by the government, but one of the most effective has not been mentioned.

In addition to meatless and wheatless and sleepless days, there should be "huddling." Regular, systematic, compulsory huddling. Let all the inhabitants regularly, twice a week, on days proclaimed by the president, turn out the lights in their homes, throw cold water on the live coals in their furnaces, turn off the radiators (to make sure no heat is escaping), and go immediately to the largest auditorium in their respective cities and "huddle" together closely for three hours as a matter of fuel conservation. Let there be no heat in the building—there need be none, for the radiation of animal heat from the audience will be sufficient. Let it be understood that this is truly a patriotic meeting and any grumbling about "how chilly we are" or any impatience with the government as to the new regulations will be dealt with by federal injustice.

As a closing hymn there might be no objection to the use of "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," but "Keep the Home Fires Burning" would be absolutely prohibited.

The writer sees in this proposed movement for conservation a great step in advance. Bachelors, maids of uncertain age, widowers, and widows would prove ardent supporters of such a patriotic effort, and surely would be supported by every man and woman.

SLIGHTING THE REGULARS.

Chickamauga Park, Ga., Jan. 31.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The fad of the hour is the national army, but may I not speak a few words in behalf of the men of the regular army? Entertainments given have carried special invitations to the units of the national army and national guard, while the regular army has been ignored. Although we of this supply train and many other regulars are under orders for foreign service, not a sweater or garment of any description has been received from such organizations as the Red Cross. Meanwhile, we have seen practically all of certain national army units clothed in sweaters and sleeping under quilts.

We do not wish to believe this slight intentional. Rather would we believe it due to a lack of knowledge of the real facts. We sincerely trust that our plea for a kind thought once in a while will not go unanswered.

DRAFTED, HENCE JOBLESS.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Before I was fortunate enough to obtain my present position I walked the streets of Chicago for three weeks, something I never had to do in normal times, begging men to employ me and being turned down because I was subject to the draft.

This is not only "unfair" in the words of my confrere in this morning's paper, but is, in my opinion, unpatriotic. Is it a spirit of patriotism to turn a man down who is a citizen of America and patriotic enough to stand ready for Uncle Sam's call?

Most advertisements, too, nowadays state that an applicant must be draft exempt if he wishes consideration. No wonder applicants perjure themselves in order to earn their daily bread. Patriotism does not alone lie in the buying of Liberty bonds and thrift stamps, but in keeping young men fit who are awaiting their turn to defend their country. And can they be fit when they are called if they are left to starve awaiting this call? W. M. S.

ABSENCE OF INTELLECT!

Chicago, Feb. 2.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Outside the head of the war department, do you know of any showing of stupidity greater than that of the head of the department controlling the building and replacing of the breakwaters along our lake front?

There wooden cribs are built year after year, filled with rocks, and year after year the storms thundering in from the north lift and cast them, a mass of wrecked timbers and stones, from six to fifty feet on a crumbling shore.

Are these men so stupid they cannot learn the lesson the lake teaches yearly or have they established a bureau for the replacing of these cribs that runs only in circles and works without brains?

LINCOLN DAY.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In view of the serious state of affairs in which we find our country in common with the entire world, I feel that it would be highly proper and advisable to celebrate the approaching anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln by calling upon our people to assemble at their chosen places of worship and consecrate themselves anew to the service of America, and that all theaters and other places of amusement have especial patriotic programs on that day. 2 DIVISIONS OF RUSSIANS TAKEN BY ROUMANIANS

Swedish Relief Ships Are Shelled by Rebels of Finland.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Official telegrams dispatched from Jassy Saturday say the greater part of the Roumania army now is engaged in fighting Russian troops, who are overrunning Moldavia and Bessarabia, while Bolshevik troops are concentrating in Bukowina.

After twenty-four hours' fighting the Roumanians disarmed the Ninth Russian division, which attacked Galatz, taking more than fifty guns, and surrounded and disarmed the Eighth Russian division, which attacked the center of the Moldavian front. This division was sent under convoy to Russia.

In response to an appeal from the Bessarabian republic, it is officially declared, Roumania sent troops there to prevent the devastation of the country by bands of Russians, and also occupied Kishinev, the Ungheni-Jassy railway, and depots from which Roumania draws supplies. Fighting is in progress between the Roumanians and the Bolsheviki over all Bessarabia as far as the Dniester river.

Swedish Ships Fired On.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 4.—Swedish steamers, accompanied by a gunboat and an icebreaker which had crossed the Gulf of Bothnia to take on Swedish subjects desiring to leave Finland on account of the revolution, were fired upon yesterday by members of the revolutionary red guard on the island of Raefso, near the Finnish port of Myantyulucto. Six shells burst within a short distance of the icebreaker.

Russian soldiers and red guards boarded the gunboat and explained they had fired in the belief that the steamships were carrying troops and munitions. They permitted all the vessels except the gunboat to enter the port.

The American consul at Helsingfors, Mr. Haynes, replying to a message from Ira Nelson Morris, the American minister here, reports that the fifteen American residents of the city are well. He apprehends no violence against them, but says they naturally are uneasy in view of the looting and murders which are being carried out by the Red Guard. Mr. Morris is endeavoring to get money and provisions to Consul Haynes.

Five Finlanders, who escaped from Abo to Sweden, declare the majority of the workingmen in southern Finland have no sympathy with the Reds, who have been able to terrorize the law abiding populace only because the people were unarmed.

The Red Guards are being paid with the proceeds of the bank looting and enforced contributions from the bourgeoisie.

Red Guards Defeated.

A courier to Torneo reports that the Reds were defeated at Tervola and left behind eleven dead and seven wounded. They carried away many wounded with them. There were no casualties among the White Guard.

In an action a few miles north of Helsingfors the White Guards are reported to have been defeated owing to the fact that the Reds and the Russians were better armed.

FORM U. S. BOLSHEVIKI.

New York, Feb. 4.—The so-called colonial congress of Russians voted today to form "a united colony of all Russian citizens in America," with a head council of eleven members, to act as an executive committee. Branches in cities and towns which subscribe to "the Bolshevik sentiment" will be permitted to send delegates to the national colonial congress, to meet annually. The executive committee will be located in New York City.

George Silver's Soldier Nephew Is Missing

The detective bureau has been asked to search for Sergt. Abraham Harris, company K, Fortieth infantry, who disappeared on Jan. 30 while returning to Fort Sheridan after a ten days' furlough, which he spent with his uncle, George Silver, owner of several saloons in the loop. Silver told the police that his nephew had $300 with him when he left.

U. S. GUNNERS' SMASHING FIRE ELATES OFFICERS

German Trenches and Dugouts Wrecked by Shelling.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Feb. 3.—[Delayed.]—American officers are elated over the results of the first artillery duel between American and German gunners, which followed a preliminary shelling by the Germans Saturday evening. In official reports to the headquarters of their organization the infantry commanders today paid tribute to the promptness with which the artillery responded to the call for a barrage and to the effectiveness of the artillery fire.

Aerial reconnaissances today showed that the American gunfire had had a very destructive effect. It will require several nights of hard work under artillery fire for the Germans to repair the first line trenches caved in by the American 75s and to patch the gaps in the barbed wire.

Three Dugouts Smashed.

It is known that at least three of the enemy dugouts were demolished, probably with some casualties. On the other hand the damage done to the American trenches will be repaired before tomorrow morning.

In a regimental headquarters village shelled by the enemy many buildings were wrecked completely or in part, the debris being piled in the streets. There were no casualties among the officers. The whistling of two big shells gave warning of the coming bombardment and officers and men sought shelter in the dugouts.

Call for Barrage.

The German artillery opened the engagement with a desultory bombardment of the American trenches at a certain point, firing many shrapnel shells. In the midst of this a red rocket calling for a barrage ascended from the German first lines.

Before the German artillery could respond the American 75s, summoned into action by a signal from the first line, laid a curtain of fire along the enemy first lines. Then began the battle of the gunners. The increased intensity of the German fire was met immediately by the Americans, who not only showered shells on the original sector, but quickly extended their activity to a wide front.

FLYERS FIGHT TO SWEEP SKY FOR SPRING GRAPPLE

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The Daily Mail announces that the government will notify Germany of its intention to make reprisals unless Germany releases from prison immediately two British air pilots who were recently sentenced by a German court martial to ten years' imprisonment for dropping propaganda pamphlets inside the German lines.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—A marked increase in aerial operations on the western and Italian fronts by both the allies and Teutons as reported in the official war communications from the various army headquarters indicates the approach of critical spring operations.

Venice and a number of towns on the Venetian plain have been bombed by enemy airmen, according to the Italian official communication received here today. While no damage and no casualties resulted from the attack on Venice considerable destruction was wrought in the towns of Padua, Treviso, and Mestre.

Raiders Active in West.

Nearly four and a half tons of bombs were dropped Sunday on various targets on the western front.

"Five hostile machines were brought down in air fighting," the statement says, "and five were driven down out of control. One of our machines is missing."

Zeebrugge was bombarded yesterday afternoon by a number of airplanes which hovered over the coast, according, to dispatches received by way of Amsterdam. Bombs also fell in Bruges harbor.

Calais was bombed by enemy airplanes of the Gotha type, it was officially announced today in Paris.

According to Berlin, eighteen enemy airplanes and two captive balloons were brought down in two days of intense aerial fighting on the western front.

The official communication of today from British headquarters reported the destruction of two German aircraft and the forcing down of two others, while the French report claimed thirteen German flyers were shot down and fifteen were damaged during the last eleven days of January.

Yankees Drop Three Foes.

Thomas Hitchcock Jr., son of the well known American turfman, Thomas Hitchcock, whose home is on Long Island, downed two enemy airmen within a short time of each other—his first victories in the air. David E. Putnam of Brookline, Mass., brought down his third machine.

AMERICAN DOWNS FOE.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 4.—The shooting down of a crack German aviator by Francis Peabody Magoun Jr., a Harvard graduate, now a second lieutenant in the royal flying corps, was described in a letter from him made public tonight.

It was the young American's first combat, but jockeying for position he suddenly outmaneuvered his opponent and let go with his machine gun, killing the foe.

NO WEAKLINGS

U. S. Prisoners in Germany Keep Spirits Unbroken, but Worry About Families.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—American prisoners in German camps are facing hardships with unbroken spirits, but are worried about their failure to receive mail from relatives in this country, according to letters in possession of the prisoner of war aid department of the Young Men's Christian association. The letters sent to E. G. Wilson, associate secretary, recently returned to this country after spending two years in war work in Europe, were made public here tonight.

Barnaby Boyle is known officially as American prisoner of war No. 1. He claimed to have gone through the Sitting Bull campaign and the Spanish war without a scratch and to have met misfortune only when he turned sailor.

Probably the youngest American held as prisoner of war is Henry R. Hendren, 16 years old, in a prison camp at Lubeck, Germany. "I wish you would kindly notify my mother of my whereabouts," he said. "I have written to her several times, but have not received a reply. The address is 210 Maple avenue, Berkeley, Norfolk, Va."

One of the most human letters of the batch of 100 was from a wife who lives in East Boston, Mass., to her husband in a prison camp in Germany. He asked the Y. M. C. A. to find out why she did not write. Here is part of what she wrote:

"If you have not received the letter I sent before, I will have to tell you again that a beautiful baby daughter was born to us April 26, 1917. I had her baptized the name of Mary. I had her pose for her picture especially to send to you. I don't suppose you received that, either.

"Mary is a beautiful baby. I could write a book about all the cute things she does; and can you believe, Tom, she is sitting up by herself and wearing soft shoes, and only 4 months old at present. She has black hair and blue eyes, like myself, but I can see you in her smile. She has a head shaped like yours, and her hands are the very shape of yours. I know you will be wild about her if you could only see the dear. She is such a comfort to me. I love and kiss her for you."

"I would like very much a little soap, please," wrote Walter W. Perkins of Wichita, Kas. He requested that his mother, Mrs. Bettie Reynolds of Wichita, be notified of his whereabouts.

MANY CHANCES TO BUY THRIFT STAMPS TODAY

Chicago generally awoke yesterday to the fact that thrift week is on. Orders for the 25 cent thrift stamps were heaped upon postmen while boy scouts received orders for thousands of dollars' worth, it was estimated by their work at the elevated stations.

At 8:30 this morning squads of emergency drivers are to go on duty at the Rush street bridge and similar places where automobiles pass in large numbers on the way to the loop. The women promise to let no machine go by unsolicited. At the same time volunteers from the Illinois Equal Suffrage association will take up their places in the booths in department stores.

During the luncheon hours volunteer salesmen will invade the restaurants of all classes. Later in the afternoon boy scouts will again take up their posts on the elevated platforms to take orders.

Levin, Anarchist, to Face Landis as Draft Dodger

Ben Levin, said to be associated with the "international propaganda group" of anarchists, contributor to "The Social War," and a recognized member of the inner circle of anarchy, will be placed on trial today before Judge Landis—but not as an anarchist. He is charged with failing to register for the draft.

FRENCH ACCLAIM WAR COUNCIL'S ORDER 'CONQUER'

Means Fighting Will Go On with Energies Redoubled.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The French press was unanimous today in commendation of the interallied war council's statement. The principal editorial comments follow:

EXCELSIOR—With concise strength the statement shows responsibility of the central empire governments for prolongation of the war. It is a simple, clear response to Hertling and Czernin.

MATIN—It is an affirmation of the normal attitude of the common allies, in face of the central powers' manifestations toward President Wilson. The war will continue with redoubled energy.

Petit Journal—Although no decision is given, it is permitted to believe satisfaction will be given. Public opinion is demanding realization of political direction of the military command, so far as possible.

PETIT PARISIENNE—The statement gives the best of promise.

ECHO DE PARIS—It is purely and simply a declaration for continuance of the war.

Discordance in London.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The only discordant notes heard in the editorial judgment of the morning newspapers on the results of the meeting at Versailles of the supreme war council come from the Daily News and the Daily Chronicle, which declare the report of the conference will be received with very tempered satisfaction. Several other morning newspapers announce that the report was not received in time for comment.

Additional information regarding the development and the nature of the enlargement of the council's functions is wanted by the Daily News, and it hopes that Premier Lloyd George when he speaks in the house of commons on Tuesday will let the country know if this means the overruling of the high commands of the individual powers and "the entire absence of any constructive note."

Opposes a Generalissimo.

The Daily Chronicle appears to be afraid that the council is assuming executive functions, and it expects enlightenment through parliament.

"We should not forget," it says, "the limits which the constitution of the alliance imposes. It includes numerous great powers. They fight as equals and all are democracies. Each must preserve an equal and independent voice and the army of each must remain under the commanders responsible to the governments which represent the peoples of each country. Therefore the appointment of a single generalissimo must be ruled out."

Dispels Fog of Peace.

The Times calls the Versailles statement eminently satisfactory and says:

"It tends to dispel the deceptive fog of peace which has been gathering and has been artificially thickened in many allied capitals during the dreary months of winter. It reaffirms the determination and objects of the allies in unmistakable terms with a welcome note of fidelity."

The Morning Post says: "We find it reassuring to have this unaltered conviction that the only way to peace is through an unflinching prosecution of the war to victory. As President Wilson has said in effect the greatest foes of peace are the pacifists, for they do not know how to get what they want."

Well, we know how to fit feet; any feet; we're doing it right, all the time. And while we haven't any shoes that will last forever, we'll show you a pair that will give you the best of service; and when once you get the right fit here, you can always duplicate it.

ALLIES IN WEST STILL 'TOP DOG,' BAKER ASSERTS

More Guns and Men than Foe, He Says, Warning of Propaganda.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—All reports to the war department indicate that the allies still hold a very appreciable numerical superiority both in men and guns on the western front, despite the heavy German concentration there since the defection of Russia.

Secretary Baker's weekly war review today made this announcement, and in commenting later Mr. Baker said it represented the best judgment of the department based upon advices from all sources.

The review this week gives first place to the statement that "American troops which have completed their training are now occupying a portion of the actual battle front." It warns the country that "the world has been flooded" with report of internal unrest in Germany which must not be allowed "to affect the effectiveness or speed of our own preparations."

Commenting on the meeting of the supreme war council at Versailles, the review says it "promises to show positive results" in the way of unity of action on all fronts.

In Minor Actions.

Reviewing operations for the week ending Feb. 2, Secretary Baker says: "American troops which have now completed their training are occupying a portion of the actual battle front. The operations in which our troops have so far been engaged were of a minor character.

"On Jan. 30 the Germans attempted a strongly pushed raid against our line for purposes of identification. Under cover of a heavy mist the enemy was able to reach our advanced positions. A short brush ensued and the raiders were compelled to withdraw in haste after inflicting slight casualties.

Second Raid Balked.

"Two days later the enemy apparently attempted another reconnoitering thrust, but was dispersed before any headway could be made.

"Our patrols have been active in No Man's Land and our scouts have made themselves familiar with the details of the hostile positions opposite them.

"Another event of importance took place in France. The interallied supreme war council met at Versailles, attended by Gen. Bliss, chief of staff of the army, and Gen. Pershing as well as representatives of France, Great Britain, and Italy. Complete and close coöperation between the allies and ourselves and a harmonious understanding between the supreme commands of all the forces engaged promises to show positive results. Unity of purpose on all fronts will thus be attained.

Those German Strikes.

"During the last seven day period the world has been flooded with the news of very serious internal unrest in Germany. Widespread strikes among munitions workers are reported. While dissatisfaction is no doubt rife in Germany and strikes of increasing seriousness have occurred we must not allow any reported disturbance within the German empire to affect the effectiveness or speed of our own preparations.

"During the week hostile concentrations in the west continued. In certain quarters the reports spread by the enemy that he holds a preponderant numerical superiority in the west have gained some credence. While positive proof has been received that the enemy has removed troops from the eastern theater and is stripping other fronts for the coming struggle in the west, nevertheless the allies are believed still to hold a very appreciable numerical superiority both in men and guns.

Clear Air Aids Planes.

"Profiting by the favorable atmospheric conditions which prevailed, air raids on a large scale were undertaken. The British successfully bombed railway centers in Flanders and air squadrons undertook attacks upon munition plants and other military objectives in the Rhine area. London and Paris as well as Dunkirk, Calais, and Boulogne were visited by hostile air craft.

"In Italy a further improvement in the combat situation is noted. The Italians were successful in following up their plans to regain points of particular strategic importance along their battle front.

Take Critical Peaks.

"The Italians succeeded in capturing the hostile strongholds of the important peaks of the Col Del Rosso and the Monte di Val Bella, which resulted in an appreciable advance of the Italian line in this area, the capture of 100 officers, 2,500 men, and a large quantity of munitions.

"Along the Balkan front a renewed activity is recorded. Patrol encounters took place west of Lake Dorian.

"In Palestine the British are pushing slowly but steadily forward, enlarging their sphere of operations and consolidating the ground won."

OFFICIAL REPORTS ON ALL WAR FRONTS

FRENCH FRONT

FRENCH.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—After violent artillery preparation the Germans last night attempted to make a raid in the sector west of Fresnes, northeast of Coucy Château. They were repulsed easily by the French. The artillery was active on the right bank of the Meuse.

AVIATION.

In the period between Jan. 21 and 31, inclusive, nine German airplanes were brought down in aerial combats by French pilots and four by the French anti-craft fire. In the same period fifteen German airplanes, badly damaged, were compelled to descend behind the enemy lines.

NIGHT STATEMENT.

During the day the artillery action became quite intense on the front north of the Aisne, in the region of Carnillet, in the Argonne, and in upper Alsace.

BRITISH.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Early last night a party of our troops raided the enemy's trenches east of Hargicourt. The hostile artillery was active during the night in the neighborhood of Lens and northeast of Gavrelle.

AVIATION.

Yesterday's naval aircraft carried out a bombing raid on the enemy airdrome at Houttave (Belgium). Many bombs were dropped on the objective. During the day, in the course of aerial fighting, one enemy aircraft was destroyed and two were driven down out of control. Two of our machines failed to return.

NIGHT STATEMENT.

A strong enemy party attempted to raid one of our posts this morning north of Havrincourt, but was driven off with heavy loss by our machine gun fire. Shortly before dawn another hostile raiding party rushed one of our posts south of Armentieres; five of our men are missing.

The hostile artillery was active this afternoon east of Hargicourt and also showed increased activity during the day north of Lens, in the neighborhood of Armentieres, and east of Ypres.

BELGIAN.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—During the last two days our artillery has silenced several enemy batteries and has carried out fires of destruction and reprisal against enemy organizations and defenses in reply to artillery fire and bomb firing before Dixmude. An enemy aviator was brought down within our lines by Britsih airmen.

GERMAN.

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—There has been artillery activity at many points, which increased in Flanders toward evening on the sectors between Houthoist wood and the Lys and on both sides of the Scarpe.

West of Bullecourt the British launched a strong reconnoitering attack, which broke down. On the Aillette positions our posts north of the Braye were penetrated by the French for a short time. Northwest of Bezonvaux our infantry and pioneers brought back nineteen prisoners from the French trenches.

AVIATION.

In the last two days eighteen enemy airplanes and two captive balloons were brought down in aerial fighting and by gunfire.

ACTIVITY ON THE WEST FRONT

1—Paris reports Calais was bombed by Gotha planes.

2—Belgian headquarters report successful artillery fighting before Dixmude.

3—German artillery was active during night near Lens and northeast of Gavrelle.

4—British report successful raid on German lines east of Hargicourt.

5—Paris reports repulse of German raid west of Fresnes and northeast of Caney Chateau.

ITALIAN FRONT

ITALIAN.

ROME, Feb. 4.—There has been increased artillery and trench mortar activity in the Lagarina valley and toward the coast. Reconnaissances and surprise attacks carried out by us at Castione and Capo Sile resulted in our taking prisoners.

Our aircraft have vigorously bombed the enemy's rear lines. Traffic on the railway lines east of the Piave was effectively disturbed last night by our airships. All of them returned safely.

Enemy aviators again gave vent to their mischievous impulses by bombarding Venice and other towns on the Venetian plain, where the peaceful population is densest and the military objectives of the least importance.

Padua, Treviso, and Mestre were repeatedly attacked. As usual, the greatest damage was done to private property and the largest number of casualties was among the civilians. The civil hospital at Treviso was hit, and altogether eight persons were killed and ten wounded among the population.

There were neither casualties nor damage at Venice.

GERMAN.

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—Between the Adige and the Piave there were numerous artillery duels. There is nothing new elsewhere.

MACEDONIAN FRONT

FRENCH.

West of Lake Ochrida an enemy detachment, which attempted to capture one of our posts, was repulsed. Greek aviators bombed the Miletkovo station in the Vardar valley.

in Germany. They have been recalled to the front.

With the exception of a new movement at Jena, reported by the Tageblatt of Berlin, the strikes now appear virtually to have ended.

The president of the reichstag has refused to comply with the demand of the Socialist party that the reichstag be convoked in special session, according to the Tageblatt. The other parties, he announced, had opposed the demand.

German newspapers record no disturbances in Berlin on Saturday.

Troops Guard Court Martial.

The directors of the Krupp works report, the Cologne Gazette says, that only 400 out of 110,000 workmen went on strike and that these were fined or dismissed.

The Berlin Vorwaerts says that the building in which the court martial is sitting is closed to the public and guarded by troops. Heinrich Schultze, the first prisoner to be tried, was sentenced to imprisonment for six months for having distributed leaflets urging workers to strike.

Feared Death Threat.

A copy of the Vossische Zeitung received here declared that Sunday night strike leaders counseled resumption of work in the face of the death threat of military officials. In Magdeburg, Ludwigshaven, and Breslau, it was said, the strikers followed this advice and flocked back to the factories. "Conditions are normal in Essen," the newspaper said.

In Cologne, the president of the labor organization attended a strike meeting to convey the demands of the imperial chancellor. After a short debate, the strikers decided to return to work.

The Lokal Anzeiger declared that in eastern Saxony "the strike is waning." Half the employés of the Krupp plant who struck have returned to work. A partial strike occurred in the Goth aeroplane factory at Dusseldorf.

Support Hungarian Ministry.

The Hungarian constitutional party, headed by Count Andrassy, and the United Independence party, the leader of which is Count Apponyi, have decided to join the new government party, according to a Budapest dispatch to the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin. Five of Count Apponyi's followers declined to join in the movement.

U-BOAT BEATEN? BRITISH BLUFF, BERLIN ASSERTS

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 4.—A dispatch received here today from Berlin gives the German reply to the statement last week of Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the British admiralty, who in reviewing the first year of unrestricted submarine warfare said the submarine menace was being held, that the sinking of merchantmen was decreasing and the destruction of U-boats increasing, and that the morale of the submarine crews was deteriorating on account of the British policy of secrecy in regard to the fate of submarine crews.

"What Sir Eric Geddes said is merely a repetition of familiar assertions which are disproved by the facts. If that brave optimist Geddes expects by such means to lower the morale and the power of resistance of our U-boat crews he will have as little success as has been met with in the attempts to bluff the German people, who long ago realized that English secrecy was nothing but an expression of consciousness of weakness."

Emperor William created a special decoration for U-boat crews on the anniversary of the inauguration of ruthless submarine warfare as "recognition for meritorious work during the war."

LOCAL BO... PREPARE T... 5,000 T...

LOCAL BOARDS PREPARE TO RUSH 5,000 TO CAMP

U. S. Order to Fill Ranks Speeds Up Work Here.

An order having been issued yesterday by Provost Marshal General Crowder to send the remaining 35 per cent of the first draft quota to the training camps, local exemption boards will today begin the preparations necessary to getting the men away.

There are between 7,000 and 8,000 men in Chicago's uncalled increment and approximately 15,000 in Illinois, but Gen. Crowder's order only calls for 5,000 to be sent to Camp Grant. Whether the remainder will be sent to other camps is not yet known.

The call will result in an addition to the national army of about 75,000 men and will bring the combined strength of the selective force up to 685,000.

Welcome in Chicago.

On the whole the order was welcomed by Chicago registrants, who since September have been kept on the anxious seat and who are now glad that they know definitely just when they will leave.

All the newly appointed appeal agents from the eighty-six local boards and twenty-six agents from country boards met at the State Council of Defense yesterday afternoon and took steps to simplify and speed up their work.

It is probable that the appeal agents will go over every questionnaire to determine two important things — first, whether men placed in class 1 belong there, and, second, whether men placed in other classes should not be placed in class 1.

If the draft boards throughout the United States have the same percentage of registrants in class 1 as local board No. 17 has, about 3,700,000 men in class 1 will be available for military service. In this division 37 per cent of the men registered were placed in class 1.

Not Subject to Draft.

The British-Canadian recruiting mission announced yesterday that British-Canadian citizens in the United States are not subject to the present draft, notwithstanding pending treaties.

C. J. Hambleton of the real estate firm of Louis A. Seeberger & Co. has been appointed a member of district appeal board No. 2. He succeeds Ralph Crews, who resigned to accept a commission as major in the ordnance division.

CALL OUT 74,500.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—Provost Marshal General Crowder today announced that the movement of the last increments of the men selected in the first draft will begin on Feb. 23 and continue for a period of five days. This will complete the operation of the first draft, as all states will have furnished their full quotas.

The movement, totaling about 74,500 men, will bring the strength of the national army up to the 685,000 men contemplated in the first draft.

The number of men to be started to Camp Grant is 5,000.

15,000 More from Illinois.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 4.—Approximately 15,000 conscripts will move to cantonments from Illinois as a result of the call of the war department today for filling up the first draft, according to Adjt. Gen. Dickson. This represents 35 per cent of the full Illinois first draft quota.

ICE DRIFTS AWAY.

When the lockupkeeper of the Englewood police station came to take the cellmate of Joe Marks, held as a pickpocket, to court yesterday, he forgot to lock the cell door, whereupon Marks strolled away to liberty.

HOLABIRD NOT YET PROMOTED; 3 DIE AT LOGAN

Camp Logan, Tex., Feb. 4.—[Special.] Rumors that Maj. John Holabird, adjutant of the Fifty-eighth artillery brigade, will be transferred to line duty arose from Secretary Baker's ruling that former regulars should not be put in staff positions. No change has been made yet, however. Gen. H. D. Todd Jr., commander of the brigade, has not received official word of any change. It is thought that Maj. Holabird will be given a lieutenant colonelcy and assigned to the One Hundred and Twenty-fourth Field Artillery.

Three deaths were recorded in the division today. They are:

New figures on the war risk insurance show a total of $212,352,000.

Wyles B. Bradley of Mount Vernon, N. Y., flying cadet at Ellington field, was burned to death when his plane fell thirty feet today, the gasoline tank exploding.

KARL PERRY MISSING.

Relatives of Karl Perry, a farmer of Union Grove, Ind., who has been missing since Jan. 26 from the home of his son-in-law, Louis Kohn of 6915 Cornell avenue, have appealed to the police for aid in seeking him.

RIFLE PRACTICE AT CAMP GRANT; 23 BELOW ZERO

300, Including Colonel, Report Frostbites; New Records.

Camp Grant, Ill., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Col. C. C. Smith and the One Hundred and Seventy-first infantry brigade today braved 23 below zero temperature and marched to the rifle range, where the men shot over the rapid fire course until noon, when a hot dinner completed their cold weather test. When the brigade reached barracks Col. C. E. Stodter, commanding the Three Hundred and Forty-second infantry, found that he had frozen his nose, and 300 of the men reported minor frostbites.

Another national army record has been annexed by the Eighty-sixth division. Following a scientific examination made by Lieut. Heber B. Cummings, psychological examiner, representing the war department, it is announced that the 534 selected candidates in the Third Officers' Training school led all other divisions at training camps in mental alertness, speed and accuracy.

Candidate L. C. Rogers, appointee of the University of Wisconsin and now member of the First battery, made the remarkable score of 395 points out of a possible 410. His record has been equaled by but one other man in the thousands examined since the system was inaugurated by the war department.

The Tests.

Assisted by Dr. A. Stone of Indiana university, the psychological expert examined every officer and man in Col. E. A. Hickman's school. The men were first given paper and pencil and told to write down numbers dictated to them in vollies. This test reached to nine numbers, dictated in sing-song and carried in the candidates' minds until they were given the order to write.

Most of the men found smooth sailing up to the series of six numbers, but the test beyond that proved a strain. Then came speed tests in proofreading. Candidates were shown sentences in which words and clauses were transposed and were required to write them properly and analyze their meaning in a few seconds.

Common Sense Questions.

"Common sense" tests were also included, among them, "If you met a drunk on the street and he wanted to fight, what would you do? 1.—Go on about your business. 2.—Hit him in the nose. 3.—Take him home and put him to bed. 4.—Turn him over to a policeman. 5.—Run." The majority of men said they would take him home and put him to bed, although they knew the correct answer to be, "Go on about your business."

Chicago Men Promoted.

Two Chicago men received their promotion in the national army today. Lieut. Robert K. Fast, insurance officer, is made captain and Second Lieutenant Hugh W. McCulloch, son of Catharine Waugh McCulloch, is given a silver bar. Both men are in the adjutant general's department.

Twenty-four selective soldiers representing the various nationalities at Camp Grant, will attend a dinner given at the Hotel La Salle Wednesday night. The dinner is to be given by the National Security league.

BABY DIES FROM BURNS.

WOMEN TO KEEP PLACE IN 'TRADE,' SELFRIDGE SAYS

Londoner Predicts a Great Expansion in Industry.

The joy and satisfaction of work, which, as a result of the war, has come to the women of England, through their participation in industrial and mercantile life, will still be theirs after the close of the war. Harry Gordon Selfridge, formerly of Chicago and now one of the foremost merchants of London, made the foregoing promise yesterday after his arrival for a flying visit with friends in Chicago.

"Many who are taking their husbands' or brothers' places," said Mr. Selfridge, "will voluntarily return to their homes; but those who prefer to continue their work will be needed, on account of the enlarged scope of the future business of England. England has in the past been leisurely and, to a certain extent, indifferent about business; she is beginning to be alert and alive to the necessity of securing and holding a market for many kinds of goods in which she has not hitherto dealt. This enlarged volume of business will demand the presence in trade of all those now taking part, and many more."

Doubts German Revolt.

A warning was given by Mr. Selfridge against believing too readily the reports of German internal revolution. "It is a piece of camouflage of which the Germans might be quite capable to throw the rest of the world off the right track," he said. "On the other hand, it may be a serious thing and the beginning of an early end to the war.

"The presence of American soldiers, some of the very finest that have entered the field, has been most heartening to the allied armies. Americans have a reputation with Englishmen and Frenchmen for quick wit and effectiveness of action, and the arrival of American troops has borne out this reputation. We have seen much of the boys in London, and some of them have been delightful guests at Highcliff castle, our residence near London."

About His Daughters.

Of his daughetrs, Mr. Selfridge brought reports of hard work in war relief. Miss Violette is working from 8 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock in the evening at a war hospital near their residence. Miss Rosalie has given up her hospital work to enter other war relief work, which keeps her busy long hours of every day.

Mr. Selfridge will leave for New York today and sail soon for England. He was the guest while in Chicago of his wife's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Chandler of 744 Rush street.

DON'T BUILD HOMES!

Such Is McAdoo Plea to Save Money and Labor for War.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4.—An appeal to the public not to build new homes during the war except when the need is urgent, in order to save capital, material, and labor for essential war enterprises, was issued tonight by Secretary McAdoo.

"Home building is an excellent thing in normal times," his statement said, "but at present, unless there is a real shortage of houses for war workers, I strongly advise that materials, valuable labor, and credit be not utilized for this purpose. Whether homes should be built should be determined by the urgency of the need."

The secretary explained that the treasury is observing this rule by refusing to let contracts for federal buildings except in cases of absolute necessity.

500 Men from Camp Grant Reach Alabama Quarters

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—The 500 men who arrived from Camp Grant Sunday night spent a quiet day at Camp Sheridan. The entire battalion is under strict quarantine and will be so held for two weeks. When they arrived they found quarters ready for them, and there is room in their camp for 3,000 or 4,000 more men.

'BIG SISTER' AIDS POSTOFFICE BOYS TO FORM A CLUB

Special Messengers Meet at Y. M. C. A. and Organize.

Enthusiasm raised to the 'nth power was in evidence at the first club meeting of the boys of the special delivery section of the Chicago postoffice, held last night in the Y. M. C. A., 15 South La Salle street.

The object was to form a regular organization of the boys. It was the culmination of efforts of Miss Wynifred Thomas, the director of the special delivery boys. She has been planning to that end during the ten years of her service.

James M. Trasnik, Robert E. Lee, Fred W. Peters, John D. Freislinger, and Edward J. Koller comprised the committee that helped Miss Thomas in making the final steps toward the organization.

Big Sister of Thousands.

"I am the 'Big Sister' of more boys than any woman in Chicago," said Miss Thomas. "I get acquainted with over 1,000 every year and as I have been in the service for ten years you can figure for yourself."

In introducing Mr. Samuel Cummings Miss Thomas, who was the toastmistress of the evening, said: "This is the beginning of the realization of a dream I have had for many years. We have felt that some organization among the boys was quite necessary, so that they might come in touch with each other in a social way."

Gift for Miss Thomas.

Robert E. Lee thanked Miss Thomas for her interest in behalf of the boys, and presented her with a huge basket of flowers.

Judge Landis closed the speechmaking by assuring the organization of his support in their every effort. He raised howls of approval when he told them he intends using his influence to get their week's work shortened to six instead of seven days as at present.

The musical entertainment was furnished by one of their own members, Chester F. Smith, pianist.

'MOSES NEEDED AID, MR. WILSON; HOW ABOUT YOU?'

William Hard Asks the President: "Has U. S. a War Plan?"

BY WILLIAM HARD.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Mr. President, we address to you certain questions of fundamental policy, questions which have never been answered, questions which it is your duty to answer, questions which it is our duty to ask. We have not done our duty. We do it now.

You yourself have pointed our duty out to us. You have said to us, through your letter to Senator Chamberlain, that our inquiries into the conduct of the war department have taken "indispensable officials of the department constantly away from their work and have contributed a great deal to such delay and confusion as had inevitably arisen." We should have thought of that. You should have been our first witness.

We are not really interested in the details of the work of Mr. Eisenmann of the committee on supplies of the advisory commission of the Council of National Defense operating as an agent of the finished products section of the purchasing commission of the war industries board in the locating of a plant for the sorting of rags to be worked into uniforms to be bought by a major in the quartermaster corps. Perhaps Mr. Eisenmann should have been allowed to go on laboring with his rags uninterrupted.

Wilson Is Center of All.

We are not really interested in rags or in uniforms in their technical details, except in so far as they show us whether or not we have had a competent set of policies, a competent set of plans, at the center of things, at the top of things. You are that center. Your are that top.

Under our present system the whole "administrative overhead" of the government of the United States, spending perhaps $15,000,000,000 in the next fiscal year through a multitude of separated departments, is you and your handful of personal secretaries and clerks in the White House. Outside the White House, in the whole of the rest of Washington, there is no official who is not busy all day long at rags or trench knives, or ships or railway trains, or 3-inch guns, or meatless days or something else detailed and technical.

You have no board of directors. You have only heads of departments. You are our board of directors, and you are our "administrative overhead." You are both of these things, all by yourself. And, therefore, you are our one self. And, therefore, you are our one possible source of authentic information on fundamental policy. We should have summoned you first.

Cannot Summon President.

But we could not summon you. The prime minister of the British empire must not only stand up and answer questions in the house of commons but now, in practice, he must stand up before bodies of delegates from trade unions or miners and lacemakers and dockers, and he must answer, man to man, the questions they put to him from the floor with regard to the intentions of the British empire in Mesopotamia.

We hope we have as much curiosity with regard to the affairs of our country and as much manhood as the laborers of Britain. But we could not summon you. Under our system we could not summon you to be cross-questioned and heckled. We, therefore, send you this letter.

Every question in it goes to policy, to administrative policy, to the facts on which alone a successful administrative policy can be based. We ask you:

Have you seen a statement of the ships, of the tonnage of the ships, available to us for the transport of men and of goods to Europe in January, February, March, April, May, and so on in the year 1918?

We apologize for the simplicity of this question. We apologize for the simplicity of all our questions. But have you ever seen any such statement?

We hasten to tell you that we do not mean the ordinary tables of guesses. We are familiar with them. They include a large number of ships now in our trade to South America and to the orient and to other places.

But they do not show how many of those ships will be transferred to the trade across the Atlantic or when. And they include a large number of ships which, various press agents say, will be built in various months of 1918. But we know that many of those ships cannot possibly be built in those months. A certain ship has been press-agented for launching in February, when we know that the water in front of it, into which it would have to be launched, would barely float a barge.

What About Tonnage?

We do not ask for such tables. What we ask is this:

Have you ever seen a statement which says that we now have such and such ships in the trade across the Atlantic and that such and such other ships will actually get transferred to the trade across the Atlantic at certain specified dates and that such and such new ships will actually, within reason, get built at certain specified dates and that therefore in this month and in the next month and in the month after next we shall have such and such a tonnage of this sort of ship and such and such a tonnage of that sort of ship, named, classified, and totaled?

Have you ever seen such a statement? It is the first thing an "administrative overhead" for the United States in this war must know.

How About Railroads?

Next: Have you ever seen a statement showing the number of men and the amount of goods our railroads can carry from our camps and our factories to our seaboard in January, February, March, April, May, and so on, in the year 1918?

This statement must show our traffic lanes from inland to seaboard, and it must show our ports. Port by port, traffic lane by traffic lane, month by month, it must show, roughly, simply the quantity of war transportation our railroads are scheduled to deliver. Have you ever seen any such statement?

We go on. We go on to men and supplies.

Have you ever seen a statement of the number of men, infantrymen, artillerymen, sanitation men, aviation men, engineers scheduled to start from their camps to seaboard and to France in January, February, March, April, May, June?

And have you ever seen a statement of the quantity of supplies which each purchasing bureau of the war department is scheduled to put on railroad trains and on ships for each sort of soldier in our army in January, February, March, April, May, June?

We again apologize for talking about things so simple. But it is precisely the simple things that do not seem to have got done. Only a certain total quantity of supplies can be transported. Only a certain total quantity of transportation, land and sea, month by month, can exist.

Are Plans Harmonized?

Have you ever seen a statement showing just what proportion of that total quantity of transportation, for January, for February, for March, for April, for May, for June, has been allotted to supplies purchased by the quartermaster corps, to supplies purchased by the Red Cross, to supplies purchased by the ordnance department, to supplies purchased by the engineer's department, to supplies purchased by the aircraft board?

You are, you insist on being, the sole "administrative overhead" of the secretary of war, of the director of railroads, and of the chairman of the shipping board.

Do you know that any existing statement of proposed shipments by the war department is in harmony with any existing statement of available land transportation and with any existing statement of available sea transportation in any month of the first six months of this year—or of the first four months—or of the first two months? Do you know if if your own knowledge, with your own eyes? Will you assure us?

Is There Any Plan?

We speak of those statements as existing statements. Many men have tried to get them. Men high in your own administration have tried to get them. Members of your advisory commission of your Council of National Defense have tried to get them.

They have not succeeded. They are not sure, Mr. President, that any such statements exist. They are not sure that any statements of fundamental fact, any formulations of fundamental administrative policy, have ever been prepared. They are not sure that the United States has a plan.

And we are not sure. And we must be sure. It is our duty to be sure.

We do not ask you to show us the plan. We do not ask you to give us the figures in the plan. We only ask you: Is there a plan? Is there a plan in the sense we have mentioned? That sense is the only sense in which a plan deserving to be called a plan can exist. Does it exist?

Why Industrial Paralysis?

If it does, we must ask you one final question.

If you have a plan, why is it not followed? Why has each purchasing bureau put its purchases into railroad cars and into ships without any regard whatsoever to any existing proportional allotment of transportation? Why have those purchases accumulated into a greater quantity of goods than our railroads and our ships can carry?

Why do we face not only the actuality of workless Mondays, but the possibility, next month, of a general shutdown of certain basic industries which have been overpurchased and overproduced and overstocked? Why have we come to a state of industrial infantile paralysis which no other country in this war has experienced?

Recalls Troubles of Moses.

There are only two possible explanations. One is that we have had no plan. The other is that whatever plan we may have had has not been enforced. In either case it is the "administrative overhead" that must answer. We abandon details. We abandon subordinates. We charge you to answer.

Mr. President, much is said about "holding up the hands" of the president.

Aaron and Hur held up the hands of Moses. They were the first recorded holders up of hands. They held up the hands of Moses, but they did not hold them up by saying they were up. They held them up by holding them up. For the hands of Moses were heavy. They were heavy with many labors. And Jethro said to him:

"What is this that thou doest to the people? Why sittest thou thyself alone? Thou wilt surely wear away, both thou and this people that is with thee; for this thing is too heavy for thee; thou are not able to perform it by thyself alone."

The First War Cabinet.

And so his hands were heavy. He insisted on being the whole legislative overhead as well as the whole administrative overhead of Israel. He insisted till there came a war. And his hands were so heavy that he let them down.

And where he let them down Amalek prevailed. And doubtless many of the children of Israel stood afar off, helping by applauding. But Aaron and Hur went up to the hill where Moses sat, and they took a stone and put it under him, and stayed up his hands, the one on the one side and the other on the other, and Amalek was discomfited with the edge of the sword.

Aaron and Hur were not lip service loyalists and lackeys. They have been traduced. Aaron and Hur were the first historic special war cabinet.

Mr. President, you have rejected the idea of a special war cabinet. Very well. There cannot be a special war cabinet till you want it. You do not want it. After all, on that point, you must decide.

But, Mr. President, in some other way we will hold up your hands whether you want us to or not. There was none greater than Moses in his time. There is none greater than you in this time. Yet Moses needed counsel from Jethro, and you need counsel from us.

You have determined to continue to be the whole planning and directing department of a nation of 100,000,000 people. Very well. But then, be it! Expand your little handful of personal secretaries and clerks into a real "administrative overhead" department.

Answer On Your Oath.

Create a real top, a real center, operative, for the making of plans and for the enforcing of those plans upon your multitude of other departments of detail and of technique. We do not want to prescribe to you any precise method of plan making and of plan enforcing which may be personally distasteful to you. But it is our duty to insist that there shall be a method. It is our duty to insist that plan making and plan enforcing shall be done. Is it being done?

Have you ever seen any of those statements we mentioned? Have you ever acted on them? Do they exist? Will they exist? Will they be enforced? Let the White House be our sole center and our sole top. In the White House and from the White House will there be the machinery for the formulating of a plan and will there be the machinery for the execution of that plan?

We ask within our oath. Answer on yours.

"STEEPLE JANE"

She's Married Now to Steeplejack, So No One Need Lift Their Eyebrows.

Persons accustomed to circumspect behavior in a domestic way may have discovered something to criticize in the fact that last May George T. Summers, a steeplejack, was assisted in the hazardous enterprise of shinning to the peak of St. Michael's church in Aurora by "Mrs. Sylvia Summers." It may not have been all right then, but now it is.

Immediately after that feat, wherein she became known as "Steeple Jane," a letter was received by THE TRIBUNE, signed by Mrs. Ella Summers of Bridgeport, Ill., which said: "Do you remember making a picture of Sylvia Fisher? And she called herself 'Steeple Jane'? Well, she is a Jane all right, but she is not Mrs. Summers. She is just running around with my husband."

That was last July. Yesterday in Crown Point, Mr. Summers and "Steeple Jane," who was Miss Sylvia Fisher, were married, and she is Mrs. Summers after all. Summers was divorced five months ago.

His Motherless Children Sick, Father Seeks Death

At the death of his wife, Maria, two months ago, Frank Campagna of 553 Barber street, had his parents come to his home to care for his six motherless children. Last night three of them were ill. The grandmother had three other grandchildren to care for beside Campagna's six. He became discouraged and shot himself. He was taken to the Presbyterian hospital, where his condition is said to be serious.

MARMON 34

The Exhibit of Show Models

Will Be Continued

All This Week

THIS special event affords another opportunity—but the last one—of viewing the superb Marmon models which attracted such dense crowds at the Automobile Show that thousands were unable to examine these cars.

The complete exhibit has been transferred to our show rooms at 2430 S. Michigan Ave., and will be opened to the public each day this week until 9 P. M., excepting Thursday evening (lightless night).

Marmon dominance was not only made more apparent by the admiration of the visitors to the Automobile Show but it was certified by the volume of sales. They exceeded all previous show records since the introduction of this scientifically built car.

A visit to the exhibition at our Chicago show rooms will reveal the reasons for this. And it will also enable you to thoroughly acquaint yourself with the utmost in mechanical excellence and coach design.

GIRLS WILL HELP MAKE 1918 FOOD OUTPUT RECORD

D. G. Hays Plans to Have Misses Help Wives of Farmers.

All the honor of making 1918 the greatest food production year in the history of America is not to go to the male if Dudley Grant Hays, supervisor of special education for the school board, has his way. Mr. Hays has a plan for bringing in the high school girl, the teacher, and the farmer's wife, and is seeking the coöperation of women's clubs throughout the state.

The proposal provides for camps for the older high school girls and the teachers. Their services are to be used particularly in preserving fruit and vegetables, but they are to be aids to the farmer's wife as the high school boys are to be aids to the farmers. The head assistants in the schools have offered to coöperate with Mr. Hays by acting as chaperons in the camps, and the household arts teachers have offered to give instruction to the girls and the women of the farms in canning, making jam and jellies, and in utilizing all the fruits and garden products of the farm.

Mrs. H. M. Dunlap to Lead.

Mrs. Henry M. Dunlap of Savoy, Ill., who is an active club woman with a state wide field of work, has been enlisted in the movement.

"Every effort has been directed toward helping the farmer," said Mrs. Hays, "and the farmer's wife, whose duties regarding food production have increased, as have those of the men of the farm, has been entirely neglected. If we are going to disregard her, we are passing up an important phase of food production.

"This year the farm women will have less time than ever before for canning, and it is most important that every bit of farm produce shall be utilized. Some persons believe that a plan to have the girls of the cities help is impractical. Last year they said the same thing about the city boys, but after 700 Chicago High school students proved their worth to the farmers the government took up the movement and is depending upon boys for a great part in helping to win the war.

"Our girls, too, are tired of their doll rags and their pink tea, and they want to have a part in the victory over Germany."

2,000 Boys Begin Work.

More than 2,000 boys in the high schools began their three months' course in agriculture yesterday preparatory to going to the farms about May 1, and others are expected to register for food production before spring. National enrollment week will open March 18.

In the farm equipment, which has been lent by implement manufacturers, are tractors, corn planters, cultivators, disk harrows, seeders, milk separators, walking and sulky plows, mowing machines, and spraying machines. There will be instruction in handling the pitchfork, too, as the city boy usually does not have the knack of getting the most out of a fork with the least waste of energy.

A committee consisting of James E. Armstrong, principal of the Englewood High school; Frank L. Morse, principal of the Harrison Technical; Charles H. Perrine, principal of the Phillips High; and H. B. Shinn of the Medill High school will assist Mr. Hays in the circulation of the equipment.

CHICAGO INCOME TAX RECORD IS LONGEST IN U. S.

Northern Illinois Has 300,000 Who Will Have to Pay.

The discovery has been made that there are more income tax payers in the northern district of Illinois than in any other district in the United States. Counting noses in the various counties outside of Chicago a reëstimate of the number of income tax payers in the nineteen counties puts the total at 300,000.

With twenty working days left to file reports there remain more than 200,000 yet to schedule, according to D. J. Mahany, chief collector in the office of Julius F. Smietanka.

Money Is Needed.

Mr. Mahany said last night:

"The moneys to be raised by the income tax are necessary to the successful conclusion of our national undertakings, as necessary as the sale of Liberty bonds or thrift stamps. Any tax you pay is the price you are paying for the right of citizenship in the United States. Let us be 100 per cent patriotic."

Some of the questions answered yesterday for readers of THE TRIBUNE are:

Q.—Does the government allow an unmarried person to deduct the total amount of money contributed to the support of an aged dependent during the year? A.—No, none thus given.

Q.—If a man is employed by a firm as manager at a salary and receives from the firm an "extra salary" or bonus at the end of the year 1917 totaling $7,000 or a little more, is he obliged to pay jointly with the firm his share of excess profit war tax if he is not a member of the firm? A.—The whole $7,000 is considered additional income and is subject to the tax and not by the corporation paying it.

Fences Are Improvements.

Q.—Should a farmer in figuring his income tax consider fences as a part of his improvements and would he be entitled to deduction on account of depreciation in the value of the fences as on farm machinery or farm buildings? A.—Yes.

Q.—I have two teams, employed by the city of Chicago. I would like to know if the money they earn is exempt from income tax. A.—It is subject to tax.

WARN AGAINST POSTING NAMES OF DRY SIGNERS

Temperance Forces Say Court Proceedings Will Follow.

Threats of court proceedings hung over the heads of the wets yesterday as 100 men worked steadily to complete the copying of the names on the list of 148,000 signers to the dry petition.

It was stated by the Rev. Philip Yarrow, superintendent of the Dry Chicago federation, that any attempt of the wet forces to repeat the practice pursued at the filing of the last dry petition and post the names of signers in saloons, would be fought in the courts.

Calls It Unlawful.

"We understand the plan is to post the names of signers in saloons in the neighborhoods where the signers live," said Dr. Yarrow. "If this is done we shall make a test case of it in the courts. We don't believe it would be lawful to post names in a public place without the consent of the signers.

"It would be just as much of a violation of the rights of individuals as it would be to post publicly how a person voted at the polls. The entire purpose of the Australian ballot system, which is now recognized in this country, is to enable a voter to express his convictions without submitting himself to the influence or dictation of an outside party. If signers to a petition can be held up for ridicule or intimidation, it would be a contravention of the spirit, if not the letter, of the Australian ballot law."

The announcement was made that the copying of the names would probably be completed by this evening.

Calls It Mud Slinging.

William G. Legler, president of the Chicago Brewers' association, said the statement of Dr. Yarrow about the intention of the wets to post names in the saloons is "mud slinging."

"The wets did it the last time," was Dr. Yarrow's rejoinder.

ENLIST WORKING WOMEN FOR BILLY SUNDAY REVIVAL

Committee Will Seek to Interest Employes in Shops, Etc.

The enlistment of business women in the Billy Sunday revival campaign, which begins March 10, will be planned for today at a meeting in the Mallers building at the Sunday committee's headquarters.

"There is to be selected a business women's invitation committee," said the Rev. James E. Walker, Mr. Sunday's representative, who will organize the business women. "These women will arrange for downtown centers, four in number, and will invite business women to these centers.

Will Serve Luncheon.

"A low priced lunch will be served in one room while from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. there will be in an adjoining room an interesting series of meetings with plenty of singing and inspiring talks by women leaders.

"In every business establishment or office building we will have a girl's council established of from two to ten girls. They will be the intermediaries between the invitation committee and the women and girls employed in the particular store or office building.

"Factory and shop meetings will also be held at noon in various parts of the city.

"Whenever a group of women become interested, reservations will be made for them at the big tabernacle where they may attend.

Reserved 2,000 Seats.

"In one large city we reserved one night 2,000 seats for the employés of one of the big department stores. The store is owned by a Roman Catholic and managed by a Jew. The store paid for suppers that night so all could stay downtown without expense, and when the employés attended the tabernacle the manager and the owner marched in at the head of the delegation. A prayer meeting, where the Bible was taught, was maintained at noon in this store. Next Monday evening neighborhood prayer meetings will begin in all sections of the city. In Boston we had 1,100 of such prayer meetings in session at the same time. We don't know how many will be organized in Chicago, but the work is well under headway."

MRS. DUNN DEAD AT 94; RESIDENT HERE SINCE 1845

Mrs. Eveline Guthrie Dunn, a resident of Chicago since 1845, who has seen the city grow from a village, died in her ninety-fourth year yesterday at her residence, 4033 West Adams street.

Mrs. Dunn was the daughter of Alfred Guthrie, who designed and built the hydraulic works at Bridgeport in 1846, the first Chicago pumping station and at the time the largest hydraulic works in the country. She was the granddaughter of Samuel Guthrie, who discovered chloroform, and her brother, Ossian Guthrie, was known as "the father of the drainage canal."

Mrs. Dunn was married in 1846, her husband being Capt. William M. Dunn, who was street commissioner under Mayor "Long John" Wentworth in 1856. Capt. Dunn was killed in the civil war in 1864, being drowned while in command of the United States dispatch boat Dime on the Mississippi.

Mrs. Dunn was born at Sackett's Harbor, N. Y., and came of a family noted for its longevity.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from the family residence. Interment at Graceland.

City Wins Point in $10,000,000 Gas Case

Attorneys for the city were victorious yesterday before Judge Pinckney at the start of the hearing of the city's suit to force the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company to return $10,000,000 in alleged overcharges to consumers.

Strenuous objection was made by attorneys for the gas company against several paragraphs in the city's petition. The court ruled that these paragraphs were essential, and permitted them to go in. The company's attorneys said the protested matter was campaign material used by Carter H. Harrison when he was a candidate for mayor in 1911.

The gas company's attorneys also sought to have the suit dismissed, but Judge Pinckney refused to do this.

I.W.W. Case Before Landis Delayed for Few Days

With both sides apparently anxious for delay, the argument on demurrers and pleas in abatement, together with other matters in the I. W. W. case, to have come up before Judge Landis yesterday, was temporarily postponed.

Short Time Bonds Yielding 6½ to 7¾ Per Cent

PRESENT conditions have resulted in a great deal of short time financing because many governments, municipalities and corporations needing funds are unwilling to pay present high rates of interest over a long period. Rather than issue bonds maturing in twenty to thirty years they sell securities which mature in two to five years.

This gives the investor who has money available for a short period an exceptional opportunity to get sound security coupled with a high rate of interest.

We have a special list of "short term" securities, yielding from 6½ to 7¾%, which we recommend for conservative investment. We shall be glad to send you circulars describing these issues if you are interested.

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—"Behold," cries the graceful fashion lady prestidigitator, "look up my sleeves! No wool there—can you find it?"

Quite true, indeed, here in this graceful spring frock from Lanvin there is all sorts of respect for the conservation iden. The narrow chemise frock of navy blue serge has no more than the prescribed four and a half yards of Mr. Sheep. The wide peasant sleeves of white crêpe, however, throw caution heerily to the winds. At least we can use as much cotton as we like, the designer carols to us gayly.

For the rest this frock is trimmed effectively with red thread embroidery, wide bands of which appear on the sleeves and a narrow girdle of which, ending at the front panel, droops slightly in the back. A narrow rim of white crêpe completes the characteristic Lanvin neck, elliptical in shape.

WOMEN IN WARTIME

Chicago is to be "held up" today, and by as pretty a lot of "automobile bandits" as one could find in a month of Sundays. They are the emergency drivers of Chicago, who met in their cave in the Rookery building yesterday to complete the plans which, it may be added, have to do with the selling of thrift stamps and have the full sanction of the chief of police.

"The war savings drive will be conducted in a thoroughly business-like way," says Mrs. Frederick Elijah, one of the chief bandits of this desperate gang. "Every effort will be made to avoid congesting the traffic (especially if every one has 25 cents ready).

The drivers have been divided into groups, each with a captain, and every automobile entering the loop district via the Rush street bridge, and many of the other routes, will be subject to search for possible thrift stamp buyers. The "bandits" expect to keep up their nefarious practices all the week. The chiefs of the gang are, besides Mrs. Elijah, Mrs. Morgan Springer, Miss Florence Spoffard, and Mrs. William Pettit.

If every jackie and soldier in camp doesn't get a Smileage book from somebody after the meeting at the Grand opera house this afternoon, it won't be the fault of the Drama league members, who've been working like nailers to stir up interest in this corking idea for the entertainment of the men who're going to fight for us. Everybody of note in the dramatic world is to be at the meeting, it is rumored, and all the leading actors and actresses now appearing in Chicago will take turns in telling what Smileage books mean from their point of view.

Miss Jennie Snow, supervisor of domestic arts in the public schools, was the speaker yesterday at the housewifely thrift meeting at the Chicago Woman's club. She has just returned from Washington, where she was amazed to find that the workers in the Conservation building had grown in number from 600 (in September) to 1,500. One trouble now, however, she declared, is that the college girls who volunteer their services have no knowledge of food values. College boys, it seems, are utilizing their educations in more practical ways than are their sisters in this national crisis.

Courses are being started in nearly all the girls' schools and colleges now, it was stated, with the object of giving the girls some practical knowledge which they can apply to the problems of food conservation.

There is coming to be some variety in the meatless meat dishes entered in the woman's committee contest. For a while it seemed as if nobody knew about anything except croquettes and meat loaves. Now there are pies, and cutlets, and timbales, and all sorts of mock meat dishes. Tonight the chef of the Casino club is going to serve his camouflage of roast beef for the dramatic stars who are to be the guests of the club members at dinner.

Miss Elizabeth Adsit, who has just finished the business course, has volunteered six mornings a week for typewriting and clerical work at the social service department of the Council of National Defense.

THIS IS MEATLESS DAY!

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Potato Soup.

If a man will concentrate his attention on how good a baked potato with butter or cream is, rather than upon the other things he might have to go with it, you may guarantee that he will be fairly well nourished.

Some people would be happier today if they would get something of the spirit of John Baptist as we see him in the first chapter of "Little Dorrit." He is in a villainous prison cell in the city of Marseilles, with a villainous, selfish, and self-indulgent cellmate, who got fine food while John Baptist got only "husky bread and sour drink." Yet he eats with an appetite, munches his bread with content, and even plays a game.

His greedy mate dispatches his luxuries and then says: "How do you find the bread?"

"How sauce?"

"I can cut my bread so, like a melon; or so, like an omelet; or so, like a fried fish; or so, like Lyons sausage," said John Baptist, demonstrating the various cuts on the bread he held.

If a man with imagination could do that with black bread, I think it would be much easier to do it with fluffy, white, delicious baked potato. And we can literally cut our potato in many forms and we can cook it so as to multiply forms almost to infinity. I am sure I could guarantee to make twenty different potato soups without half trying, and some of them would seem like the fluffiest of cream soups, while another might seem like a thickened meat stock, etc.

A potato soup can be made in twenty minutes by cooking thinly sliced potatoes in a bit of water in a covered kettle. But here is a way of making a potato soup calling for longer cooking. Brown three tablespoons of flour in a tablespoon of fat, stirring over a slow fire. When the flour has the odor of popcorn it should be evenly done. Add a quart of cold water and two medium sized potatoes or three cut in small blocks. Stir now and then until it thickens, then cover and cook for forty minutes at about simmering temperature.

This may easily be made to resemble a good pork stew for this porkless and wholly meatless day. A garnish of clipped parsley or water cress is always suitable for a potato soup.

Real Love Stories

I must confess that I am burdened with one of those modern conveniences known as a matchmaking aunt. She informed me that she was giving a party in honor of Lieut. X, who was home from the front, recovering from wounds received at Vimy Ridge.

I saw through her plan and knew I was expected to impress him favorably. I admit I did think of running away from the party, for I felt sure he was bald and 50. The moment I saw him I suddenly subtracted twenty-five from fifty. We were chatting when he handed me a snapshot. What do you suppose it was? It was a picture of me, but so soiled and dirty! "Where did you get this?" I asked in astonishment. He said:

"One night behind the lines I was talking to another officer whose home mail had just arrived. I was mighty blue and guess I looked it, for there had been no word from home for several weeks. He passed some of his snaps over to me, remarking as I looked at this one that it was his fiancée's chum. I asked if I might keep it. I have carried it around with me ever since; it was with me when I was wounded and when they pinned the D. C. M. on. With your permission I am going to keep it. May I?"

I rather think I told him he could keep it—for a while. Just before he went back to the front he told me the old, old story—and I told him he could keep the picture—always. JANIS.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Jessie brought home two pieces of candy, giving one to mamma and asking that the other be saved for her. "And I shall save mine, too," said mamma. Two days later Jessie, having hurt herself slightly, ran to be comforted. "Now I'll give you your candy," soothed mamma.

When she reached for it, however, "Why, there is only one piece here," said she.

"Yes, I ate the other yesterday," observed Jessie.

"Then you may have mine."

"O, it was yours that I ate yesterday." C. L. B.

A little daughter of a friend of mine upon hearing of the death of one of our oldest citizens, a man by the name of Isaac Hoover, exclaimed in great glee "O, goodie! goodie! Now we can have all the sugar we want." C. A. M.

The other day my little son came into the house from play and climbed into a tufted wing chair. I said: "Mother would prefer you not to climb into that chair, for you'll hurt the upholstering." A moment later he climbed upon the bare piano bench, saying: "This is all right, isn't it, mamma, because it hasn't—any—flesh to hurt?" G. H. S.

CHILD GETS SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhœa, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.

Clinical in Theme and Belascoian as to Its Detail

"THE LIGHT WITHIN."

Produced by Petrova Pictures Company. Directed by Larry Trimble. Presented at The Rose.

THE CAST:

Dr. Laurel Carlisle Durand.....Mme. Olga Petrova
Dr. Leslie.....Thomas Holding
Durand.....Lumsden Hare

By Mae Tinée.

Ah, what a new Petrova have we here!

From the shapely cocoon enveloped in folds of apparent hauteur and indifference has emerged a creature of exquisite womanliness, of profund if reserved feeling, and a rich friendliness that makes her witnesses, her friends. It has taken some time for the screen to woo Mme. Petrova successfully, but the conquest has been accomplished.

"The Light Within," which is the second picture produced by her own company, deals with the discovery by a woman surgeon of a serum, curative in cases of infantile paralysis.

The laboratory scenes, of which the production calls for a number, have been evolved with a Belascoian eye for detail. So perfect are they said to be as to have called for expressions of unqualified approval from members of the medical profession drafted by Mme. Petrova to pass on them. A New York surgeon is also claimed to have placed his private laboratory at the exclusive disposal of the star. Be this truth or press agentry, it sounds well and the scenes are most effective.

Married to a man who doesn't understand, never did understand, and never will understand — as the pictures proves—Dr. Laurel Carlisle has a hard time between profession and home, though in no way does she neglect either. She is a beautiful example of maternal love, an inspiring professional figure.

The picture is full of touches, "bits" that go straight to the heart. I am not facetious when I say that there is no better acting in the photoplay than that done by a beautiful collie that has been the playmate of the little son and which, after the baby dies, mourns with and endeavors to comfort the mother in her numb grief.

I should say: "See 'The Light Within.'"

OLGA PETROVA

Her Honest to Goodness Name Is Mrs. John Stewart. Her Husband Is a Physician.

No, There Wasn't a Thing the Matter with the Scales

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

WAS IT YOU?

"Good heavens!" wailed the sheeted figure on the weighing machine in the Turkish baths, "185 pounds! O, Hilda! These scales can't be right. Why, the last time I got weighed I only weighed 167. There must be something wrong with these scales," she pleaded with the attendant.

But Hilda knew her scales, as a good attendant should, and she knew that they were right. And, being Hilda, she said, with characteristic national sang froid: "Well, you're gedding fat. That's what! There's nothing wrong with the scales."

After the allotted minutes in the steam room and more minutes between the blankets the spirit of fight had been boiled out of Mrs. 185, and a penitent woman lay on the marble slab, salted and cleansed and making a clean breast of everything.

"Last Sunday," she said, "my husband bought me a box of caramels and I made up my mind I was going to make them last all week. But, you know, I ate the whole box that day. No, my husband didn't help. He never touches candy. But I just can't resist when they're around. And they're always 'round."

And now she is round and roly! An epitaph under which no modern woman can lie buried peacefully!

ASK ME! ASK ME!

Women Report Favorite Ways of Economizing

O, SAVA BANANA.

MOTHER—Willie, did you clean your shoes for Sunday school?

WILLIE—There isn't any blacking.

MOTHER—Use the banana skin sister has left on her plate. We must waste NOTHING.

Using bananas to clean one's shoes was only one of many economies suggested yesterday at the Culture club's symposium on pet economies, where it was discovered that a love for the fine arts has in no way hindered the members in the acquisition of housewifely ideas of thrift.

"I bought three cabbage heads when they were cheap," she related. "They keep well if wrapped in paraffin paper. I made sauerkraut of some of the cabbage; some of it I boiled plain; some I used as a salad. Did I throw away the stalks? No, indeed. I planted them in a dark part of my basement. In a short time I had as fine a crop of Brussel's sprouts as anybody'd want. This shows that two heads in the kitchen are better than one, even if one of them is only a cabbage head."

Mrs. William L. Gunton, recording secretary of the club, said she used her husband's worn out shirts to make nifty aprons.

Saving the water in which meats and vegetables have been boiled was the favorite economy confessed by Mrs. E. W. McGillivray.

Mrs. F. J. Ravlin urged the use of roundsteak instead of the more expensive cuts. Another woman told of how she gave the Shakespeare class, of which she was a member, instructions in the art of soap making which it seems requires only some drippings and a 10 cent can of lye. "Directions on the box," she added.

SOCIETY and Entertainments

"Pirate Party" and Pageant at Opera Dance Club Tonight

One of the big events of the season at the Opera Dance club will be held tonight, when instead of the usual Tuesday night dinner dance there will be a "pirate party" and pageant. The decorations and setting of the clubhouse of vivid colors and distinctive designs are ideal for such a party. Many actresses of companies now appearing in the city are to be present and will do some stunts. Dancing will begin about 9 o'clock and there will be a pageant about 11 o'clock. Among those who will give dinner parties preceding the party are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Folds, Mr. and Mrs. Ford Herman Carter, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clark Dean, Mr. and Joseph B. Long, Miss Harmon Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Pinkhart.

Miss Genevieve Connor

Miss Genevieve Connor is assisting in arrangements for the naval and military ball to be given by the war activities committee of the Knights of Columbus Thursday evening at the Arcadia, the proceeds of which will be used by the knights in their work at the recreation camps.

The party was in a way a bit of Chicago, for among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Tyrrell Cheney, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Nelson, Col. and Mrs. William Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. Martin B. Starring, Miss Laura Hatch, and James Dudley. McNair Ilgenfritz, protégé of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, played accompanying music which had been especially composed by him for Miss Pope.

Miss Betty Hoyt, Miss Helen Hoyne, Miss Ginevra King, Miss Philista Reynolds, Mr. Mark Walton, and Miss Edith Rosenfield were ushers yesterday at the recital given by Mme. Marie Standish, assisted by Mrs. Esther Hibbard Osborne at the piano, and the four year old Evelyn Vitto, violinist, at the Blackstone hotel. The recital was given under the auspices of the Women's committee, Council of National Defense. Mr. and Mrs. George P. Blow gave a luncheon before the recital. Others present included Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Glaser, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Dick, Mr. and Mrs. John Sidney Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Pomeroy, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy C. Drake, Mrs. Hamilton Haughaday, Mrs. Secor Cunningham, Mrs. F. Wight Neumann, and Mrs. M. S. Rosenfield. Mrs. J. Harry Reed, who was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair, won the picture of Mrs. Standish drawn by Miss Adelaide Reynolds and auctioned off Saturday.

The Chicago Association of Wisconsin alumnæ will hold its annual luncheon at the Hotel La Salle on Saturday at 12:30 o'clock in commemoration of Founder's day at the university. Dean Breese will represent the university. All Wisconsin alumnæ and friends are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville W. Thompson of 230 East Delaware place left on Sunday for New York on their way to Florida, where they will spend February.

An entertainment and dancing party will be given on Saturday evening from 8 until 11 o'clock by the Paulist players at the Paulist settlement house, at which a hundred jackies from the Great Lakes Naval Training station will be guests.

Olive Nevin Sings at Wellesley Club

The Chicago Wellesley club presented one of its alumnæ, Miss Olive Nevin, member of the musical family, in recital yesterday afternoon in the Playhouse. Miss Nevin displayed a voice of clear and sympathetic quality and good carrying power. An admirable linguist, this young musician chose to exhibit her attainments by singing in Italian, French, German, and Norwegian, not forgetting her mother tongue. The English groups, by Gena Branscombe and Ethelbert Nevin, proved the most enjoyable division of her program, not merely by reason of the musical attractiveness of the songs but because Miss Nevin brought to their interpretation the delightful virtues of a distinct English diction. So convincing were her contributions to the ever growing evidence as to the singability of English that one was moved almost to regret her exploitation of other languages.

Prof. Judd Brightens the Dry Subject of German Schools

BY CINDERELLA.

Everybody was perfectly diverted and had a wonderful time at Mrs. Garfield King's the other night when Prof. Charles Judd talked to the Parents' league about the German schools.

It doesn't sound like a diverting subject. It doesn't seem as if even a ghostly smile would flit over the blandest face on hearing how the Prussian school system made the great war possible. It sounds like an evening when you think profoundly about your spring clothes and what you're going to do tomorrow.

But when Prof. Judd was sent by the United States into Germany before the war to study their school system he brought back a flashing wit and also a waggishness that kept his audience in waves of laughter over the world's dryest subject.

The audience was very large, very chic, and it looked as if a census would show more grannies than fond mamas, but there was a goodly number of spinsters, also some bachelors. Course the parents insisted on knowing why these people came.

Among the many telling things Prof. Judd said was, that America had copied for her public schools, the German Volk school or common school system, for which in Germany there was no possible educational future. It was for the lower classes only. For professional and middle class people there are other schools, and for the aristocrats still others. And the teachers in these low class schools are of a different grade and very different teaching.

Mrs. King invited the guests to stay for refreshments, which were served in a most lovely dining room. Mrs. Sam Chase and Mrs. Keeley did the honors at a table covered with heavy Italian filet on which were several choice pieces of old English silver and flaring candles. The walls are white, paneled, and several of Abram Poole's most interesting and quaint canvases are inset. The hangings are of dark sea blue silk and the buffet and side tables of wonderful quaintness.

They are even getting ready for the Lenten sewing classes and lectures! St. Luke's Thursday sewing class has out its invitations for the future, also including Mrs. John De Koven's famous luncheon on April 14, and its attendant linen shower. Think of sweet April and its possibilities!

The American Home Has Plenty of MAZOLA—the Pure Oil Pressed from Corn—Wonderful in Flavor and Economy

MANY a housewife—trying Mazola for the sake of saving animal fats—is continuing to use it because it makes fried and sautéd dishes more delicious than butter and lard.

Good cooks know how easy it is to burn butter and lard in cooking and so spoil flavor. They know that Mazola does not easily burn. That it can be used over and over again without carrying the flavor of anything cooked in it. That it makes fried things more digestible because it is possible to cook them at a higher heat without burning.

Mazola makes a perfect salad dressing, equal in quality to one made with the best olive oil, superior to one made with ordinary olive oil. It is easier to mix than an olive oil dressing.

There is a valuable Cook Book for Mazola users. It shows you how to fry, sauté, make dressings and sauces more delicious, make light digestible pastry. Should be in every home. Send for it or ask your grocer. FREE.

CORN FRITTERS

MRS. SCOTT

1 cup of flour
2 eggs
1 tablespoonful Mazola
1 cup grated or chopped corn
2 rounded teaspoonfuls of baking powder
1 teaspoonful of salt
¼ teaspoonful of pepper

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and pepper into bowl; add milk, well beaten eggs, Mazola and grated corn, or if canned corn is used put it through meat chopper. Add, mix well and fry in deep hot Mazola. It is best to make the fritters small. You are then sure they will be done through. Use a teaspoonful for each fritter.

P.S.—Clam fritters are made the same way, using one cup of canned minced clams instead of corn, or one cup of fresh clams put through the meat chopper. When using fresh clams less milk is used.

FROM H. C. L. AND 'TRIANGLES' COME SOCIAL SUICIDES

There are four reasons why business continues brisk in the Chicago Court of Domestic Relations:

1. The in-laws.
2. The high cost of living.
3. The other woman, or triangles.
4. Homeless homes.

No Food, Man Drinks.

"The relationship between wages and morals," the report reads, "is very close. The man who hasn't enough to eat will satisfy his appetite with drink, which is easier to obtain than food.

"The mother who has to provide food for husband and children when bread is 9 cents, butter 55 cents, eggs 65 cents, flour 9 cents, and potatoes $1 a bushel, and meat so high that she cannot even think of it when her man is getting only $2 a day, is likely to lose interest in her home."

In-Laws Are Scored.

"Relatives who interfere with young couples in newly established homes receive little leniency, and court orders are frequently issued forbidding young people from sharing their homes with relatives — mothers-in-law, sisters-in-law, or others whose criticism and advice may cause discord in the family."

So many discontented wives, recreant husbands, and incorrigible children come from "furnished rooms" or "light housekeeping apartments" that Mrs. McGuire has come to look upon them as "moral and social suicide clubs."

"Home instincts seem to die in these dreary 'stopping places,'" the report reads, "and home ties are strained to the breaking point by the effort to be comfortable and clean in shabby, ill ventilated rooms."

She advises all young couples to establish a home with their own furniture. A couple will not part so readily if they have to break a lease to do it, Mrs. McGuire thinks.

Children Prevent Woe.

Childless wives greatly outnumber the mothers among the complainants in the court. Motherhood seems to teach women patience, and to give them courage and strength to endure many trials.

Unprofessional or "shyster" lawyers are censured for preying on inexperienced and impoverished men and women. Professional bondsmen are equally unprincipled, according to the report.

Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court is commended for "his insight into social conditions, to which is owe the establishment of the psychopathic department of the Municipal court, a department that is proving invaluable to the Court of Domestic Relations."

Grants Change of Venue to Accused Saloonkeeper

Judge Kickham Scanlan yesterday granted Albert Chase, a saloonkeeper charged with conspiracy in connection with the alleged kidnaping and attempt to spirit away Grace Lytle, the state's star witness in the Lloyd Bopp murder trial, last fall, a change of venue. When the case was called for trial before Judge Scanlan, Chase's attorney, J. T. Harrington, asked the case go to another judge for trial. Judge Scanlan sent the case back to Chief Justice Kersten for reassignment.

Chase once was acquitted of murder in the Criminal court. With him on trial in connection with the present conspiracy charge are Thomas Hobin, Frank McErlane, William Conroy, and Harry Ragnitt, all of whom are alleged to have been together on the ride in which Grace Lytle was taken to Burnham, beaten on the head, and left by the roadside to die to prevent her from testifying against Lloyd Bopp.

THEDA BARA'S IN OUR MIDST, BUT SO EXCLUSIVELY!

She Wants Censors and Aldermen Up for Tea in Her Rooms.

By Mae Tinée.

Theda Bara is in town on her way to the coast, where it is said she will immediately start work on another humdinger.

She arrived yesterday and will remain over until this evening, it being the desire of her management that the censor board and the various aldermen, who have been called by the censor board in conference—a sort of pictorial clinic it was for the discussion of "Cleopatra," "Rose of Blood," etc.—may have a chance to meet the lady personally.

Not a Real Life Vamp.

Her managers want the censors and aldermen to see that Miss Bara in real life is not the vampire she is in reel life, and to correct any impression possibly obtained by them through her pictures, such as "Cleopatra," etc.

This sounds simple enough. As a matter of fact, the meeting is apt to encounter the difficulties that are supposed to confront the east and west, which never the twain shall meet, and the mountain and Mahomet, and all that.

You see, Miss Bara will not leave her room. Her representative asserts passionately and vehemently that she will not leave her room. He wishes to goodness she would leave her room, as he knows he would get a thundering good story could he persuade her to call on critics and sech—regarding whom he says she thinks of most kindly, and against whom she bears no grudge or anything.

Tea, Open Arms, Etc.

The idea of all concerned is that censors, aldermen, critics, have audience with Miss Bara where she rests in rapt seclusion. She wants to see them all. She will greet them with tea and open arms. She is staying over a day just to do this thing. But—she will not come out in the open. She will not venture out into the marts of us who would so gladly, in our turn, greet her with open arms and tea.

So you see, the meeting is apt to result like unto the refrain of the popular hymn, with everybody singing: "Come, Come, Come unto me" and everybody standing with outstretched arms and nobody coming across.

WILL DISCUSS COMPLETION OF PASTORS' FUND

Plans to complete the canvass for a $3,000,000 fund for retired ministers within the Chicago area of the Methodist Episcopal church will be made at a meeting of representatives of the area which begins this morning at 9:30 at the Methodist Book Concern auditorium, Superior and Rush streets.

Other subjects for discussion will be evangelism, the education of ministers, the church in rural communities, the church and the war, young people and missions.

The church and the war will be discussed by Prof. Lynn Harold Hough of Evanston. Bishop James W. Bashford of Peking, China, will speak Thursday evening on foreign missions, and the Rev. D. D. Forsyth of Philadelphia on home missions. Bishop Thomas Nicholson will preside.

Among those who will lead in the campaign for the pension fund are the Rev. J. B. Hingeley, the Rev. J. F. Mulfinger, the Rev. C. A. Kelley, and the Rev. J. T. B. Smith, all of Chicago; the Rev. H. B. Lewis, Peoria; the Rev. J. Frank Anderson, Joliet; the Rev. F. O. Fraley, Greencastle, Ind.; the Rev. R. A. Morrison, Rome City, Ind., and the Rev. H. C. Gibbs, Decatur.

John Herrick Returns from Driving in France

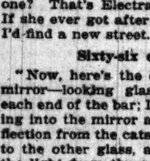
John O. Herrick, one of the young Chicagoans who went to France as an ambulance driver before the United States entered the war, returned to Chicago yesterday. He enlisted in the Norton-Harges corps more than a year ago and saw approximately twelve months of active service overseas. He was at the residence of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. James B. Herrick, at 242 East Walton place, last night, but asked to be excused from an interview.

REWARD FOR MISSING GIRL'S RETURN.

Charles D. Pratt, division superintendent of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, announced yesterday that he may offere a reward for the return of his daughter, Fern, who mysteriously disappeared from Beverly Hills, Jan. 7.

SUFFERIN' CATS! IF HE AIN'T GONE AND FOOLED DOC

Feline Batteries Solve Garfield Order and Light Bar.



In this column we take up the matter of Hub H. Stommel and his twenty-two cats. Mr. Stommel is the proprietor of a saloon in West Randolph street, and if it shall come to pass that he emerges upon fame, let no cat hereafter go forth hungry from his door. Others may thank their stars; Hub, his cats. Let's go.

Fuelless Mondays rode heavily upon Hub. Other saloon men closed, but in Hub's ears there rang the pleadings of thirsty patrons.

"So, thinks I," said Hub last night, "I'll try to keep the place open if I can do it without breaking the law. Of course, you don't need no coal. After a few warm friends gets likkered up pleasantly and call each other some names it gets hotter'n you expect.

Candles Punk, Anyhow.

"Now I hear about some birds going to use candles. That seemed reasonable until the fuel administrator said them as used candles might go to jail, so I decided candles was punk light, anyhow. Powers' theater is next door and the electric lights on the front stoop helps a lot until they turn 'em off. Then I was hooked again.

"Well, I'm talking to Pete, the porter, and he ain't such a bum as he looks.

"'I got an idea,' he says.

Gosh All Cats!

"'I got an idea about lights,' he says. 'Get a lot of cats.'

"Now, what do you know about that? Pete tells me that cats has got more light in their eyes than a whaddayacallit. Pete gets him a basket and some liver and a string, and pretty soon he's back here with twenty-two cats. Come on down here in the basement.

"Now, can you see 'em? All eyes, hey? Forty-four eyes. Them big ones belongs to Electrum. He's the grandfather of all the cats you ever see. I bet he could whip a goat. See the next one? That's Electra. She's his wife. If she ever got after me I'd go so fast I'd find a new street.

Sixty-six of 'Em.

"Now, here's the dope: I put a big mirror—looking glass, you know—at each end of the bar; I put the cats looking into the mirror at one end; the reflection from the cats' eyes shoots back to the other glass, and there you got the light from three times twenty-two pair of eyes. Wouldn't that stop your clock. I'll say it would.

"I had a smart idea. I was going to put the cats on the bar and have the bartenders rub their fur. Make electricity, get me? But I was afraid the barkeeps would think I was doing it so as to keep 'em from knockin' down. Even a bartender has got to live, you know.

Back to the Lunch.

"I don't know how it'll work out. Doc Garfield may decide the light is heat and I'll be stung again. But it's a swell idea."

"But what will you do with the cats after you're through with them?" asked the reporter.

"Say," said Hub. "They never was a free lunch hound yet could make sure that hasenpfeffer was made of rabbits."

Demonstrate Machine for Grinding Lenses Simply

Assertions were made by Dr. Hammon of Vincennes, Ind., and Dr. R. M Potter of Chicago at the tenth annual meeting of the Illinois State Society of Optometrists in the Hotel Sherman yesterday that eyeglasses for soldiers and field glasses for officers can be ground in the trenches with an optical machine which was demonstrated at the meeting. The machine, according to Dr. Hammon, its inventor, can be operated by a boy, and is now in use by the Northern Illinois college.

SOMEBODY IS ALWAYS TAKING THE JOY OUT OF LIFE

STEALING FROM RAILROADS NOW FEDERAL CRIME

When one steals from the railroads now he steals from the United States and gets into the federal courts, and is in a serious fix. Two young men have just made that discovery. They are:

HERMAN A. HEYNE, 23 years old, 11115 Eggleston avenue.

Complaints against them were filed before United States Commissioner Mason yesterday following their arrest. Government officials say they were caught in the act of carrying off $150 worth of copper wire stripped from the telegraph lines of the Illinois Central railroad.

The wire had been rolled up and they were putting it into an automobile when captured. Operatives claim they have confessed to three other similar jobs and have told where they sold the loot.

This is the first case in Chicago and perhaps the first in the country, it was said last night at the federal building, where men have been charged with stealing United States property when taking railroad property. This is possible because of the recent taking over of the railroads by the federal government.

Plan to Raise $750,000 for Church Work in Camps

A war fund of $750,000 for religious works at the camps was planned for at a meeting of ministers and laymen yesterday at the Hotel La Salle. Another meeting for representatives from the state will be held Friday.

A ten days' campaign, beginning Feb. 17, will be made in a nation-wide movement. Illinois will be asked to contribute $61,000.

The officers elected were: President, C. H. Boyer, manager of the casualty department of the National Fire Insurance company; secretary, Dr. J. H. Birkland; treasurer, N. A. Nelson; executive committee, the Rev. C. A. Andreen, Rock Island; the Rev. Louis More, Paulus List, the Rev. J. F. Seibert, and the Rev. E. F. Krause, Chicago.

Anaconda Standard's Plant Is Destroyed

Anaconda, Mont., Feb. 4.—Fire late tonight practically destroyed the plant and building of the Anaconda Standard, entailing a loss which may total $250,000.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

In yesterday's edition Clement and Raymond Manning were said to have rescued their mother from a fire which imperiled their home in St. Louis avenue. The Manning brothers wish to disclaim, although reluctantly, the share attributed to them, and they say that it was a sailor and a soldier living in the vicinity who rescued their mother. The Mannings were both on duty in the loop at the time of the fire.

YOUNG WOMEN VOLUNTEERS AID THRIFT SALES

A heavy sale was reported yesterday for the 25 cent thrift stamps and $1,000 memberships in the Illinois Maximum War Savings club. The young woman volunteers of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association helped the sale.

Today the campaign will center largely in the formation of war savings societies in stores, factories and offices. The program was announced last night is as follows:

Eight thirty a. m., squads of emergency drivers in uniform to go on duty at Rush street bridge and other strategic points to hold up automobilists and sell them stamps; women to go on duty at booths in principal department stores; noon, stamp drive throughout loop; 4:30 p. m., boy scouts on duty at all elevated stations; 8 p. m., massmeeting at Covent Garden, 2653 North Clark street.

Highlanders Discover Ragtime in the Desert

Dwight H. Ingram of 1724 East Fifty-sixth street returned to Chicago yesterday after a year and a half with the British troops in the Bagdad campaign. He was general secretary of the British Y. M. C. A. in Basrah.

"Since the entry of the United States into the war," he said, "the greatest ambition of the Highlanders is to learn a few American ragtime songs. They have been singing the darky melodies of the south, too.

"There is not a great deal of variety for the British soldiers in the desert and a Y. M. C. A. movie show gives them something to think about for weeks. We made outdoor theaters with the aid of sandbags and boxes and the soldiers seated on the sands of the desert, watched Charlie Chaplin and the rest of the movie actors."

LACK OF BARREL KEEPS LORD FROM SHEDDING SUIT

Only the lack of a barrel prevented Emil F. Krause, representative of the Benson & Rixon company, from obtaining in Judge Scanlan's court yesterday the return of a suit of clothes he recently sold to Charles E. Williamson, alias Lord Nelson, on a bogus check.

Williamson, with the truly grandiloquent manner one might imagine a real British peer of the drama would assume, was arraigned on three charges of confidence game. One of the prosecuting witnesses was Krause, who asserted Williamson purchased a $21 suit from him with a $50 check and received $29 in money in change.

"He acted grand, your honor," said Krause. "I even gave him a pleasant smile as he went out. Your honor, he's got that suit I sold him right on his back now. The check came back marked 'no account.' He said he was a count or something. I guess he is—Count of No-account. Won't you make him take that suit off and give it back to me, your honor?"

"Unfortunately," said the court, "I don't see a barrel around here."

Williamson was given a sentence of from one to ten years in the penitentiary.

"L" and Surface Cars Cold; Six Suits Brought

Six suits were started yesterday against the surface and elevated lines for not providing adequate heat in their cars. City Prosecutor Harry B. Miller announced on Friday that he would vigorously prosecute the companies for violations of the ordinance governing the heating, ventilating, and cleaning of the cars. Four of the suits are against the surface lines, one against the Oak Park elevated, and one against the Metropolitan elevated. The maximum penalty, $100 fine, was asked in each case. The cases will be tried Feb. 11 before Judge Gemmill.

Big Shrinkage in Standard Oil Stocks

New York, Feb. 4.—A shrinkage of $834,000 in the last year in the value of Standard Oil securities which form the bulk of the estate of Mrs. Ida A. Flagler, an incompetent, was shown in the annual accounting filed today by the committee of her estate. Stocks valued at $4,036,000 a year ago now are estimated to be worth $3,202,000. The total value of the estate is $6,660,350.

MARITAL STORMS

One Unhappy Wife Cites Cocktail Shower as Grounds for Divorce.

BESSIE M. McAVOY, 828 Lakeside place, might have pardoned all except that cocktail shower. That was too much.

"Frank came home all rocky," she told Judge Guerin. "He attempted to mix a cocktail and put in the wet stuff and the ice. As he mixed he danced and brushed over a large lamp. While I stooped to rescue the lamp he spilled the cocktail down my back."

"Call the next," ordered the judge.

Helen Duncombe, 6559 Drexel avenue, said Reginald had a "terrible temper." She won a decree.

Lelia Babcock, 5509 Greenwood avenue, will tell you that light is necessary to happiness.

"Ed didn't pay the bill and they turned the gas off," she said. "I objected and he knocked me down." A decree was granted.

Agnes Terry, 1638 West Fifty-fifth street, said Joseph went hunting and forgot to return. He can hunt for another wife now.

A certain speed malady contracted by P. Hamilton Bogardus, owner of the Kenwood garage, 1146 East Forty-seventh street, is given as one of the causes of unhappiness in the family by Mrs. Mary Ellen Bogardus, who filed suit for a divorce. They separated once before, but were reconciled. The bill also charges infidelity and names Mary Roe. Bogardus is alleged to have an income of $400 a month.

WIFE HELPS SAVE HUSBAND FROM BURNING FLAT

Peter J. Meiser, owner of a saloon at 1722 West Chicago avenue, was saved from death by fire when he was carried from his flat, which is above the saloon, by George Kummerow last night. The fire destroyed the interior of the flat and the saloon and the rooms of the Northwestern Wholesale Grocery Supply company, which adjoins the saloon.

George Kummerow detected smoke while in his office and telephoned to the fire alarm office. Remembering that Meiser was ill he ran to the latter's flat and with the assistance of Mrs. Meiser carried him from the building. The three Meiser children were then wrapped in blankets and taken out.

VEEDER BREAKS HENEY SEAL AND DEFIES SEARCH

Battle Looms Over Federal Inquiry Into Swift & Co. Papers.

Henry Veeder, attorney for Swift & Co., has thrown a direct gage of defiance at the federal government, as represented by Francis J. Heney, general counsel for the federal trade commission. He has broken the seals on his vault, placed there by authority of Mr. Heney, and has declined to permit Mr. Heney or Hugh J. McIsaac, examiner for the commission, to examine his private files, except such as "I hold as custodian for clients under investigation."

Mr. Veeder brands Mr. Heney's purpose as a "fishing expedition," asserts a property right in his papers, and says he will not submit them to examination, aside from the exceptions noted, other than "by due process of law," therein asserting what he claims as a constitutional right. Mr. Veeder has employed John J. Healy and George P. McCabe as attorneys.

Mr. Heney declares that by "due process of law," Mr. Veeder means that he shall be subpœnaed to testify and produce his papers, and says the purpose of this is to obtain immunity from prosecution.

Refuse to Show Hands.

Mr. Heney declined last night to outline his course of action. Charles F. Clyne, United States district attorney, with whom Mr. Heney held a long conference, was frank in saying he did not propose to show his hand before he acts.

It is known that mandamus proceedings have been discussed and that a keen interest has been shown in the empaneling of the coming federal grand jury on Wednesday. Federal officials said that they consider the breaking of seals placed on the Veeder safe by the authority of the United States a serious matter.

Mr. Veeder's Statement.

"Mr. Francis J. Heney demanded this morning access to and the right to copy any documentary evidence belonging to Swift & Co. now in the files in my office, and particularly files contained in wrappers under the general index 'Swift & Co.,' and also certain files relating to other packing companies contained in the general index 'General Files.'

"The files in my office are contained in a room some thirty or forty feet square and amount to many thousands of documents. Some of the files consist of documents of which I am the custodian for clients, the remainder of the files consist of my personal correspondence with clients. Much of the correspondence is in the nature of questions from clients about their business and opinions in answer thereto, and are therefore of a confidential nature, and for that reason privileged.

"Mr. Heney did not specify any particular documents or correspondence that he desired to see other than above stated. He desires himself or through the agents of the federal trade commission to search through my files for the purpose of ascertaining whether he can find something relevant to his inquiry.

Admits Some Rights.

"Under the statute Mr. Heney probably has the right to an inspection of the documents which I hold as custodian for clients under investigation. That right I have never denied. He has not, however, the right to search through my personal files for the alleged purpose of ascertaining whether there is anything in those files which will be revelant to the inquiry."

"We are not 'fishing,'" said Mr. Heney. "We have specified the documents we wish. We have asked for a file in Mr. Veeder's vault marked 'Swift & Co.,' and this has been refused.

"Mr. McIsaac was called up this morning by Mr. Veeder, and when he went to Veeder's office was told that the seals on the vault would be broken. He protested, but they were broken. Then I was called over. There I found Attorney John J. Healy and Veeder's associate, Francis E. Baldwin. No question of attorney's privilege was raised there, and, as I understand it, Healy agrees with me that these papers are not privileged. They simply claim a property right in them for Veeder, and they want us to subpœna him, so that he may obtain immunity from prosecution.

Seeks Specific Papers.

"I cannot make it too clear, however, that we are after specific papers. We know what we want, and we are sure Mr. Veeder's vault contains it."

Mr. Veeder said he had no idea what course would be pursued by the government. "If you would tell me," he said, "I would sleep better tonight. However, knowing Mr. Heney, I don't mind saying that whatever course he takes, it will be the most sensational one possible."

He insisted that the law would not give him immunity because of the production of documents of his clients, which would be construed, not as his documents, but as those of a corporation.

Prisoner Held to Jury as North Shore Burglar

JACK DEMPSEY WINS ON FOUL FROM MORRIS

At Boston—Tommy Robson beat Walter Mohr [12].
At New Orleans—Johnny Ertle beat Arthur Simons [10].

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey of California advanced a step in his campaign for a chance at Jess Willard and the heavyweight title by whaling Carl Morris all over the ring of the Queensberry club tonight for six rounds. He had Morris groggy in the sixth, when the referee stopped the fight because Morris landed a foul blow. The foul came after Morris had been cautioned repeatedly for hitting low. The bout drew a crowd of 3,000.

Dempsey put up a wonderful battle. Outweighed by twenty-eight pounds and handicapped by several inches in height and reach, he outfought Morris from the first bell. Several times he staggered Carl with a fusillade of lefts and rights to midsection, mouth, and jaw. Morris was in a bad way at the finish. It did not seem he could last the scheduled ten rounds.

Dempsey Makes Great Fight.

Although Dempsey failed to show the knockout punch he is reputed to carry, he made a great impression. He displayed unusual speed and shiftiness for a big fellow. He judged distance beautifully and seemed able to shoot over either hand from any angle. His punches must have carried a sting, too, from the effect they had on his adversary. He rocked Morris half a dozen times, and Carl was a well punished battler when he eased himself out of the ring.

In defensive work Dempsey also displayed clear superiority. Morris found his head a few times in the first round, but thereafter his leads were blocked so easily they appeared almost childish. Dempsey left the ring without a mark. Morris bled from the middle of the first rounds to the climax.

Victor Shows Varied Attack.

A left jab to the face was Dempsey's most effective method of attack. Occasionally he varied this with a straight left to the body, and the blows to the midsection went far in weakening Morris. With the going all in his favor almost from the start Dempsey seemed to pick his spot to land and most of the time his glove found the mark. His left hooks to the jaw and right uppercuts to face and body made Morris wince repeatedly.

Every one of the six rounds belonged to Dempsey. Morris began fairly well. He landed some straight jabs to the Dempsey face and got in some stiff body shots. Dempsey took all Morris had with a smile, however, and sent back three blows for every one he took.

Almost from the outset Morris appeared to realize he was facing his master at the art of fisticuffs. At close range he hit close to the foul mark often in the early rounds. Three times he was cautioned by the referee, but as the blows did not seem to affect Dempsey to any extent Morris was let off with the cautioning.

No Chance for Morris.

At the finish Morris was so hopelessly beaten the referee seized upon another of his low punches as an excuse for calling quits. There wasn't a question of the outcome, even if Morris had been able to stay the carded ten rounds.

Morris weighed 226 pounds to Dempsey's 198.

CROWDS STAND AT BIER OF JOHN L.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 4.—An almost unbroken line of men, women, and children today and tonight passed before the bier of John L. Sullivan, last of the old guard of heavyweight pugilists. In full dress, the body of the dead champion lay in the darkened parlor at the home of his sister, Mrs. Annie E. Lennon, in the Roxbury district.

Final arrangements were made for the funeral to be held from St. Paul's church, Roxbury, Wednesday morning. Hundreds of men prominent in the sporting world will be present. Jake Kilrain, who battled seventy-two rounds with Sullivan in the old days, is expected.

TOM GIBBONS SHADES CHIP

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—A rally started in the seventh round after he had been outpointed in the first six gave Tom Gibbons of St. Paul a shade over George Chip in their ten round bout before the Keystone club. Neither fighter hurt the other to any extent.

Chip showed to best advantage when he found Gibbons' jaw unguarded and cut loose with two hard lefts that staggered the St. Paul boy.

Johnny Ertle Outclasses Art Simons in 10 Rounds

New Orleans, La., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Johnny Ertle of St. Paul so decisively defeated Arthur Simons of New Orleans in ten rounds that half the crowd left before the fight was over. The scrap was changed from an open air Arena to the Orleans Athletic club at Ertle's option. He outclassed Simons, but could not put him away. Simons was powerless in the last three rounds.

KIECKHEFER TAKES FIFTH GAME IN ROW; DE ORO FINALLY WINS

GAMES TODAY.
1:45—McCourt vs. G. Moore.
3:15—Cannefax vs. Jackson.
7:45—Morin vs. Heal.
9:15—Ellis vs. Palmer.

BY JOE DAVIS.

Heatless Monday at the American Billiard Players' Ambulance Fund tournament furnished enough excitement to increase the pulsations of two big crowds yesterday. In the afternoon the largest crowd of the tournament saw Augie Kieckhefer win his fifth straight game by defeating Clarence Jackson, 50 to 46, in a tough battle, while Bob Cannefax, showing a return to his best form, won a thrilling finish from John Layton, 50 to 44, in fifty-seven innings.

Pierre Maupome in the first night session gave a marvelous display of shot making and by scoring twenty-seven points in his last fifteen innings romped away from Joe Capron of Chicago, 50 to 28, in forty-eight innings.

Maupome Match Starts Slowly.

The opening stages of the Maupome-Capron duel were slow. After scoring ten points in five innings the Mexican's counts were as small as present coal deliveries. In twenty-nine innings his only markers were fourteen singles. Capron had not been going well and at the thirty-fourth inning the Mexican led, 34 to 17.

Maupome then got his twenty-three and one-half ounce cue into action, and, starting with a run of six, played some wonderfully fine billiards. He was far enough ahead to take chances and reveled in the spectacular. He opened with a run of six and followed with counts of two, three, and three, giving him a lead of 38 to 19 at the thirty-eighth inning.

Score:

De Oro—Layton Match.

De Oro took a slight lead over Layton, neither man getting over a double for thirty innings, at which stage the Detroiter led, 16 to 15. He was strong on his long angle shots, but missed several cross table efforts. The score was tied at 17, 30, 35, 41, and 42. De Oro was at his best from the fifty-sixth to the sixty-fifth inning, scoring 16 points, and showing all his noted execution. The finish was full of excitement, De Oro getting four singles while Layton was counting 2. Score:

DE ORO — 0 2 0 2 0 0 1 0 2 0 1 2 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 2 0 0 2 1 1 0 0 3 0 1 0 0 0 0 3 0 2 0 0 0 1 0 0 1 2 3 0 0 2 1 1 4 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1 0 1 1—50. Innings, 77; high run, 4. Referee—Dr. J. F. Barrett.

Jackson Makes Good Fight.

It looked for a time as if Jackson would give Kieckhefer his first reverse, as with counts of 4, 0, 2, and 3 he led, 46 to 44, but he went scoreless in the last twelve innings. Score:

Cannefax vs. Layton.

Cannefax led Layton most of the way, but the Detroiter gathered a fine run of eight in the fifty-fourth inning and had 44 points to 48 by the St. Louis player. After two ciphers Cannefax made his needed two. Score:

FASHIONS.

A TAILORED suit that may be worn with much pride and profit at a tea is the latest sartorial triumph of Cheroot, 128 sud, rue des Halsteds. The French designer is not puissant for tailored suits, but often proves, as in this model, that he can give in gracefully.

This nicotine colored tricotine suit is almost a frock. There are cuffs, secured with buttons, at the bottom of both blouse and skirt. The wearer, asked whether she takes sugar, will answer truthfully, "Yes," and, helping herself to three lumps, "awkwardly" drop them into her skirt cuff. Then she will say, "O, how clumsy of me!" and the hostess, thinking she has dropped them on the floor, will supply her with three new ones. This may be worked almost indefinitely on a busy hostess. For a very little extra money Cheroot will line the skirt cuff with hardwood so that the sugar will sound as if it were striking the floor.

If the hostess serves ham, the provident guest may keep asking for more after her appetite is satisfied and by careful dropping acquire great quantities of it for home consumption. If her family likes its ham sugar cured, the meat and the sweet should be carried in the same pocket and allowed to jostle each other ad lib.

Thoughtful hostesses frequently inquire these days, "Is everybody warm enough?" The frugal guest promptly replies: "Well, if you're asking me, I'm a little chilly. If you don't mind, I will run down and fix your furnace. I'm simply wild about fixing furnaces!" The hostess will undoubtedly say: "Well, I swan! If that's your idea of a wonderful time, go to it!" The guest then has the freedom of the basement, and after a pretense of changing drafts and manipulating the shaker she may fill the blouse cuff with coal enough to last till Thursday, when the weekly spoonful is promised.

M. Beer, 1203 avenue d'Isle Bleue, already famous for his staunch fidelity to serge, is making a stir just now by his individual use of serge-du-farine. The slip-on coat, white like the frock it covers, is trimmed with unusually sticky white wool. The coat is slipped on by appreciably shrinking yourself and diving, or standing on your head and using a shoe horn.

This frock is designed for wear at an afternoon visit to the flour mill. The wearer should also be equipped with slip-on slippers. She is supposed to be invited into the room where the flour is poured into sacks, slip on the floor, and roll over two or three times.

The flour will stick to her costume as if glued there, and she must angrily decline Mr. Miller's proffer to brush her off. The flour can be carried home without arousing suspicion, and there, while she stands in a clean barrel, brushed off by her husband or maid and set aside for a wheatless day.

Jennie, 907 ouest, rue Madison, is the designer of a black parasol to be carried during a stroll through a freight yard. The parasol is carried open and upside down. It is apparently of cloth, but is lined with sheet iron capable of standing a heavy load. The carrier, with a little practice, may become very proficient in scooping up stray lumps of coal, which will not be visible against the black background.

But milady must remember, in the event of one of our frequent thunder showers, not to raise the laden parasol for protection, as this not only might result in exposure of the article's illegal purpose, but also in severe injury to milady's haricot.

ILLINOIS A. C. ENTERS SILVER SKATES RACE

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Despite the loss of Roy McWhirter and Walter Simonson, star skaters of the Illinois A. C. team, who are in war service, Manager B. L. Proctor yesterday sent in a team entry of six men for the second annual two mile Silver Skates Derby of THE TRIBUNE to be held at Humboldt park Sunday.

The Michigan avenue club will rely upon Victor Gunderson, brother of Walter, who now is in the aviation service at Great Lakes; William Geier, R. Johnson, R. Overy, P. Kaiser, and D. Curtis. Gunderson and Geier should make the strongest bid for one of the prizes.

Great Lakes Skater Enters.

The entry of Joseph Redman of Great Lakes was among the batch of nominations received yesterday. Redman is now in quarantine at the station, but said he would be out in time for the race. Redman has been skating at west side parks for the last three years and has figured in the prize list of class A events. Redman is known to local fans as one of the star long distance runners of the Danish-American A. C.

Yesterday's entries brought the total list of nominations to 162. This number along with those received today will be placed in heats by Edward Mahlke, official handicapper of the Western Skating association, tonight. Then the program will be sent to press. Entries received on or before Thursday at midnight will be placed in one heat.

Three Qualifiers in Heat.

According to Mahlke not more than three will qualify in each heat. The number to start in each heat will depend upon the size of the track. If a five lap track can be laid out it will be possible to allow as many as fifteen in one heat. The number of laps to the mile will be announced in tomorrow's TRIBUNE.

VOX POP ON FEEDING QUAIL.

EVANSVILLE, Ill.—[To the Editor.]—For some time you have been requesting farmers to feed the birds, especially quail, which is all right as far as it goes. If these same farmers next fall would insist that city hunters pay for the privilege of shooting these quail, what would they and Woods and Waters say?

You probably know that grain is high and that the farmer's time is valuable. Don't you think that it is asking a whole lot of us to feed birds for city men to shoot? We have some quail here, and last fall hunters came from St. Louis and Chicago and hunted them. Most of us farmers were too busy to do much hunting. Am I unreasonable in asking what advantage there would be in feeding these birds now?

However, us "country jakes" are not cold blooded and the birds are being taken care of, but we certainly are going to ask that they be protected from all hunters. There are not enough quail in Illinois any more to permit hunting them. They are valuable birds to the farmer, and we need them in our business. A. V. H.

[Editor's Note: We agree with you. The burden of feeding game should be borne by the sportsmen and not by the farmers. Lack of organization is what put the quail in the song bird class in Ohio. Illinois will be next. Further comment seems unnecessary.]

ZBYSZKO PINS FREBERG TWICE

Strength and endurance, combined with the ability to execute the toe hold successfully gave Wladek Zbyszko, Polish grappler, a victory by straight falls over John Freberg at the Chicago theater last night. The Pole won the first fall in 1:01:30 with a toe lock and the second by the same hold in 3:15.

There was little to choose between the wrestlers during the first hour. Then Zbyszko threw Freberg to the mat with a leg hold. Quick as a flash he clamped on the toe hold, and, using the proper leverage, forced Freberg to slap the mat in sign of defeat. The second fall was easy.

In the semi-windup Ben Reuben, former Hebrew institute grappler, now at Great Lakes, won from Peter Pergantis in straight falls. Reuben took the first in 23:45 with a half nelson and body lock and the second in 11:10 with a reverse nelson.

Steve Savage won the opening contest, defeating Pat Conley two of three falls. Savage won the first in 21:30, but the Irishman evened up in 6:45. Savage won the deciding fall in 4:45.

Exhaust Echoes
By SHEPPARD BUTLER

THERE'LL be "doings" at the Chicago Motor club tonight, it is announced, quite without regard to whether or not the insurgents succeed in stopping the club election by injunction proceedings. The annual banquet will start at 6:30, a business session and the election (if it's permitted) will come next, and an elaborate entertainment program will follow.

The suit of the insurgents, charging President Charles M. Hayes and the club directors with conspiracy in manipulating the nominations, is set for a hearing before Judge Sullivan in the Superior court this morning.

"I'm not taking it seriously at all," said President Hayes last night. "There has been no conspiracy and everything has been done absolutely in accordance with the club's bylaws. I haven't had much to say about this attack, because there doesn't seem to be any use in entering the controversy. You can't argue with numskulls, can you?"

Some motoring authority in London has been taking an informal wartime census of British motor cars. He estimates that there are now approximately 290,000 automobiles in Great Britain—about the same number as in the state of California and some 50,000 less than in Illinois. The passenger car total is placed at 250,000; the rest are commercial vehicles.

The figures include vehicles in government use as well as those in private service, and of the entire number it is estimated that 80 per cent of the passenger cars and 10 per cent of the trucks are lying idle because of legal restrictions and the scarcity of fuel. In other words, only about 50,000 passenger cars and 36,000 trucks are being operated—about as many as are registered in the state of Washington.

For the first time since its organization in 1913 "Henry B. Joy, president" is no longer a fixture on the stationery of the Lincoln Highway association. Mr. Joy is now a lieutenant colonel in the army, awaiting a call to France, and asked recently that another be chosen to direct the activities of the great transcontinental motor trail.

The officers and directors, therefore, have chosen F. A. Seiberling, president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, as Mr. Joy's successor. Mr. Seiberling has been a director of the organization since it was formed and has contributed more than $100,000 for road work on the desert section of the highway in Utah.

Bowen Basket Fives Win Double Bill from Tilden

Bowen scored twin victories over Tilden on the home floor. Bowen lightweights had a hard tussle, winning, 12 to 11, but the bantamweight game was a 31 to 5 runaway for the South Chicago five. Moline was high score man in the bantam game with eight baskets, while Stern, Brandenburg, and Grambauer split the points for the lightweight victory. Lineups:

HYDE PARK QUINTETS LAND TWO VICTORIES IN CLOSING PERIODS

Hyde Park majors trailed, 5 to 2, at the end of the first half, and the third period was without scoring for either team. In the final quarter Capt. Jerry Neff and Holliday cut loose with a scoring spurt that distanced the west siders. Lineups:

LATE SLUMP IN OATS WHEN CASH PREMIUMS DROP

A break in the premiums for cash oats caused free selling of oats futures in the final hour and resulted in the wiping out of all the early advance. Closing quotations were unchanged to a fraction higher. Up until the last hour the market had displayed much strength, with the lack of selling pressure a feature. Commission houses and shorts bought oats because of the absence of fresh peace news and unfavorable weather conditions.

Considerable short lines had been put out last week in the belief that there would be some substantial developments over Sunday in the way of hastening peace. The fact that some of the roads were furnishing cars for moving oats to the gulf but would permit no shipments north was also a bullish factor early.

Compared with Saturday's sales cash oats were mainly steady to ¾c higher, although premiums broke near the finish and were off 1@2c from early levels. Receipts here were 134 cars. Primary markets had 1,209,000 bu oats against 515,000 bu a year ago. No oats clearances from [illegible] seaboard were reported.

Extreme Du[illegible] Corn.

The corn futures [illegible]arket was extremely dull and prices at the finish were unchanged to a fraction lower. Strength was shown early because of the firmness in oats and the fact that severe weather prevailed over the belt and would restrict the movement. Receipts of corn here were light at 183 cars, but arrivals at Missouri river markets were liberal. Generally fair and warmer weather is predicted.

The heavy snows in Illinois and eastward hampers farmers from delivering grain to interior elevators, but in Missouri, Iowa, and the northwest the roads are in fairly good shape for hauling. Cash corn was steady to 5c higher. Primary markets received 734,000 bu corn against 938,000 bu a year ago.

Rye Prices Gain Sharply.

Rye sold sharply higher, No. 2 cash making $2.18, an advance of 6c. Receipts, 4 cars.

Barley was 1@2c higher, with local mills and elevator interests good buyers. Malting closed at $1.65@1.78; feed and mixing, $1.50@1.67, and screenings 90c@$1.40. Receipts, 21 cars.

Timothy seed was steady, with March at $9.10 bid and $9.25 sellers, and cash lots $5.00@8.25. Clover seed was firm, with cash quoted at $21.00@30.00.

Federal Reserve Bank Puts Restrictions on Exchange

The Federal Reserve bank of Chicago issued notice yesterday to all banks and dealers that after Feb. 15 no transactions in foreign exchange will be permitted except by holders of licenses to be issued by the reserve bank. This is to comply with the president's order of Jan. 26, intended to regulate exchange dealings to prevent enemy agents using the banking facilities of the country. Licensed dealers must furnish a detailed report of each transaction, together with a statement that no enemy or ally of an enemy has any interest in the business.

GOSSIP OF THE PIT

J. J. STREAM, chairman of the coarse grain division of the food administration, believes that shipping of nonessentials should be barred until the movement of grain assumes liberal proportions. Mr. Stream, who is here from the east for a short visit, says that the east appreciates the seriousness of the situation and is making desperate efforts to send back cars for moving corn and oats out of the country. He says that they have had many requests to put maximum prices on coarse grains, but that the farmers are against such a move and that at present there is a great deal of uncertainty concerning this proposition.

"We do not believe that there will be any large stocks of corn accumulated in the terminals between this and next crop, even if freight cars are ever so plentiful," says the Rosenbaum Review. "This opinion is based on enormous consumption on or near the farms and deterioration of millions of bushels, which will make shipping impossible when thawing weather begins.

"Also, get ready now for true and exaggerated stories of poor condition of the winter wheat crop in some sections of Kansas and in many sections of Ohio and Indiana. In Kansas there was not enough moisture last fall, and in the two other states the wheat was covered with a thin layer of ice before the heavy snow and it now has no chance to breathe. The spring thaw will reveal much smothered wheat."

Cash oats premiums broke 2c in the latter part of the session. No. 3 white oats sold from 9c to 7c over May price and standards from 9½c to 7½c over. Demand was not as active as recently. The big cereal industry was out of the market, so far as its Chicago plant was concerned, and shipping interests took few oats.

It was also reported that there were many cars back on the St. Paul road which would be in today, and many buyers held back on this account. Points along the I. C. road reported liberal distribution of empty cars for loading of oats to the gulf, but none for loading to northern points.

"In view of the government figures on feeding supplies it should not require much of an analysis to convince one that immediate scarcity of oats is due to recent abnormal climatic conditions and the transportation situation, and this as a bullish factor will be eliminated possibly within the next thirty days," says J. J. Bagley of Logan & Bryan. "Coupled with this the attitude of the food administration is opening the eyes of the public to the fact that we are on a war rather than a banquet basis. Trend of affairs in Germany and Austria warrants the prediction and hope that peace is near at hand. The above, to my mind, makes the sale of May oats appear more of an investment than a speculation."

In view of the difficulty of securing sufficient seed corn to plant a normal acreage of corn, and bearing in mind the possibility of a large pig crop the coming season, the department of agriculture urges farmers to safeguard any stocks of 1917 corn planted early in well drained and well tended fields, especially in those portions of the belt where freezing temperature did not occur until about the date of Sept. 27. Experience has indicated that it is a dangerous practice to import seed corn from other latitudes, the yield especially being reduced by such practice.

Cereal interest were strong competitors for white corn yesterday and prices were strong. There was an urgent demand for sound corn, all descriptions, regardless of its moisture content.

Visible supply of grain in the United States this week showed the following decreases: Wheat, 1,258,000 bu; corn, 24,000 bu; oats, 178,000 bu; rye, 78,000 bu; barley, 379,000 bu. Comparative totals follow:

Morrison Hotel Passes Dividend of $17,500

The directors of the Moir Hotel company, operating the Morrison hotel, have passed the dividend on the preferred stock. The quarterly dividend omitted, amounts to $17,500 on the $1,000,000 preferred. An estimate made at the time the second issue of bonds was sold was that net earnings were running at the rate of $454,776 a year. The annual report will be issued, in a few days. President Harry C. Moir explained that the dividend was passed as a retrenchment measure and that there is little probability of further dividends until after the war.

PAIN, PAIN, PAIN, STOP NEURALGIA

Rub nerve torture, pain and all misery right out with "St. Jacobs Liniment"

You are to be pitied—but remember that neuralgia torture and pain is the easiest thing in the world to stop. Please don't continue to suffer; it's so needless. Get from your druggist the small trial bottle of "St. Jacobs Liniment;" pour a little in your hand and gently rub the "tender nerve" or sore spot, and instantly—yes, immediately—all pain, ache and soreness is gone.

"St. Jacobs Liniment" conquers pain—It is perfectly harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin. Don't suffer!—Advertisement.

True Value in the Food Prices of the Future

IF, for any reason, producers' outlets to market were suddenly closed, livestock raisers would have no incentive to increase their output. Even if the stoppage existed for but a few months, it would cause a decrease in cattle breeding. For, why should the farmer raise that which he cannot sell?

OF COURSE, consumers would not feel this immediately. It takes three years to mature a beef animal for market. But three years hence, the supply would be short and prices would jump sharply.

One of the most important services, therefore, which a concern like Armour and Company can render to consumers is to keep the producers' market constantly open, thereby encouraging increased production.

Stabilizing Supply

FOR, if Armour bought from producers only when there was a heavy demand from meat users, or, if Armour sold to consumers only when cattle growers had raised a surplus supply, there could be no stability to meat prices at any time. With the public, it would be always "a feast or a famine."

All this is but preface to stating a remarkable condition which exists today.

Meatless Days were expected to save one-seventh of our national meat consumption for our Allies abroad. Instead, the demand for meat in some parts of the country has fallen off as much as half! So great is the reaction that, were it left to itself, production would probably be decreased for years to come. Farmers would merely drop cattle raising to a large extent—at least, until the demand reasserted itself. And, three years hence, meat prices would be out of all reason.

But, the significant fact for you to bear in mind, is that Armour and Company did not stop buying!

Service Under Fixed Profits

INSTEAD, Armour has continued to buy steadily and evenly, absorbing the livestock off the market as it arrived and putting it into cold-storage warehouses—and performing this public service in the face of the fact that packers' profits are fixed by the Government!

Thus, by doing this, Armour is co-operating to increase the future food supply which the country needs and also is aiding consumers to secure that future supply at true value levels.

When you consider such facts as these, you must find in them a very real reason why it will pay you to insist upon Armour foods for your own family's use.

You are Invited!

THERE are on exhibition this week at Marshall Field and Company's Business Show, two electrically operated typewriters which put personality into sales letters and remove them forever from the cold, stereotyped "crowd letter" class. Letters written on The Hooven Automatic Typewriter are just as personal as individually dictated letters and cost much less. They secure attention and produce orders when ordinary "crowd letters" fail.

It will pay you to investigate the Hooven. Visit the Business Show on the 8th floor at Marshall Field and Company's and satisfy yourself that one operator with three Hooven Automatic Typewriters does the work of 10 average typewriters; or phone Harrison 8634 for further information.

EDUCATIONAL EDUCATIONAL

The War and Business Training

Our entrance into the war emphasizes the importance of training for business in two clearly distinct ways. In the first place, the war is removing from business a large number of men. The effect of this is that business must be done with less help or at a greater labor cost. To conduct business with less help is the efficient course to take, but that means that business must increase the efficiency of each individual to a maximum by the introduction of the best ideas and practice of business management and accounting. Such ideas and practice can come only from trained men and women.

In the second place the call of men into National Service is causing considerable disarrangement in business. Positions of responsibility are being left vacant. These impending vacancies demand that men and women prepare to assume the opportunities for responsible work as they present themselves.

University Training Answers the Need

The Northwestern University School of Commerce is organized for the training of men and women in business. This training is given in the evenings so that it will not interfere with the daily work. The school has been in operation since 1908 and since that time 5,000 students have taken advantage of the courses offered. So far this year 803 in the regular courses and 268 in a special War Tax Course have availed themselves of the opportunity to gain a university training in business by evening study. This number includes people from all ranks in the business world with salaries ranging from $5,400 to $900 a year.

Gregg Supremacy Again Proved

Mr. Eli Gans, a graduate of Gregg Evening School, last week wrote over 60 words a minute for 15 minutes without a single error. He thereby won a brand new typewriter, which the Remington Typewriter Company offers to any one who can equal this record. Only 12 people in the United States out of thousands who have tried have been able to do this during the past four years.

Several former Gregg graduates have held the World's Typewriter Championship, and the majority of professional typewriter operators in this country received their initial instruction from "Rational Typewriting," the method originated in Gregg School.

In every detail of shorthand training the Gregg course is unsurpassed—it is service that satisfies, that gets results. Learn more about the premier shorthand school of Chicago by sending for our Catalogue to-day. Start to-day.

CANADA PAYS ITS BANKS FOR FLOATING LOANS

American Bond Houses Neglect Own Business to Do It Free.

While the banks and bond houses of the United States have handled the $5,500,000,000 Liberty loans without recompense, the Canadian government has paid Canadian banks about one-fourth of 1 per cent for their part in handling the $320,000,000 of government loans which have been issued by the dominion.

It does not appear that the banks of this country are asking for any reimbursement. But it is pointed out by the banks that the bond houses are in a little different position from themselves. The heads of bond houses and salesmen have devoted themselves almost untiringly to aid in floating the Liberty loans.

In doing this they have injured their own business. Their office force has been turned over without cost to the sale of government bonds, giving up their own business in which there was a profit. The bond houses are asking for nothing, but their expert salesmen have lost commissions and the houses themselves have lost business through forwarding Liberty loans.

Explains Canada's Loans.

A statement of interest concerning Canada's loans, and their method of handling, will be found in the appended letter from the bank at Ottawa, to the Merchants' Loan and Trust company of Chicago:

"Replying to yours of the 22d inst. There have been four government bond issues since the war, known as war loan issues. In the first instance the government asked for $50,000,000; over $100,000,000 was subscribed, but $100,000,000 only was allotted. The banks were paid one-fourth of 1 per cent on the total amount of subscriptions they obtained.

"On the second bond issue the banks received one-half of 1 per cent on $100,000,000 pro rata, distributed according to the amount of subscriptions which were placed through each bank. The public subscriptions amounted to $191,444,000.

None Allotted to Banks.

"The third issue was for $150,000,000. The banks underwrote $60,000,000 of this amount, but as the amount was oversubscribed by the public no portion of the issue was allotted to the banks. The government, however, paid them nine-twentieths of 1 per cent; this was intended not only to cover the work which the banks were doing in connection with the loan, but also as a remuneration for their underwriting.

"The fourth, or Victory loan—the honorable, the minister of finance solicited subscriptions for $150,000,000; he was hopeful that it would probably reach $200,000,000, but many of our prominent financial citizens conceived the idea that it would be better to ask the public to subscribe $300,000,000.

Expect ¼ of 1 Per Cent Commission.

"They thought that if the mass of the small subscribers would contribute $150,000,000, that trust companies, insurance companies, and similar institutions, and our more prominent wealthy citizens should subscribe $150,000,000 additional, making $300,000,000 in all, and this appeal was made to the public, which resulted, as I think perhaps you know, in about $419,000,000 being subscribed. The banks expect to receive one-fourth of 1 per cent on about $400,000,000, to be divided pro rata on capital basis.

"On the surface the banks would appear to have been fairly well paid for what they have done, but when it is known that the banks have expended more or less money in advertising and making the loans known, and that the whole staff throughout the dominion have had their time taxed for weeks before and after he loan was subscribed, explaining the conditions of the loan, preparing applications for the public, receiving their deposits, afterwards issuing receipts, later exchanging the receipts for interim government receipts, and ultimately delivering the bonds, it will be realized that they do far more work for the remuneration they receive than any other agency connected with the issues; this applies very specially to the last, or Victory loan.

Add to Bank Staffs.

"With over 800,000 subscribers you can easily understand how the various branches have been taxed. In meeting the public at certain points we had to supplement our staff, keep the office open until 6 o'clock, and reopen again on certain days after 8 o'clock. There is no doubt of this, that the banks and their branches are the most important agencies in bringing these bond purchases home to the public, not only on account of the work done by the banks and their branches, but also by the assistance they give throughout the dominion in assisting the organization of committees in each community.

"The banks have agreed to cash the coupons without charge during the currency of the various issues, and in the case of the Victory loan have agreed to hold the bonds free for safekeeping for one year."

REPLY TO SUIT AIMED AGAINST DISTILLERS CO.

Dispute Charges Made Against Mayer by C. H. Stoll.

Alvin W. Krech, president of the Equitable Trust Company of New York and chairman of the board of the Distillers Securities corporation, has, with other members of the board, issued to the stockholders of the company a statement relative to the suit brought by Charles H. Stoll, who asked that the purchase of preferred stock of the Distilling Company of America be set aside.

In his suit it was declared the company had paid an exorbitant price to Levy Mayer, counsel of the company, for his stock. Mr. Krech and other members of the board of directors say Stoll is the owner of one share of stock out of the total of 324,789 issued and that if he were to succeed to the utmost in what he asks for "in his trumped up complaint" the total proportion of recovery applicable to Stoll's one share of stock would be exactly $1.22.

Lower Court's Verdict.

The company is suing Stoll for $250,000, and the lower courts have rendered a verdict in favor of the company. The directors say concerning the purchase of the preferred stock of the Distilling Company of America:

"It is claimed that your directors have been negligent of your interests in acquiring preferred stock of the Distilling Company of America from Mr. Mayer at an exorbitant price. The fact is, that in 1916 your board appointed a committee in order to acquire all of the then outstanding preferred stock of the Distilling Company of America, including that of Mr. Mayer. This committee succeeded in purchasing considerable stock. The committee itself fixed the price to be paid for Mr. Mayer's stock at $70 per share, less $2 (the then accruing dividend), making a net cost of $68 per share.

"Mr. Mayer himself had nothing whatever to do with fixing the price. That price was much less than had actually been paid under Rice's administration for preferred stock of that company and a great deal less than was paid by your board for stock bought from others at about the same time. Within six weeks after the purchase from Mr. Mayer your board paid as high as $100 per share for a substantial amount of the preferred stock. In the opinion of your directors the price paid for Mr. Mayer's stock was low and they felt themselves fortunate to get it at that figure.

"As you have already been advised, the main purpose of this company in acquiring this preferred stock was to liquidate and wind up the Distilling Company of America so as to effect a saving in expenses and taxes of considerably more than $100,000 per year and to reduce and simplify the business management and control, with the resultant saving. Your company needed as much of the preferred stock as it could advantageously acquire in order to utilize the shares in applying them toward the acquisition of the property of the Distilling Company of America when that company should be liquidated and dissolved. Samuel M. Rice filed a suit in New Jersey, through Stoll as one of his attorneys, to enjoin the distribution of that company's assets after dissolution, though Stoll himself had prior thereto voted his one share in favor of such dissolution."

Quotation from the Judge.

In overruling Stoll's motion for a new trial in the $250,000 suit against him the presiding judge, T. N. Green, is quoted as saying:

"I don't care what they (the Appellate court) do with my decision; that is a matter that is absolutely immaterial with me, but if they can permit a man standing on his constitutional rights to come all the way from New York and be guilty of the infamous conduct that Stoll was guilty of, and still keep out of jail, I think the only thing the Apellate court should censor me for—and I think I deserve it—is for not sending that man to jail—that is what I should have done."

The circular of the directors also points out that under the present management which succeeded S. M. Rice, Stoll's client, the company has, since 1913, retired $10,000,000 of loans and reduced the bonded indebtedness from $15,000,000 to $8,000,000, or a total reduction of $18,000,000 since October, 1913.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—The Ohio bankruptcy law was held inconsistent with the national bankruptcy law by the Supreme court today.

M'ADOO NEARLY COMPLETES HIS RAILROAD STAFF

W. D. Hines of New York Expected to Be His General Assistant.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—Director General McAdoo today had about completed the central staff which will assist him in administering government operation of railroads during the war. Although no official announcement was made, it was understood the staff probably would be as follows:

Transportation, Carl R. Gray, Baltimore, president of the Western Maryland; assistants, F. T. Bentley, Chicago, general superintendent of motive power, Chicago and Northwestern, in charge of mechanical matters; W. T. Tyler, St. Paul, assistant vice president of the Northern Pacific.

Law, John Barton Payne of Chicago.

C. A. Prouty Named.

Public service and accounts, C. A. Prouty, chief of the interstate commerce commission's bureau of valuation and accounts; assistant, Luther M. Walter, Chicago, attorney.

Traffic, Edward Chambers, vice president of the Santa Fe, until recently traffic director of the food administration; assistants, C. B. Buxton of Philadelphia and Dallas, recently assistant director of transportation of the food administration; Robert C. Wright of Philadelphia, traffic manager of the Pennsylvania in charge of freight matters; Gerrit Fort, passenger traffic manager of the Union Pacific, in charge of passenger matters; G. A. Kirtley, New York, assistant to Vice President Stone of the Erie, in charge of priorities.

Financial problems of the railroads under government operations are to be administered by John Skelton Williams, controller of the currency and a member of Director General McAdoo's temporary staff, it is understood.

Board of Traffic Managers.

In addition there will be a board of traffic managers representing different government departments to coördinate government shipments. This board will consist of J. F. Holden, Kansas City, vice president of the Kansas City Southern, representing the shipping board; H. M. Adams, St. Louis, vice president of the Missouri Pacific, representing the war department; H. M. Anewalt, Los Angeles, traffic manager of the Santa Fe, representing the navy; J. A. Middleton, Kansas City, traffic manager of the Frisco, representing the fuel and oil administrations. Mr. Chambers will represent the food administration.

Another division, of purchases, maintenance, and construction, probably will be created, but it is understood the assistant in charge of this work has not yet been selected.

The heads of each of these divisions will organize the work assigned to him throughout the country and in general will utilize the agencies already organized by the railroads under private management.

Toledo Traction, Light and Power.

J. D. B.—The $10,500,000 of 7 per cent bonds being issued by the Toledo Traction, Light and Power company are secured by first lien on practically all the property, its replacement value being largely in excess of the debt. The bonds are being issued to retire $8,699,000 of first lien bonds which mature on Feb. 1 and to cover part of the cost of extensions built in the last few years. Gross and net earnings of this company have increased steadily for years and net is now at the rate of more than twice the interest on these bonds. The bonds run only two years, the company evidently hoping to refund them at a lower rate in 1920. They are well secured and a most attractive investment.

Gillette Safety Razor.

A. O. H.—The Gillette Safety Razor company reincorporated last fall, issuing 190,000 shares of no par value at $80 a share and $6,000,000 of convertible notes and reserved 60,000 shares for conversion of the notes. It paid a quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on Dec. 1 and reported net earnings from Sept. 20 to Nov. 1, at $665,970, which is at the rate of nearly $30 a share a year before war tax and depreciation. Recently it was announced that the plant of the company's Canadian subsidiary in Montreal would be enlarged to five times its present capacity to care for increasing business.

Chicago City Railway.

C. B. E.—The Chicago City Railway company has outstanding $18,000,000 of stock and its latest published balance sheet showed $33,900,000 of first mortgage bonds. Since then it has applied for permission to issue $2,000,000 more to pay for improvements and extensions. The earnings applicable to bond interest cover it about twice.

Brief Answers.

W. J. P.—The National Conduit and Cable company, a consolidation formed nearly a year ago, paid an initial dividend of $1 a share in July, a similar one in October, and decided to make no payment in January, accompanying this action with a statement that "the company is in excellent financial condition."

M. L.—Great Northern so-called "preferred" is really common stock. If congress adopts the railroad plan of the government, the 7 per cent dividend will be assured, with an annual surplus of 3 or 4 per cent more, during the period of the government control.

O. H. H.—The National Security and Trust company furnishes no data on which an opinion of the merits of its stock can be based.

C. D.—American Mineral Production and Perfection Tire have been reviewed. Send stamped envelope for copy if you wish it.

H. W. H.—The Motor Car Securities company has been reviewed. Send stamped envelope for a copy if you wish it.
